LEGION TO TAKE A VOTE TODAY ON PROHIBITION

Wets Force Battle to the Floor.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The American Legion tomorrow will go on record for or against prohibition.

Resolutions to be submitted at the convention sessions tomorrow were drafted today by the resolutions committee. The majority of the committee, by a vote of 25 to 19, voted to submit a resolution condemning the 18th amendment, and calling upon congress to request each of the states to hold a referendum on the repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

A minority report will be submitted, embodying a resolution holding that the Legion should not take any stand on the prohibition question.

Both resolutions will go before the assembled Legionnaires tomorrow, and a stormy session is predicted when discussion is opened. It is understood that Scott Lucas of Illinois, former national judge advocate, will take the floor to lead the fight for the majority resolution.

Beer Proposal Also Made.

During today's session Howard P. Savage of Chicago, former national commander of the Legion, electrified the convention with a suggestion he made as chairman of the Legion's national employment commission.

He proposed that congress legalize beer, without changing the 18th amendment, so that many thousands of jobs may be opened to Americans, and unemployment be relieved. He was cheered and the convention hall rang long and loud with the enthusiasm of the Legionnaires.

The majority resolution which the convention will consider tomorrow follows:

"Whereas, the 18th amendment of the constitution of the United States has created a condition endangering respect for law and the security of American institutions, now,

"Therefore, be it resolved that the American Legion in convention assembled favors the submission by congress of the repeal or modification of the present prohibition laws to the several states with a request that each state submit this question to the voters thereof."

Minority Report.

The minority resolution follows:

"We believe that the American Legion can best serve America and fulfill its true purposes by directing its thought and energies to the solution of problems arising in fields wherein the Legion admittedly is especially qualified to speak, such as rehabilitation, including relations between our government and the veterans, their dependents, widows and orphans, and national defense.

"And since the problem of prohibition and enforcement is a question about which war veterans are no better qualified to speak than nonveterans, now, therefore, be it resolved, that the American Legion, as an organization, should not take action, one way or the other, on this question."

All States Represented.

All of the 48 states, and 5 other departments of the Legion, are represented on the resolutions committee, and the vote upon the majority resolution may give some indication of the sentiment of the delegations who will vote their strength on the convention floor tomorrow.

Representatives from 44 of the 53 departments were present and voting on the resolution. Those supporting the resolution were from:

Alabama, California, Connecticut, District of Columbia, France, Illinois, Italy, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, England, Montana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Panama, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin.

The department representatives opposed to the wet resolution, most of whom are expected to sign the minority report, were from the following states:

Four Proposals in Committee.

When the resolutions committee first took up the prohibition question they had four proposals which had been drafted by a subcommittee. They were, first, for repeal of the 18th amendment: second, for modification

Slickers Work New Fraud on Busy Rich Men

A new confidence scheme was disclosed yesterday in which forged pledged cards are presented to busy business men who are unable to remember whether or not they signed them, but prefer to pay rather than argue about a donation to charity.

The two exponents of the novel scheme were in a detective bureau cell last night. They confessed and told how they had taken thousands of dollars from prominent New York, Detroit, and Chicago business men. The prisoners are Joseph Hamilton, 40 years old, 1131 Webb avenue, Detroit, and Harvey L. Davis, 30 years old, 905 North State street, who recently came to Chicago from Detroit.

Hamilton told police he was wanted in New York for confidence games he has worked in the name of church charities, labor unions and other organizations. He is a former soldier and a world traveler, he said. Both he and Davis preferred to be tried in Chicago.

Tells How Victims Pay.

The victims, Hamilton stated, when presented with their own signatures, would usually say they could not recall signing the card, but would pay with the explanation that they signed so many things they could not remember them all. Occasionally a rich man would pay immediately without a comment. Some of the cards were paid by secretaries without bothering busy executives.

Among the Chicago men on the list of the two swindlers were Abraham Meyer, an attorney with offices at 208 South La Salle street; Leonard S. Florsheim, a financier with offices at 231 South La Salle street; Addison L. Gardner, 134 South La Salle street, an attorney, and Stanley Case, 1049 Euclid avenue.

Recovers Money from Bank.

Mr. Meyer was approached in his office by Hamilton, who bore a card, apparently signed by the lawyer, pledging $100 to the National Guard. Mr. Meyer made out a check payable to the National Guard instead of to Hamilton, as the latter had requested. Later the National Guard check was cashed on a forged signature, and Mr. Meyer recovered the $100 from the bank. Mr. Florsheim was defrauded of $100 by a similar trick. Neither Mr. Gardner nor Mr. Chase lost any money.

Both Hamilton and Davis were arrested in the Brevoort hotel last night by Lieut. James Kerr and Sergt. Harvey Guynn of the detective bureau. Davis had been arrested previously on the complaint of Mr. Gardner and was out on bail pending the hearing of his case on Oct. 9 in Felony court. A National Guard official followed Davis after his release from custody and notified the police that both swindlers could be found in the hotel lobby.

2 STENCH BOMBS AROUSE 1,800 IN NO. SIDE THEATER

Two stench bombs set off in the aisles of the Granada theater, 6427 Sheridan road, last night created considerable excitement among the 1,800 persons witnessing the show and brought a squad of Rogers Park police, under Sergt. William Beehan, to the scene in double quick time.

When the offensive odor filled the theater about 500 of the patrons rushed for the exits and stormed the ticket windows demanding their money back. The presence of the police quieted the crowd. The 1,300 other patrons remained in the theater while the ventilating system cleared the air.

Howard Potter, manager of the theater, told the police that the picture house had had no labor troubles, and David Balaban, district manager for Balaban and Katz, who control the theater, said that the house was not involved in the dispute with the operators or musicians.

A bomb was exploded earlier in the day at the rear of the Harrison theater, 503 South Kedzie avenue, a house involved in the conflict between the operators and the theater owners. Damage was placed at $400.

Both union and operators' officials said yesterday they would be willing to consider arbitration of the dispute, but no definite action was taken.

WOMEN HELD UP; ONE FAINTS; LOOT IS $4,180 IN GEMS

Two women, a mother and a daughter, were robbed of jewelry valued at $4,180 and $15 in cash last night in front of 1632 South Turner avenue by three automobile bandits. The mother, Mrs. Celia Adler of 1811 South Spaulding avenue, fainted when accosted by the bandits, one of whom pointed a pistol at her. She knew no more about the holdup until her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Krone of 1935 South Homan avenue, revived her after the robbers had departed.

The two women were walking to the home of Mrs. Adler after attending a neighborhood party. As they arrived in front of the Turner avenue address a small coupe drove up to the curb near them. Two of the three bandits leaped out and ordered the women to hold up their hands.

While Mrs. Adler was unconscious the bandits took $7 from her purse and removed a ring from one of her fingers. They took $8, a bracelet, and four rings from Mrs. Krone.

Two Flyers Seek to Better Hawks' Record to Havana

Newark, N. J., Sept. 24.—[Thursday]—(AP)—Capt. Ugo V. De Annunzio and Lou Reicher took off from municipal airport at 2:45 a. m. today on a flight in which they hope to better the record of Capt. Frank Hawks between here and Havana, Cuba.

Akron, O., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Akron was taken upon her first flight today and came down safely three hours and 47 minutes later the proved mistress of the air.

The flight was the first test for the world's largest dirigible, built here for the United States navy, and the Akron went through it in a manner highly pleasing to navy officials.

The cigar shaped ship, her silver hull glistening under a bright sun, cruised about this section of northeastern Ohio, floated over downtown Cleveland and returned to the Municipal airport here at dusk.

Lands After Dark.

The only unscheduled part of the flight came in landing the giant ship after darkness had fallen. Apparently misjudging the altitude the first time, the Akron circled the field twice before she was fastened securely to her portable mooring mast.

It was estimated the ship flew approximately 125 miles. The flight, made under perfect weather conditions which prevailed after several days of waiting, was the first of a series to be made before the ship is turned over to the navy and fitted with her armament. Another of the flights may be made tomorrow, it was announced.

Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, former skipper of the Los Angeles and a survivor of the wreck of the Shenandoah six years ago, was in command of the Akron.

Notables Aboard.

Aboard were Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, in charge of the naval bureau of aeronautics; David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation, builders of the Akron.

In all the ship carried 113 men, the most ever carried in the air in America and believed by navy officials to be the largest passenger list of any airship in the world.

Weather experts gave the word today and shortly after 2 p. m. the ground crew of 250 began walking the huge ship—785 feet long and having 6,500,000 cubic feet of lifting gas capacity—out of her dock.

The crew, previously rehearsed, took her out with precision, tail first, with the motors of the portable mooring mast pushing her. Once through the huge "orange peel" gates of the hangar, so called because of their shape, the dirigible was veered around until she nosed into the southwest breeze.

While a crowd variously estimated at 100,000 to 200,000 watched from the hillsides near the airport, the ship was cut loose from the mooring mast and floated lazily upwards.

More Cuts in Wages Made; Labor Storms

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Industry carried the process of wage readjustment further today following the initiative of the United States Steel corporation, which yesterday announced that it had ordered a 10 per cent reduction in wages rates effective Oct. 1. The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, fourth largest unit in the industry, announced it will reduce wages an average of 10 per cent on the same date. According to reports from Denver, the Colorado Fuel and Iron company soon will effect a reduction of 10 per cent.

WILLIAM GREEN.

The major copper companies operating in Arizona have ordered a reduction of 9.1 per cent in wages, also effective Oct. 1. Among the companies participating are the Phelps-Dodge corporation and the Calumet and Arizona Mining company, which are being merged; the United Verde Copper company and the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company, a subsidiary of Anaconda.

May Hire More Men.

An official of one of the large copper companies said that in view of the fact that miners are working only from three to six days a week it was hoped that it would be possible to give married men with families additional work.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is establishing the working forces in its refineries on a five day week basis of forty hours. Last winter the company effected a 10 per cent reduction in operating expenses.

Directors of the Northern Pacific Railway company approved reductions in the salaries of officers of from 10 to 25 per cent.

The B. F. Goodrich company announced a 10 per cent reduction in hours of work for salaried employes and a corresponding reduction in pay.

The General Refractories company, which manufactures fire brick, announced a wage cut "similar to that effected by other industries."

The Pepperell company of Boston, textile manufacturers, announced a pay reduction of 10 per cent.

Washington Is Stirred.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—With the federal government gravely pondering the possibilities of the turn toward lower wages, organized labor condemned the action of the steel corporations tonight as a betrayal of faith.

At the capitol, one of the administration powers in the house, Representative Wood of Indiana, called the pay reductions "the best thing that can possibly happen to the wage earners themselves."

Commodity prices have been going

SOVIETS RESENT SURPRISE DRIVE INTO MANCHURIA

GENEVA.—Council of league of nations goes into secret session to seek means to prevent war. Urges Japan to permit neutral commission, including American delegates, to investigate situation. Leaders see fate of league at stake, with little prospect of effective action.

BY DONALD DAY.

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 23.—The Moscow government radio station tonight reported that M. M. Litvinov, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, and H. M. Karakhan, assistant commissar for eastern affairs, received the Japanese minister today and informed him that because Japan had begun to occupy Manchuria, without notifying Russia, the soviet government was forced to take steps to defend her interests in Manchuria, which, they said, are equally as large as Japan's.

Litvinov expressed the soviet government's surprise that Japan had taken this step without notifying Russia, since relations between Tokio and Moscow to date had been friendly, and that with Russia as an intermediary the Mukden conflict could have been settled through compromise.

Protests Flights Over Siberia.

He concluded with an energetic protest against the flights during the last few days by Japanese war planes across the Manchurian-Siberian frontier over the Trans-Siberian railroad.

The Moscow Pravda, official Russian newspaper, charged today that the Japanese action in occupying Manchuria had been planned for years and that the recent Chinese-Corean riots in Manchuria were part of the provocation.

The Krasnaija Svesda, official organ of the Russian army, in a more warlike tone said today that Japanese appetite threatens to devour Manchuria, and that the soviet government's interests there will not permit this step.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

NANKING, Sept. 23.—Messages from Harbin today confirmed reports here that the Russian consul general there had notified Japanese authorities that Moscow considers the occupation of Changchun, northern terminus of the South Manchurian railway, an unfriendly act and is dispatching troops to protect the soviet's half interest in the Chinese Eastern railway. The war commissar is flying from Moscow to Manchuria.

Nanking is filled with rumors that it is possible that the Chinese government may ask Russian aid to effect eviction of the Japanese from Manchuria.

The city of Taonan, northwest of Changchun, is the latest point in Manchuria to be occupied by Japanese troops, according to wireless advices received here by Japanese naval ships. This city is far north of the previous point penetrated by the Japanese forces.

Observe "Humiliation Day."

Thousands of frenzied Chinese participated in anti-Japanese demonstrations here today as part of the program for "National Humiliation Day" to show resentment against the Japanese occupation of Manchurian cities. While fever was at a high pitch, no violence was reported at a late hour tonight, due to extreme police precautions.

Before 7 o'clock this morning more than a dozen groups of demonstrators were parading Nanking's streets, shouting anti-Japanese slogans, and distributing anti-Japanese posters. All flags in the city, from government buildings to the humblest shops and mud huts, were at half staff. Thousands wore mourning sleeve bands. Hundreds of policemen cycled through the streets to maintain order.

Shake Fists Against Japanese.

Toward 1 o'clock the situation became menacing. Streets were congested with marchers, ranging from boy and girl scouts to political clubs, labor unions, students and even aged women with bound feet. Inflammatory banners were borne aloft on long bamboo poles. One immense flag showed Manchuria in black lines on white cloth, with great blots of red showing where Chinese blood has been spilled.

There was shouting and fist waving and here and there were self-appointed yell leaders, their faces distorted in hysterical wrath, inciting the crowds to chant, "dadjang, dadjang," meaning "'war, war'."

The authorities, however, had placed companies of picked soldiers, fully armed, to march between the various sections of parades with strict orders to prevent overt acts, while at frequent intervals in every block the bayonets of military sentries glistened in the sun.

Shout "On to Tokio."

At a gigantic meeting at Kuomintang headquarters, attended by 70,000 people, excited auditors in patriotic speeches shouted slogans "On to Mukden!" and "On to Tokio!"

By sunset the marching of anti-Japanese demonstrators had altogether ceased, the day having passed without a clash. Nanking military and police carefully prohibited paraders from entering the section of Nanking near the ancient Drumtower, near which the Japanese consulate is located.

Last night a mob of young students staged a demonstration at the gates of the Japanese consular grounds, but they were soon scattered by Chinese police guards.

Japanese Explain Stand.

It was officially announced by Japanese authorities here today that extension of the area under Japanese military occupation is not considered a violation of the Tokio cabinet's resolution following the first Mukden clash instructing that the incident be "localized."

It is considered that by occupying south Manchuria, order is assured and anti-Japanese violence made impossible, which the Japanese declare "localizes the issue." Had widespread rioting followed the Mukden occupation, the Japanese insist, fundamental dispute with China would have become more difficult of final solution.

President Chiang Kai-shek today offered to turn over to Hu Han-min, former Nationalist government official and now a leader of the Canton rebel faction, all of his civilian positions. Hu is described as having received the offer coldly. This gesture by Chiang is considered an overture to placate the Canton secessionists.

Report Three Americans Slain.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The telegraphen union said tonight Chinese Nationalist circles in Berlin have received telegrams stating that three American citizens were killed at Mukden, Manchuria, by Japanese soldiers. The names of those reported killed were not given, but it was said they were employes of the British-American Tobacco company.

[State department officials at Washington last night said they had received no information of Americans having been killed in Manchuria. They said official advices from the American minister to China and the various consuls in the affected region have indicated that both Japanese and Chinese are carefully safeguarding American citizens and property.]

Japan Claims Troops Withdraw.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 23.—The Japanese foreign office announced today that the occupation by Japanese troops of positions outside the South Manchurian railway zone had been halted and withdrawal of the forces is now under way. The foreign office added that reports of occupation by Japanese troops of territory beyond the South Manchurian railway zone had been greatly exaggerated.

The Japanese troops, according to the announcement, must have been ordered to evacuate all points except Mukden, capital of Manchuria; the strategic city of Kirin, Changchun, the northern terminal of the South Manchurian railway and the scene of a fierce battle several days ago, in which the casualties were estimated at 400, and the city of Antung.

Japan to Make Complete Exposé.

The government announced that a formal announcement on Japan's position in Manchuria will be made within a day or two. It is anticipated that this announcement will also reply to the league of nations' proposal that Japan withdraw all her troops immediately.

Meanwhile the government was nonplussed by China's rejection of Tokio's offer yesterday to accept the suggestion of T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, that a joint commission be appointed to investigate and settle the Manchurian dispute. China explained that Mr. Soong's suggestion had been purely informal, and had not been authorized by the government, and that Mr. Soong had repudiated the proposal in view of developments since it was made.

Well informed sources said the Japanese cabinet was uncertain as to the next step, in view of the fact that it refuses to permit the league of nations or any other third party to interfere in the situation. China insists that the league settle the dispute.

U. S. CALLS UPON CHINA AND JAPAN TO END WARFARE

Draws Attention to Arms Treaty Terms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Formal notes urging Japan and China to cease hostilities in Manchuria and withdraw their troops from the present situation of danger were handed to the diplomatic representatives of Japan and China today by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

The notes carry an American request that both powers "continue earnestly to work for the restoration of peace" were sent after Secretary Stimson had orally made similar suggestions to Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to this country, and Yung Kwai, Chinese counselor and acting minister.

At the same time the state department notified the league of nations of its action and assured that body of the "whole hearted sympathy" of the United States with the peace efforts of the league in the Manchurian crisis. A note answering the league communication of yesterday, in which the state department was advised that the council of the league of nations had addressed an urgent appeal to the governments of China and Japan to abstain from every act liable to aggravate the situation, was made public tonight.

Based on Arms Treaty.

The state department is understood to have based its move in the Chinese-Japanese crisis on the consultative clauses of the nine power treaty negotiated at the 1922 Washington arms conference. It is also considered probable that Mr. Stimson called the attention of Japan and China to the fact that they were signatories of the Kellogg anti-war pact.

The nine power pact was designed to "stabilize conditions in the far east, to safeguard the rights and interests of China, and to promote intercourse between China and the other powers upon the basis of equity of opportunity."

Article 1 provides that the signatory powers, which includes Japan, will agree "to respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China."

The decision of the state department to act came after dispatches from American representatives in the orient had emphasized the seriousness of the situation and had made it clear that the activities represented something more than merely scrapping between troops.

U. S. POSTOFFICE FIXES VALUE OF POUND AT $4.40

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Departure of England from the gold standard was reflected today by a reduction in the conversion rate of American postal money orders. The postoffice department ruled that effective Thursday the rate of money orders issued in the United States and payable in pounds in Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Irish Free State, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa will be $4.40 per pound instead of $4.87, the gold standard rate.

Baby Killed by Wagon Driven by His Father

Coldwater, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Merald, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hughey, farmers at Mendon, near here, was killed when his head was crushed beneath the wheel of a gravel wagon driven by his father. The child had climbed on the wheel unbeknown to the parent.

Boy Finds Mother Slain Near Where She Worked

Minot, N. D., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A 13 year old boy who awakened to find his mother absent early today found her slain near the rooming house where she worked as housekeeper. The victim was Mrs. Dena Korchenko, 37.

RUSSIANS PICTURE OVERTHROW SOON OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 23.—After 13 years of unceasing intrigues, plots, and secret diplomacy, all directed towards the achievement of Nicolai Lenin's dream—to overthrow the British Empire, which he declared would bring chaos to Europe and a world revolution—Moscow's hopes are approaching realization, according to Pravda, official organ of the Russian Communist party. This paper for years has branded Great Britain as being bolshevism's deadliest enemy.

"Danger has appeared from a point where it was least expected," Pravda says. "Class differences have arisen where they have been most strongly forbidden to appear. British sailors have left their floating fortress and have demonstrated in the streets of port towns and have dealt a terrific blow to England's oldest tradition.

"Naturally, we can not discuss the actual uprising in the fleet, but the fact remains a fact, and British imperialism is shaking under the blows of a crisis."

JAPANESE SHOPS ATTACKED BY MOB OF 1,000 CHINESE

British Police Fight Rioters in Hongkong.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23.—A Chinese mob, numbering 1,000 persons, attacked Japanese shops in Hongkong tonight. British Indan police suppressed the rioting after an hour of fighting, but scattered disorders continued until a late hour.

Meanwhile, China continues to depend upon the league of nations to save her from Japanese encroachment in Manchuria. Russia still sits on the side lines. It is considered possible that she may be willing to assist China only to the extent of saving her half interest in the Chinese Eastern railway, although even this is doubtful.

Corean residents in Shanghai today met to protest the occupation of Manchuria and urged China to fight, saying that 20,000,000 Coreans will help them.

Doubt March on Harbin.

Although some reports say Japanese troops are marching upon Harbin, it is considered unlikely that the Japanese will go further north than Changchun, since they evidently wish to avoid giving the soviets any excuse to enter China.

The central executive committee at Nanking today issued a manifesto urging unity and calmness, but it stated also that the invasion still continues. The manifesto added that it is absolutely necessary for China to unite and follow a common course, since the national strength is sadly undermined by civil distirbances.

Every other matter must be subordinated to national salvation, and all people must make every preparation for supreme sacrifice, the appeal continues.

Charge Japanese Loot City.

Military telegrams assert that the city of Kirin was captured without resistance by the Chipese, yet after the Chinese troops had retired an orgy of looting and destruction by the Japanese followed.

Japanese warships and marines are at Chinwangtao. Americans and Britishers are also there as observers.

The Shantung provincial government is making every effort to maintain order by protecting the extensive Japanese colonies. Japanese warships have reached southern Chinese ports, while fourteen Japanese gunboats are patrolling the Yangtze river as far as Chungking.

FAILURE TO CURB JAPAN WORRIES LEAGUE LEADERS

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—The Chinese-Japanese crisis in Manchuria tonight was declared to have developed into by far the gravest situation the league of nations has yet faced. With its soberest officials fearing not merely war in Manchuria but that the very existence of both the Briand-Kellogg pact and the league itself are at stake, all eyes here are still turned on Washington, but much more anxiously than last night.

Official word from Washington, giving its attitude toward the Chinese-Japanese conflict, reached the league late this afternoon. According to observers, its effects were manifestly to weaken the council's authority while strengthening the Japanese in their refusal to accept any of the council's proposals with a view to preventing aggravation of the conflict and peacefully settling it. America's response caused general disappointment and gloomy forebodings.

Cable Appeal to Tokio.

The public meeting of the council, announced for 6:30 o'clock this afternoon to consider the Manchurian dispute, was abruptly turned into a strictly secret session lasting two hours. At that meeting, with the greatest difficulty, the council persuaded M. K. Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, to agree to telegraph his government at Tokio asking if it would accept appointment of a "neutral" commission to visit Manchuria and investigate the situation there. He agreed, however, only on condition that the telegram be sent by him in his personal capacity and not by the council on its authority.

It is considered significant that yesterday he agreed with much less difficulty to telegraph Tokio a somewhat similar proposal on authority of the council. The Japanese delegation explained tonight that they had received no answer to this first telegram, nor had they yet received any instruction whatever. The fact, none the less, that they attended tonight's council meeting was their greatest concession today, for yesterday Yoshizawa strongly insisted that the council should not hold another meeting until he had received instructions.

China May Take Stronger Action.

Another result was that Dr. Sze, Chinese delegate, tonight would not deny that the Chinese delegation is contemplating the serious action of asking the council to act under Article 15 of the covenant in addition to Article 11. Article 15 applies to disputes likely to lead to a rupture and requires the council to make a full investigation. It would also make it no longer necessary for the council, under the unanimity rule, to obtain the consent of both disputants, as it must now.

The Chinese delegation, which appears greatly disappointed both by Washington's attitude and the council's slowness, is also contemplating getting around the present unanimity bar by another means—asking that the council "recommend" the names of members of a committee to visit a certain part of Chinese territory, namely the part of Manchuria occupied by Japanese troops, and see what is going on there.

The committee about which Yoshizawa tonight telegraphed Tokio is described as a "neutral" instead of a league committee, it is understood, to make it easier for the United States to participate.

Several good sources confirm the following version of Washington's views: Washington is said to be moved by two main considerations. One is that the administration fears to act openly and strongly with the league council in a peace move, because of the traditional attitude of the Republican party toward the league. The other is that it fears action under the covenant to be so strong that at best it ought not be resorted to just yet, for it would now be liable to weaken instead of strengthen Foreign Minister Shidehara in his efforts to bring the Japanese military party to reason.

Britain Shows Confidence as Stock Exchange Reopens

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Great Britain, having suspended the gold standard, began today to push forward in full stride.

SIR JOSIAH STAMP.

The confidence with which the nation is facing the future was indicated by the trading on the London Stock exchange, which was reopened after being closed two days while Britons and the world were readjusting themselves to the new pound sterling.

Bankers declared the operations on the exchange showed a general restoration of confidence in the essential soundness of the British position. There was no excitement. The floor was crowded as usual and trading began as if nothing had happened since the last opening on Saturday.

Industrial Stocks Rise.

Gilt edged government stocks showed some decline. The war loan fell from 97½ Saturday to 94, Victory 4 per cents dropped from 92 to 91½, and so on, but industrials all showed a marked advance, based on the hopes of better export trade resulting from the ditching of the gold standard. For instance, Great Western Railway rose from 35½ to 43, Courtaulds [silk] from 26 shillings and tenpence halfpenny to 33 shillings and ninepence, and Coats [sewing cotton] from 34 shillings and sixpence to 43 shillings and ninepence. All through the industrial list similar rises were registered.

Fine gold also rose to 100 shillings an ounce, and all commodity prices showed substantial advances.

Bank Chief Returns.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, returned from a five weeks' visit in Canada to London today silently if not as secretly as he left. He landed at Liverpool by a special tender which took him off the liner Duchess of Bedford. As he was rushed to a waiting train he did not say anything to newspaper reporters except that it was a fine day. At Euston station, London, greater precautions were taken to protect him than are usually taken to protect the king. A barrier of porters stood across the platform, marshaled by two sergeants of police, who allowed no one to pass but Sir Josiah Stamp, chairman of the Midland railway and a director of the Bank of England. When the train stopped Sir Josiah, who rumor says will succeed Mr. Norman as head of the Bank of England, entered Mr. Norman's compartment and conferred with him.

Mr. Norman, it is understood, will not be a candidate for reëlection when nominations are made in November. He may not even complete his present term, which expires in April, because of the condition of his health.

Political Situation at Standstill.

Politically the situation is at a standstill pending Prime Minister MacDonald's return from his rest in the country. Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative premier, is acting premier, which only means that he is leading the government's forces in the house of commons. No cabinet meetings are to be held before next Monday, when Mr. MacDonald is due to return. It is expected then that he will make some pronouncement about the demand of the back bench Tories for a general election, with the tariff as an issue.

Great pressure is being brought by financiers and industrialists to persuade the government to avoid an election. If it is decided necessary to introduce a tariff, they urged that it be adopted by the existing parliament.

The government's new finance bill—a supplementary budget imposing additional taxes—passed on second reading in the house of commons tonight by a vote of 297 to 238.

The Labor party's main argument for rejection as interpreted by F. W. Pethick-Lawrence, former Labor undersecretary of the treasury, was that Britain's suspension of the gold standard has withdrawn the foundations of the government's proposals for new taxation and economy measures, and that burdens of the tax payers have been vastly increased by the fall of the gold standard.

Sir John Simon, replied that abandonment of the gold standard made new budget demands and economies more necessary.

"Britain must not plunge into chaos," he declared.

Italy to Keep Lira Pegged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 23.—Special editions of newspapers were issued tonight with big headlines on a government communique stating that the Italian government has no intention of reverting from the gold stabilization of the lira fixed by law in 1927.

Fluctuations of lira quotations against the dollar, which in over the counter trading yesterday and today dropped down to 21 lire, whereas normal quotations are around 19, were explained to be a result of purely speculative activities and in no wise a reverberation of England's abandonment of the gold standard.

Nevertheless the Bank of Italy apparently took steps to obstruct any continuance of these activities by offering to sell dollars telegraphically at 19.75, thus preventing trading at other banks at a higher figure. Reports from stock exchanges in Milan, Turin, and Genoa, Italy's financial center, indicated only fractional fluctuations today.

Africa Seeks Dollar Exchange.

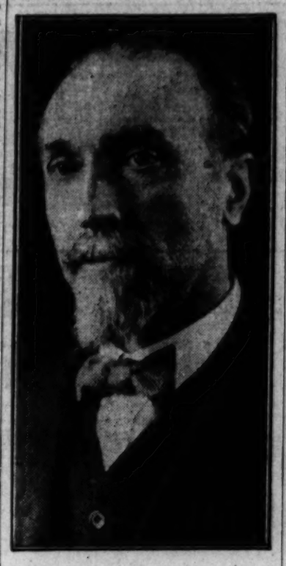
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 23.—The British government's decision to suspend the gold standard is causing concern among South African firms dealing with American companies. A demand is being revived in the principal centers for a direct exchange between South Africa and New York.

Business men here object to paying for American goods in depreciated sterling. When sterling slumped several years ago South African importers suffered heavily because they received only 15 shillings' worth of American goods for a pound.

There is a keen demand for dollar drafts in Cape Town, Durban, and Johannesburg banks. Drafts have been refused, however, because the rate of exchange is not yet fixed between the two countries.

TO RETIRE



Montagu Norman, who is to retire as governor of Bank of England at end of his present term.

BRITISH LEADERS QUESTION GANDHI FOR TWO HOURS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23. — Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, paid his second visit to the house of commons tonight to address a meeting of members of all British parties. He pleaded for complete independence for India. Hundreds of questions were fired at the mahatma, who answered them for nearly two hours.

Miss Slade Left Out of Will.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Miss Madeline Slade, daughter of an English admiral, who forsook her high position to become a lowly disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, was not mentioned in the will of her mother, published today.

Lady Slade bequeathed an estate of about $50,000 to another daughter, Mrs. Edward Vernon. Miss Slade said that she had requested the omission of her name from the will and that it met with her whole-hearted approval.

"Many years ago when I first became a disciple of Mr. Gandhi," she said, "I took a vow of celibacy and nonpossession. Therefore it goes without saying that inheritance of worldly wealth from my mothers's estate would be contrary to my code of living."

A. of C. President Invites Premier Laval to Chicago

Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, yesterday cabled Premier Pierre Laval of France an invitation to include Chicago in his itinerary when he comes to the United States to confer with President Hoover on the world depression. Premier Laval, who is interested personally in cattle raising and agriculture, has already expressed a wish to visit Chicago, the center of middle western agriculture.

...LL NOT HALT ...ORK GOING ON IN ...L S. SHIPYARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

...Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—...ecretary of State Henry L. Stimson today disclosed that the United States does not now contemplate adherence to any armaments holiday which would halt work now going on in American shipyards. He stated that the United States also desires to except a certain number of destroyers, not yet laid down, from the operation of any agreement.

...RY L. WILSON.

The American view on naval building now under way was made by Mr. Stimson in commenting on a speech delivered before the league assembly at Geneva today by Hugh R. Wilson, American minister at Berne and this country's representative on the league council considering an arms building holiday.

In the speech Mr. Wilson announced that the United States stood ready to enter an agreement halting all new armaments and would even go to the extent of suspending ...ding down new cruisers and other ...ilding provided in the American con...ruction program but not yet on the ...ways.

...rnson Position Interpreted.

...The United States will go as far as any other power in stopping land and ...r construction, not yet under way, ...t will voluntarily halt its plans to ...ld two aircraft carriers, two ...ht gun cruisers, and a number of ...stroyers and submarines not yet au...orized but which congress was to ...ve power to approve this winter.

...The country will continue construct...g eight 8 inch gun cruisers whose ...ls have been laid down, one air...aft carrier 7 per cent completed, ...o submarines now on the ways, ...d a certain number of destroyers. ...ongress has appropriations for eleven ...stroyers. Bids for their construction ...ve been opened, but contracts are ...iting President Hoover's decision ...as to whether or not to halt the build...g of four or five of them on economy ...ounds. Outside of the new destroy...s no new warships would be laid ...wn by the United States during the ...ar of the holiday.

"...t a Nature Acceptable."

...In general, I may say that the ...oposals relating to land and air ...ems to me to be practicable and ...ould seem acceptable to my govern...ent," Mr. Wilson said in his address ...fore the league in outlining the ...erican views on a naval holiday.

...You all know that matters touch...g naval armament are of vital con...rn to us.

...The United States navy depart...ent has asked for, received, and ...ow bids for construction on a ...imited number of destroyers. These ...estroyers are the first ships in this ...ategory that the United States is ...oking for over a period of ten years ...d are destined to replace existing ...ships tonnage in that category. ...ese contracts will be allocated in ...fferent sections of the country in ...nnection with a general program of ...employment relief. This particular ...nstruction we cannot undertake to ...o under present conditions."

Again Delays Parity.

...Participation by the United States ...a agreement for a one year arms ...onstruction holiday, which affected ...ships not laid down or in process ...being contracted for would indefi...itely postpone the day when this ...ountry would attain tonnage parity ...th Great Britain. It would also act ...delay the inauguration of a pro...am by this country to build up to ...e tonnage levels permitted by the ...aval treaty, as, with a limitation confer...nce going on at Geneva, a naval holi...ay under way and the pacifists out in ...force, there would be virtually no ...ance for the navy to obtain con...ressional authorization for any of ...e 222,000 tons of aircraft carriers, ...ght gun cruisers, submarines, and ...stroyers which the treaty permits ...be laid down and complete before ...ec. 31, 1936.

...If an authorization for these ships ...s passed during the long session of ...ongress such legislation almost cer...inly would fall before the pacifist ...ilibuster in the following short session. ...Even the effect of a one year holiday ...ould be to postpone the beginning ...f any of the 223,00 tons of ships prob...bly until 1934 or 1935, just before ...ew treaty powers are scheduled to meet ...n Geneva. This would mean that the ...United States would enter the next ...conference handicapped by having ...none but steel ships as trading ma...terial.

COOL WEATHER COMES AS AUTUMN ARRIVES

After the mercury had reached the 80 degree mark earlier in the day a shift in the wind yesterday brought temperatures appropriate for the official entry of autumn at 7:24 o'clock last night. 48 CHURCHMEN SIGN A SOLEMN PACIFIST PLEDGE

Dispatch Memorial to Hoover.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Forty-eight well known churchmen from all sections of the United States have signed a petition addressed to President Hoover and congress, declaring their adherence to pacifism.

The first paragraph of the proclamation announced that the signers were forced to their stand by the decisions of the Supreme court denying citizenship to those refusing to take the oath to bear arms for the nation; also that they firmly sided with the conviction of those so denied.

The decisions were in the cases of Prof. Douglas C. Macintosh, professor of theology at Yale divinity school, and Miss Marie H. Bland, trained nurse, both Canadians. Each of these had served with Canadian forces in the world war.

It was stated that some of the signers of the document would not perform any kind of combatant service in time of war. Others declared their inability to support the government before careful consideration of the moral issues involved in a struggle with any other nation.

Chicagoans on Rôle.

Among the signers from the middle west were Robert A. Ashworth, editor, The Baptist, Chicago; William H. Boddy, minister First Presbyterian church, Chicago; Ban B. Brummitt, editor, Northwestern Christian Advocate, Chicago; Hugh L. Burleson, bishop of South Dakota, Protestant Episcopal church; Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the chapel, University of Chicago; Paul Hutchinson, managing editor, the Christian Century, Chicago.

Louis L. Mann, rabbi, Sinai temple, Chicago.

C. C. Morrison, editor, the Christian Century.

Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, president, Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, Detroit.

Fosdick Among Signers.

Among the New Yorkers who signed the proclamation were:

President Henry Sloan Coffin of Union Theological seminary; the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of Riverside church, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, Community church, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Free synagogue.

Wilmette Coast Guard Chief to Go to Duluth

Capt. Otto W. Fricke, commander of the Wilmette coast guard for the last nine years, was notified yesterday that his request for a transfer had been granted and that he will take command of the Duluth coast guard station on Oct. 15. He sought the transfer because no living quarters were available at the new Wilmette station for his family. His successor has not been named.

Wind Shifts

Autumn began officially in Chicago at 7:24 o'clock last evening, and the thermometer dropped in keeping with the departure of summer. Forecaster W. P. Day warned that southern Wisconsin would probably feel light frosts by this morning, and that the mercury would continue to fall in the Chicago region.

Cloudy skies over Chicago will clear this morning, but the temperature will remain lower, with a brisk northeast wind in prospect, Mr. Day said.

Summer had its final fling yesterday when a warm sun sent the temperature to 80 degrees at noon. The wind, shifting from southwest to northeast, lowered it rapidly during the evening.

VALUE ESTATE OF F. C. AUSTIN AT ONE MILLION

The late Frederick C. Austin, philanthropist and financier, left an estate of approximately $1,000,000 it was revealed yesterday when an inventory was approved by Nuncio J. Bonnelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The entire estate is left to Northwestern university under the will. Mr. Austin died at Pasadena, Cal., on June 11. He was 75 years old.

Included in the estate is $32,793 in cash, notes and mortgages amounting to $408,455, stocks valued at $226,509, and bonds quoted at $136,114. Among the stocks listed were 1,478 shares in the National City bank of New York, 200 shares of United States Steel, 100 each of Union Carbide, General Electric, and American Can, 200 shares of Westinghouse Electric, and 500 of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company.

In his will which was probated shortly after his death Mr. Austin specified that the money should be used for scholarships to aid business students. He made no provision in his will for his heirs, explaining that he had provided for them before his death.

Body of Salesman Found in Lake; Suspect Suicide

The body of a man taken from the lake at the foot of Roosevelt road yesterday was identified as that of Anton Kostenka, 50 years old, 1531 North La Salle street, an insurance salesman. His body was weighted by a large stone tied to his belt. Mrs. Emil Schaumont, his landlady, told the police she believed he committed suicide because of financial worries. Kostenka was divorced from his wife, Esther, in 1928.

Judge Refuses to Annul Marriage of Hugo Meyer

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday held that the marriage of Hugo Meyer, secretary of the Motorists' Association of Illinois, to his third wife, Mrs. Dewey Evelyn Meyer, was legal, and overruled Meyer's plea for an annulment. Mrs. Meyer is suing for separate maintenance and is receiving $75 a week temporary alimony.

7 BANDITS ROB BANK OF $7,300 IN 2 MINUTES

Stage Holdup at Busy N. Side Square.

Seven bandits took $7,385 in a quick raid on the Parkway State bank, 1950 North Clark street, at noon yesterday.

The robbers were in the bank only two minutes, just long enough to force three employés and a customer to lie on the floor while they entered tellers' cages and seized all of the loose bills and change in sight.

The bank is situated in the North Park hotel building, on the south side of a plaza bordering Lincoln park, into which Ogden avenue, Clark street, North Park avenue, Center street, and Lincoln Park West open. The spot is a busy one. A patrolman had pulled a box at North Park avenue and Center street, within plain view of the bank, just before the robbers arrived.

Gunmen Guard Door.

One of the gang remained at the wheel of their automobile, a large blue sedan bearing Wisconsin license plates, and two more with sawed-off shotguns, stood at the door of the bank as guards. The other four entered the place.

A. C. Svoboda, cashier; A. B. Berg, a teller; Mrs. Agnes Steen, a stenographer, and Glenn Ferguson, 618 Roscoe street, a customer, obeyed a brusque order to lie down on the floor. The bandits stepped quickly into two tellers' cages and swept all the money in sight there into a wastebasket.

At that moment one of the guards, stationed at the door, rapped on the glass and shouted, "Here comes the law." All six men tumbled into their car outside. It started north, whirled, and sped to the southwest on Ogden avenue.

Bandit Car is Traced.

The bandit car was traced through its license plates to Burke C. Brander, 2055 Jarvis avenue, who recently moved to Chicago from Sheboygan, Wis. He reported the car stolen yesterday morning. Brander told Chief of Detectives Norton that in Sheboygan last year a man named Richard Matthews had stolen an automobile from him, and after being convicted of the theft, had been paroled to him. Matthews worked for him until May, Brander said. Norton ordered a search for Matthews.

SCHOOLS CREATE NEW $6,000,000 FUND FOR SCRIP

Teachers' Plea for Cash Placed on File.

With the current $10,050,000 scrip trust fund virtually exhausted, the school board yesterday authorized the appropriation of an additional $6,000,000 worth of educational fund tax anticipation warrants.

A petition signed by 9,450 school teachers seeking cash due them on salaries unpaid since April was filed without action by the board.

So far, according to Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board, scrip has been issued to the amount of $8,057,820. Applications are already in, he said, for more than the remainder of the $10,050,000 fund already provided. Of the scrip thus far issued $2,943,110 has gone to teachers, $1,740,975 to civil service employés, $1,096,550 to contractors, $2,108,050 for buildings, and $169,135 for playground salaries and supplies.

How Fund Is Divided.

Of the additional $6,000,000 trust fund created yesterday $4,000,000 was allotted for educational purposes and $2,000,000 for buildings and grounds. President Lewis E. Myers was absent, as were Trustees Blatchford and Caldwell.

The use of power driven machinery in shop and other class work in the schools was attacked in a resolution presented by the Woman's City club. In the interests of safety and economy the resolution urged the abolition of all band and jig saws, emery wheels, wood and metal lathes, and laundry machines as operated by children under 16 years of age. The resolution was referred to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, without recommendation.

Worry Over Their Cars.

The meeting was sandwiched between secretive star chamber sessions, at which, it was reported, one of the principal topics was "How shall we get back our automobiles?" Trustees James Hemingway and Oscar Durante, appointees of a previous administration, were reported particularly perturbed. As reported by one trustee, the tenor of at least one complaint was "With the opera season coming on, what am I to do without my automobile?" The cars were relinquished by board members July 22 at the instigation of Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, one of the two Democratic members of the board.

The air of hasty secrecy at the board meeting was made more noticeable through the removal of the press tables. Copies of the board's order of business, heretofore always available, were refused reporters.

GOWNS FAIL TO FIT SO WOMAN IMPORTER IS PENALIZED $5,600

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Margaret Rees Price, described as the daughter of a retired American army officer and a resident of Paris, who arrived here Sunday on the Leviathan, was penalized $5,600 today for bringing into the country between seventy-five and ninety gowns.

Mrs. Price described herself as an American with foreign residence. As such, she was entitled to bring in free of duty all clothing intended for her personal use. As most of the dresses were new and of sizes that did not fit Mrs. Price, the custom authorities ordered them held. Mrs. Price said she was handy at needlework and had planned to alter the dresses to fit her. The customs, however, decided the dresses were not for her own use and levied an assessment which included the duty on the appraised value and a 100 per cent penalty.

Pay Cut, Husband Says; Judge Pares Alimony

The contention of George Wattles, Chicago representative of a coal company, that his income has been cut two-thirds in recent months, caused Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude to reduce from $40 to $30 a week the temporary alimony payments which Wattles is required to make to Mrs. Tyra Wattles, a former Follies girl. Wattles has a bill for divorce pending, charging that a Spaniard serenaded their home at 914 Vernon avenue, Winnetka, almost continuously. His wife has a cross-bill for separate maintenance, charging cruelty.

COST OF LIVING DROPS 11.7% IN U. S. SINCE 1929

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The most recent analysis by the department of labor shows the cost of living in the United States has decreased since 1929 by 11.7 per cent.

The index is built of the items food, clothing, rent, fuel and light, household furnishing goods, and miscellaneous.

The most substantial decline has taken place in foodstuffs. These show a drop of 23.5 per cent.

Clothing prices showed a change of 9.4 per cent, while rent decreased 7.5 per cent. A decrease of 3 per cent was shown by fuel and light, while household furnishings declined almost 11 per cent. The miscellaneous column, including all necessaries not otherwise classified, showed only a nominal reduction.

In all cases except fuel and light, showing a tendency to increase during the winter season, the commodity items have displayed a steady decline down to the present summer.

During the six months period ending in June, 1931, occurred the most marked decline in the food group, totaling 13.3 per cent. During the same time house furnishings declined 6 per cent, fuel and light, 5.5 per cent; clothing went down 4.6 per cent, and rents fell off 3.1 per cent.

LEGION DRY LAW REPORT FAVORS VOTE BY STATES

Action on Resolution Will Be Taken Today.

of the Volstead act to legalize light wines and beer; third, for a general referendum, and, last, a resolution expressing general dissatisfaction with the prohibition laws.

On the first ballot the proposal for repeal got 18 votes. The one for a referendum got 7 votes. Nineteen representatives voted against all proposals.

A majority of those present and voting was required for adoption of a report, so another ballot was taken, twenty-five votes were registered for the referendum proposal, and the 19 opponents held to their guns. The referendum resolution was approved.

California Asks Showdown.

The representative on the committee from California, the home state of President Hoover, showed himself an avowed wet in the discussion before the committee.

"Let us be honest," he said. "Children are being shot down on the streets. The government has been put into the hands of gangsters and gunmen. Comrades, let's serve in peace as we did in war. Let's pass on this like honest men and not as hypocrites."

Savage Brings Topic to Fore.

The first formal mention of the prohibition issue before the convention, made by Howard Savage in his unemployment report, brought a resounding and prolonged cheer.

Mr. Savage, as chairman of the Legion's national employment commission, had presented a report of the commission, making recommendations for relief to the unemployed. The report was adopted as read, and then the Chicagoan advanced again to the rostrum.

"There is something else which the commission thought should be brought to your attention," he said, and an eager smile came to his lips as with nervous expectancy he made ready to deliver a momentous proposal.

Beer to Aid Employment.

And he read the following:

"Your national employment commission feels it to be the duty of the commission to present the following to the attention of this convention:

"That, when it shall properly come before this convention, due consideration be given to modification of the Volstead act to legalize real beer without conflict with the constitution of the United States in the interest of furnishing added employment. Your commission believes that hundreds of thousands of jobs may be created through such action."

Because Mr. Savage proposed the matter as a suggestion, to be considered when the prohibition question is formally brought before the convention, no vote was taken, but if the wild demonstration which the suggestion provoked is any indication of the sentiment of the Legionnaires, there can be little doubt as to the outcome of the wet and dry battle before the convention.

Hines Warns Against Bonus.

Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, United States administrator of veterans' affairs, in an address to the convention, reviewed the aid which the government has given to veterans of the wars, and then added the weight of his influence to the many pleas which have been made to the Legionnaires at this convention not to press for a cash payment of the bonus, or further loans on the adjusted compensation certificates.

James L. Drain, former national commander of the Legion, also addressed the convention in a plea that no demand for additional compensation be made.

The legislative committee of the convention, which has been wrestling with the bonus proposition tonight, adopted a report which, if approved by the convention tomorrow, will have the Legion making no demands for further bonus payments.

The report was adopted by a committee vote of 27 to 14. A minority report has also been drafted and will be submitted to the convention at the same time. This report would have the convention indorse the immediate payment in cash of the entire bonus to such veterans as make the application for it.

Portland Gets 1932 Session.

The convention unanimously adopted a recommendation that the 1932 meeting be held at Portland, Ore.

The committee on Americanism in its report, also adopted by the convention, recommended that congress pass a law requiring that all immigrants be required to take an oath to bear arms for the country in time of war before being permitted to enter the United States.

The same report stated there are 3,000,000 undesirable aliens in the United States, most of whom are holding employment, and the convention urged that these aliens be deported as a means of relieving unemployment.

Almost overshadowed by the interest in the prohibition question, election of national officers, usually the most important business of the convention, also is scheduled for tomorrow.

There are several candidates but indications were that Henry L. Stevens of North Carolina would have the most support in the opening ballots and many predicted he would be the choice.

In the American Legion auxiliary session also being held here, Mrs. W. H. Morgan of Edwardsville, Ill., and Mrs. Louis W. Williams of Tuckahoe, N. Y., were the outstanding candidates for national president.

The convention unanimously approved the Hoover moratorium and called on congress to confirm it promptly else is psychological effect might be lessened.

WINDSOR DISAGREES OVER BEHAVIOR OF HER LEGION GUESTS

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—With ministers of the gospel on one side and law authorities as represented by Ontario's premier, attorney general, the police, and Mayor David Croll of Windsor on the other, Ontario continued today to wage domestic verbal warfare over the American Legionnaires' "drive" on the Windsor liquor shops during the Detroit convention.

"Hell is let loose in Windsor," the Rev. Dr. A. D. Runnells of Windsor Central United church publicly declared today in comment upon the alleged "orgies" of the Legionnaires, and the Rev. Ben Spence, Ontario's most ardent dry, reiterated his protest to the premier about "maudlinism" among Legionnaires on Windsor streets.

On the other hand, Premier George Henry's characterization as "gross exaggeration" of the ministerial descriptions was supported today by a blast from Attorney General William H. Price, a war veteran himself, against the Rev. Mr. Spence, whom he accused, "for publicity purposes," of "defaming the names of thousands of men in the United States who fought for their country. These veterans are not roughnecks, as it has been suggested. Among them are some of the finest citizens of the United States."

MILWAUKEE BAND WINS ITS THIRD LEGION PRIZE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—For the third successive year the band of Electric post No. 223, Milwaukee, won first place in the competition of American Legion posts' bands held today at Belle Isle. The Milwaukee band received a rating of 95.8 per cent.

Nine bands competed. Among them was Woodlawn post, No. 175, Chicago, which finished in ninth place.

For winning first place the Milwaukee organization will receive a $1,000 cash prize and the "Lemuel Bolles trophy" awarded to the best band in the contest.

Electric post band for another year also is known as the official band of the American Legion.

The annual fife and drum corps contest was won by Miami, Fla. Tarentum, Pa., was second and Greenberg, Pa., was third.

Legion Will Convene Here in 1933, Cermak Believes

Upon returning to Chicago yesterday after spending two days in Detroit at the national convention of the American Legion, Mayor Cermak announced that he is sure the Legion will hold its 1933 convention in Chicago. "I'm satisfied," said the mayor, "from the reports given to me by legionnaires and from the reception our invitation received that the Legion will come here two years from now."

LEGION MAY ASK FOR REVIVAL OF DEFENSE BOARD

Would Have Council Act in Emergency Now.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A proposal for the re-creation of the Council for National Defense to combat the nation-wide economic depression as it served the country during the world war, was approved today by the resolutions committee of the American Legion, and will be considered tomorrow before the assembled convention.

The proposal was put forward in Detroit by Howard Coffin, General Motors official and inventor of the Liberty motor and an intimate friend of President Hoover. It is understood that Mr. Coffin is acting at the request of the President.

Under the proposed plan, the outstanding political and economic leaders of the nation will be called to serve in the council, regardless of their political affiliation, so that the best minds in America may be set in unison to the task of ending the depression.

Resolution Approved.

The resolution approved unanimously by the resolutions committee which will be acted upon tomorrow by the convention follows:

"Whereas a state of unrest, indecision and dissatisfaction resulting in business depression and the destruction of values has become prevalent among the people of the United States and has assumed such porportion as to constitute a national emergency of the utmost gravity; and,

"Whereas the 64th congress of the United States, by its enactment approved Aug. 29, 1916, established a Council of National Defense and advisory commission for the express purpose among others, of the 'creation of relations which will render possible, in time of need, the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the nation'; and,

"Whereas this measure functioned with great success during the former period of national stress existing from 1916 to 1920 with an organization which covered the entire country; and,

Problems of Peace and War.

"Whereas it was designed to meet the problems of peace as well as those of war; and,

"Whereas we believed that the principle cause of the present situation are in general such that they cannot be promptly and efficiently met by existing political methods;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved:

"That the American Legion in national convention assembled, hereby respectfully requests the President of the United States of America to make use of this existing instrumentality which has already proved its efficiency by actual operation and to direct its attention to the consideration of the fundamental causes responsible for the existence of the present emergency and the means to be adopted for their amelioration both for the present and for the future."

When Mr. Coffin launched his effort to gain the Legion's approval of the plan, he first achieved the support of National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil, and the latter appointed a committee of Legion leaders to meet with Mr. Coffin to consider his plan. Then it was brought before the resolutions committee.

Would Get Genuine Support.

Mr. Coffin is reported to have argued to the committee that before any plan to end the depression can succeed it must be generally supported, and if the plan is conceived by a group of men such as will be called to serve in the council for national defense success may be expected.

Governors of the various states, including such Democrats as Roosevelt of New York and Ritchie of Maryland and leaders of the so-called radical group, such as the La Follettes of Wisconsin and Senator Norris of Nebraska, should join with the Republican leaders to work in the common cause, Mr. Coffin declared. Al Smith of New York might be called, and the leaders of business and industry in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and the other great cities should be joined in the determined effort to restore the nation's prosperity, it was argued.

HE USES SHOTGUN IN ARGUMENT WITH TWO LEGIONNAIRES

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Although the holiday spirit of the Legionnaires in convention here has died down considerably, there was one incident tonight which merited special mention.

Two Legionnaires were arguing with two other men about whether they should go downtown tonight to make more whoopee.

One of the nonveterans grabbed a shotgun and let go several charges of buckshot at his three companions. The veterans, who will not be sitting down comfortably for some time, but who are not seriously wounded, are Fred L. Ricca, 33, and Joseph Mochnoly, 44, both of the Thomas McKee post of the American Legion at Monessen, Pa.

Paroled Convict Gives Up After Escape from Police

Michael Machnikowski, 20 years old, 2731 West 36th street, who, the police say, escaped in a stolen automobile containing 500 pounds of dynamite while police were searching his home on Sept. 14, surrendered yesterday to the state's attorney's office. He is now on parole from Joliet penitentiary, having served 25 months of a ten year term for automobile theft.

PICKS WRONG PROSPECT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—George Robinson, 26, who stays at the Rescue mission, 1023 North 5th street, was arrested tonight when he attempted to sell a cash register valued at $75 to Patrolman Sheridan Herie, on plain clothes duty, for $6.

REBELS YIELD TO COW TEST; SAY IT WITH MELONS

Present Fruit to Armed Forces of Iowa.

Tipton, Ia., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Prospects of violence in Iowa's "cattle battle" faded into the far background today. Awed by the infantry, cavalry and artillery of the Iowa National Guard, the conscientious cattle objectors of Cedar county, who last Monday rolled in the mud state veterinaries who attempted to test their herds for tuberculosis in accordance with the state law, meekly capitulated.

Six farmers, representing the objectors, called upon Brig. Gen. Park A. Finley, in command of the 1,800 Iowa National Guardsmen who are camped at the state fair ground here, which has been unofficially rechristened "Camp Bovine." They told the general they were not armed and would offer no resistance to tests on their farms. The general informed them he didn't intend to argue the question of the T. B. test. He made it plain he was there solely to carry out the orders of Gov. Turner.

Later, after a conference with Gen. Finley, Dr. Peter Malcolm, chief of the state veterinarians, said he was ready to start testing cattle tomorrow morning among the herds of the strenuous farmer objectors. A corps of 75 licensed veterinarians will do the work.

It was rumored today that some of the die hards were preparing to move their cattle out of the county tomorrow to escape the test, but officials were prepared to counteract this move by declaring a quarantine on the herd, thus making it illegal to move them.

There were also rumors of a possible injunction suit to hold up the cattle tests, but these could not be confirmed.

As a final peace gesture this afternoon four of the T. B. test objectors took a big truck load of watermelons to the guard camp, enough to supply all the soldiers, just to show there was no hard feeling.

The most formal demonstration of the day was made at noon when Gen. Finley read from the courthouse steps Gov. Turner's proclamation that peace must be preserved, the laws of Iowa obeyed, and the dignity and authority of the state upheld.

...D OFFERED BY ARCHITECTS IN ELECTRICAL QUIZ

...ady to Tell About "Estimate" Practice.

The Illinois Society of Architects ...ember offered to assist the investi... ...ers of the electrical contract situa... ...in the building industry, which ...ngress has caused a substantial in... ...ease in construction costs. The in... ...vestigation already has produced ...vidence that a contract for new street ...hts awarded under the former city ...dministration involved an excess ...ost of $111,000, and the present city ...dministration has ordered the con... ...ilding concern to repair at its own ...ost a number of defective in...

The complaint of the architects' so... ...ty is directed chiefly against a ...system known" which it charges ...ludes in large part the terms of ...electrical contracts. Through their ...ttorney, Robert C. Ostergren, a ...ember of the city zoning board of ...ppeals, the members of the society ...ressed their willingness to testify ...n their experiences in letting con... ...acts under this arrangement.

Object to Survey Plan.

"The members have discussed this ...matter," Mr. Ostergren said, "and ...have no object to the arrangement of hav... ...ing their plans submitted to a survey ...board which not only determines ma... ...terial quantities but in addition deter... ...mines the exact labor cost for the ...work, leaving the contractors only to ...determine what amount is to be fig... ...ured for profit and overhead.

"This intolerant condition has been ...explained in detail, and at its last ...meeting the society authorized its ...board of directors to cooperate with ...such committees as are now investigat... ...ing this unfair situation and to use ...its best efforts to eliminate this addi... ...tional cost for those contemplating ...building.

"At this time when costs are de... ...clining and every effort is being made ...to stimulate building, it is especially ...appalling to find one branch of the ...industry introducing practices which ...will be a decided increase in the ...cost of electrical work."

Say Readen Inquiry.

Assistant State's Attorney Homer ...Cooley, who was assigned by State's ...Attorney Swanson to investigate the ...charges of graft in the city street ...light contract, expressed willingness to ...broaden the inquiry to include the ...complaint of the architects' society. ...He said he would act on any compe... ...tent evidence submitted by members ...of the society.

The question of a "board of esti... ...mate" in the electrical contracting ...field recently came to light in con... ...nection with the investigation of the ...slaying of Mortimer Enright, a leader ...of Local No. 134 of the electrical union ...and superintendent of electrical main... ...tenance for the board of education. ...Enright charged that the board of ...estimate, reputedly a union affiliate, ...was dictating the terms of electrical ...contracts.

Charge Excess Profits.

The contract for city street lights ...was let to the Electrical Contracting ...company by Michael J. Kennedy, com... ...missioner of gas and electricity under ...the former administration. The Citi... ...zens' association, after a three months' ...investigation of the contract, made a ...report to the governor's revenue com... ...mission charging the excess profit of ...$21,000, faulty construction, and "of... ...ficial collusion."

William A. Tests made on 102 ...of the light posts showed, according to ...Mr. Jackson, that each foundation has ...a depth less than the 42 inches re... ...quired under the contract. The first ...rain, he said, may cause the posts ...to tilt or fall into the street.

YOUTH IS KILLED AS MOTORCYCLE AND CAR CRASH

Frank Pedro, 20 years old, 2628 North Menard avenue, was killed, and Samuel Mudaro, 18 years old, 2630 North Mansfield avenue, suffered a fractured leg last evening when the motorcycle both youths were riding collided head on with an automobile at Mobile and Shubert avenues. Mudaro was taken to the Keystone hospital.

Cragin police arrested Warren Sambstron, 6258 Wrightwood avenue, a student at Armour Institute of Technolgy, the driver of the automobile, who escaped injury.

This death and two others in Cook county raised the toll for the year to 889. The other victims:

Marie Kapturkiewicz, 19 years old, 13347 Burley avenue. Died at the University hospital from injuries sustained Sept. 20, when she was thrown from the sedan in which she was riding as the machine collided with a taxicab at Halsted street and Austin avenue.

Robert Leonard, 30 years old, 2735 Potomac avenue, a switchman. Died at the Alexian Brothers hospital from injuries suffered Sept. 20, when he was struck by an automobile at Webster avenue and Halsted street.

Got Divorce in 1927

While Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach was obtaining a divorce decree from her husband, Frank V. Brach, millionaire partner in the E. J. Brach & Sons' Candy company, Mrs. Emily Upton Brach, former wife of Edwin J. Brach, brother of Frank and treasurer of the company, applied for a license to marry for the second time.

Last evening in her home at 124 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston, Mrs. Emily Brach became the wife of Bernhard Kirstein of Bangor, Me., retired capitalist and former vice president of S. W. Straus & Co. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Charles Schulman of Glencoe. Mrs. Brach was attended by her mother, Mrs. A. L. Upton, and her daughter, Barbara. In her marriage application Mrs. Brach gave her age as 41 and Mr. Kirstein as 51 years old. Mrs. Emily Brach obtained a Paris divorce in 1927. A property settlement of $2,000,000 was reported at the time.

Circuit Judge Otto Kerner signed the decree of Mrs. Eunice Brach, giving her custody of her two children, Frank Jr., 15 years old, and Joyce, 6 years old. They will visit their father for two months out of the year. Mrs. Brach was given $50,000 in cash and the income from $1,000,000 in bonds which were placed in trust by Mr. Brach. She charged cruelty.

SEEK TO ARREST FLYER IN TEST OF NEW STATE LAW

Warrant for Unlicensed Pilot After Crash.

The first warrant in Illinois charging operation of an airplane without a federal pilot's license, in violation of the new state aeronautics law, was issued yesterday on the application of Prof. Frederick D. Fagg Jr., director of the Air Law institute and a member of the Illinois aeronautics commission.

PROF. F. D. FAGG.

The warrant calls for the arrest of Joseph Heltz, 31 years old, who was piloting a plane on Labor day when it crashed while carrying two passengers at the Ashburn Flying field, Cicero avenue and 87th street. The three were not seriously injured. Heltz did not hold a federal pilot's license, which is required for all pilots under the new law.

The warrant was issued by Judge Frank M. Padden in the traffic court. The prosecution of Heltz is expected to be taken to the state Supreme court by the aeronautics commission as a test case for the new aeronautics laws.

A warrant also was issued for the arrest of Clyde Hacksworth, 4625 Greenwood avenue, part owner of the plane with Heltz. This warrant charges operation of a plane that was not federally licensed. The craft, an Eagle Rock biplane, powered by a Curtiss OX-5 motor, being unlicensed, was automatically grounded under the new law, according to Prof. Fagg.

The two passengers in the plane when it crashed were Marvin Pierce, 31 years old, 1524 East 66th street, and Stanley Durkee, 26 years old, 2030 Churchill street.

Owners of unlicensed planes in Illinois, who have been prohibited from flying their craft since the new law went into effect, announced that they would protest the restriction, but members of the aeronautics commission replied that the matter was out of their hands, as the law allows no discrimination.

Brother and Sister Meet After 40 Yrs. Separation

Pana, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Isaac Swallow of Eastland, Tex., and his sister, Mrs. Minnie Owen, resident of Pana for a half century, were reunited today after being separated for forty years. The Swallows are members of a pioneer Shelby county family. Swallow had been reported dead years ago.

CHICAGO AIRPORT HANDLES A FOURTH OF U. S. AIR MAIL

Twenty years of air mail service, celebrated with anniversary ceremonies yesterday, have placed Chicago in the same leading position with respect to air mail lines that it has held for years in the railroad network. One-fourth of the 9,000,000 pounds of air mail carried annually over air lines in the United States, either originates in Chicago or passes through the postoffice at the Chicago airport.

Eighty transport planes carrying mail, passengers, or express, operate from the Chicago airport daily. Of these twenty-six are planes of the United Air lines, a transcontinental system and one of the largest lines in the country. Air mail service is now available to 140 cities in 44 states.

A squadron of eighteen pursuit planes of the Army Air corps from Selfridge Field, Mich., commanded by Maj. Gerold E. Brower, will arrive at Curtiss-Reynolds airport Saturday, accompanied by a transport plane carrying mechanics. Airport officials have been notified that the planes will remain at the airport overnight after taking part in military maneuvers over Fort Sheridan on Saturday.

Richard C. Marshall of Cleveland yesterday was elected president of Thompson Aeronautical corporation, which operates Transamerican Airlines corporation, an air mail, passenger and express carrier between eighteen cities, including Chicago, Detroit, and Cleveland. He succeeds Edwin G. Thompson, who resigned to become chairman of the board of directors.

WARN OWNERS TO BEWARE OF TAX IMPOSTORS

John E. Conroy, member and secretary of the board of assessors, yesterday issued a warning to taxpayers to examine the credentials of men who represent themselves as deputy assessors and wish to inspect property. The warning was the result of a number of complaints that tax racketeers had impersonated deputy assessors and had promised taxpayers lower rates for 1930 and 1931 in exchange for bribes.

To safeguard property owners the assessors have outfitted their deputies with new credentials in the form of a star and identification cards which bear the photograph of the deputy and the signature of the board members.

"HIJACK" TRUCK OF CIGARETS AND KIDNAP DRIVERS

Four bandits early this morning "hijacked" a truck carrying 7½ tons of sigars and cigarets on the Waukegan road, north of Niles. Two hours later the two truck drivers, securely bound, were rescued by forest preserve police from an automobile parked at Elston and Forest Glen avenues, and one of the bandits was captured. The drivers, Fred Willms, 902 72d avenue, West Allis, Wis., and Floyd Hetrick, 1120 South 11th avenue, Milwaukee, had started with their load to Minneapolis. Four miles north of Niles they were crowded to the side of the road by an auto and their truck was boarded by two robbers armed with shotguns. The truck was driven to a side road, where it was met by another automobile. The drivers were bound and thrown into the back seat of this machine. They were driven about for an hour, then the car was parked.

The forest preserve policeman, John Swinkowski and Arnold Jacobs, saw the machine and investigated. As they neared the car one man leaped out and escaped. The other was seized. He is Morris Weiner, who gave his address as 1159 North Crawford avenue. Police said he is on parole from Joliet, where he was serving a sentence for robbery. The other two robbers drove away with the truck.

WOMAN STARTS COURT ACTION TO REGAIN TERRIER

Mrs. Ella Doering, 1335 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette, wife of Walter C. Doering, vice president of the Bradford corporation, railway supply dealers, yesterday started legal action to regain possession of a prize Scotch terrier, the property of her 13 year old daughter, Ethel.

Mrs. Doering began action for a writ of replevin to recover the dog from Mrs. Stella Pahlman, 2655 Asbury street, Evanston, wife of John D. Pahlman, manager of Edwin C. Barnes & Brothers, office furniture dealers. Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston will hear the petition for the writ Saturday.

The dog followed Mrs. Pahlman's daughter, Estelle, to her home on Sept. 12. Mrs. Pahlman advertised for its owner, and Mrs. Doering called, but, according to her statement, was told that the animal had disappeared since the advertisement was placed. Mrs. Doering yesterday asserted that the dog had been seen later chained to the Pahlman porch. This Mrs. Pahlman denied.

WOMEN ASKED TO AID PROHIBITION REPEAL BY CONGRESSWOMAN

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Congresswoman Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, speaking tonight before the Women's Organization Against Prohibition, called upon women to help bring repeal.

MARY T. NORTON.

"It has been said and it may be true that women were responsible for the eighteenth amendment," Mrs. Norton declared. "I hate to believe it, but if it is true let us have the courage to acknowledge our great error and organize our forces for its repeal. No intelligent woman, no matter how prejudiced, can honestly say that prohibition prohibits or that it has been of any real value in outlawing the use of liquor, or destroying the effect of the saloon at its worst.

"The rum runner, the racketeer, the bootlegger had no place in the old time saloon, but they are the court of last resort in the underworld of today—an underworld that has taken all law into its own hands—that has degraded women and children and terrified government officials."

SUSPEND TRUST LAWS TO BOOST TRADE, IS PLEA

Steel Executive Proposes Plan at White House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Suspension by congress of the Sherman anti-trust laws during the period of the current economic depression was proposed at the White House today by Charles F. Abbott, executive director of the American Institue of Steel Construction. The steel executive told President Hoover that temporarily scrapping the laws forbidding industries to control production would prove a vital aid in bringing back business prosperity and maintaining wage levels and steady employment.

CHARLES F. ABBOTT.

Mr. Abbott's plea for lessening of the restrictions on industry was interpreted in many quarters as possibly the beginning of a new drive on the part of business to effect a modification of the anti-trust laws which forbid combinations in restraint of trade. Several months ago the oil operators urged President Hoover to permit them to unite to control production. In recent weeks the demand on the part of business groups for modification of the Sherman laws has grown steadily.

Points to Old Laws.

The steel executive took the position that individual industries can do little to cope with the business recession so long as trade associations and industrial groups are "hampered by the uncertainties in laws passed forty years ago when conditions were entirely different than at present."

While he did not directly mention the cuts in wages ordered yesterday by the United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem Steel company, Mr. Abbott said that industry, to continue operations, must make a profit. He added that in many instances "profits have been sacrificed in recent months" by steel constructors in order to keep all men possible engaged. He said, however, that public works have supplied the fabricators with a fair amount of business, and "have been largely instrumental in keeping operations far ahead of other industries, and the amount of work scheduled for fall and winter promises to increase the tonnage available for contract."

Swope Plan Commended.

The plan for controlling industrial production advanced by Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, was praised by Mr. Abbott.

"Mr. Swope's plan to control industrial production particularly in reference to our national resource industries such as coal, iron, copper, petroleum, lumber and other basic commodities would make possible a control of output in keeping with consumption demand," the executive said. "It would prevent the tremendous losses now being incurred when sales are made at cost and frequently below cost. Under such conditions we are dissipating our most important national assets without profit and under such conditions public interest become jeopardized.

Sees Waste Prevention.

"If congress could suspend the operation of the Sherman law during this period of emergency it would prevent waste and conserve the profits that are essential to insure employment."

BANDITS USE CURRAN CAR IN OTHER HOLDUPS

The three men who kidnaped and robbed State Representative James Curran of the 15th district near Kankakee Tuesday night, halted two other automobiles yesterday, robbing the party in one and firing several shots at the occupant of the second car before they were frightened off by passing motorists.

Mr. and Mrs. William Warner of St. Louis, driving to Chicago, were stopped by the men between Springfield and Richfield. The bandits, driving in Curran's automobile, robbed Warner of $160 and forced him to exchange cars and proceed towards Chicago. Mrs. Warner saved $5,000 worth of jewelry by secreting it in her clothing. Warner, who is St. Louis manager for Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., 831 South Wabash avenue, reported the robbery when he arrived here. His car was recovered last evening at Seeley avenue and Jackson boulevard where the robbers had abandoned it.

A short time after the Warner holdup Mrs. Shelby Small of Lincoln, Ill., driving alone, was forced into a ditch by three men in another car. Authorities believe they were the same men who robbed Warner and Curran. They sidewiped the little car into a ditch and punctured both her rear tires with bullets before they were frightened away.

CHURCH DRYS START A BOOM FOR EMMERSON

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A boom for reelection of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson gained momentum tonight among prohibition proponents attending the annual conference of the Illinois Methodist Episcopal church.

The suggestion that Methodist churchmen and other friends of prohibition draft the governor as a candidate in the forthcoming primaries was made by Dr. Clarence True Wilson at the opening of the seven day meeting here and found immediate response.

Dr. Wilson, who is chairman of the national Methodist board on temperance, said that Gov. Emmerson should be returned to office for having vetoed a bill passed by the last legislature to repeal the state prohibition law.

The dry leader suggested that a resolution be offered to the conference asking the governor to run, and pledging him the full support of the Methodist Episcopal church to his candidacy "in the interest of public morals and safety."

MORE CUTS IN WAGES MADE; LABOR STORMS

down, and it was only natural for wages to follow, he said.

"The wage cuts should lead to more activity in business by releasing money from banks. I think this will lead to additional employment."

Secretary of Labor Doak withheld comment, but at the labor department it was said his opposition to wage cuts was unchanged.

The standard of living has become a focal point for government attention. The latest labor department compilation put the decline of living costs since 1929 at between 11 and 12 per cent.

GREEN STATEMENT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on wage cuts follows in part:

"The reduction in wages imposed and literally forced upon the employés of the United States Steel corporation and by other steel corporations is morally wrong and economically unsound.

"The United States Steel corporation violated a solemn promise which it made to the people of the nation when it assured the President of the United States, along with a number of other large employing interests, that during this distressing period of unemployment wages would be maintained.

"It is stated that this 10 per cent reduction forced upon the employés of the United States Steel corporation will mean a saving to this great financial concern of $25,000,000. That means that the employés of the United States Steel corporation will have twenty-five millions of dollars less to spend. They will buy twenty-five millions of dollars less goods. This will reduce the volume of sales for manufactured goods in an amount corresponding. Can reasonable minded people believe that a return to prosperity will be accelerated?

Cites Big Dividends.

"One is reminded of the fact that in June, 1927, not so very long ago, this corporation declared a 40 per cent stock dividend. It also paid cash dividends amounting to 160¼ per cent between April 1, 1901, and Dec. 31, 1930.

"While paying these stock dividends and these huge cash dividens it created a huge reserve fund, out of which dividends have been paid thus far during the continued period of unemployment which now exists.

"Why did it not share with its employés in the shape of increased wages when conditions were prosperous?

"The Bethlehem Steel corporation followed United States Steel corporation by declaring a reduction in wages equal in amount.

"This is the corporation which, according to the court records made public during the hearing of the merger proposal of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation, paid to its corporation officers bonuses amounting to $25,150,000 between 1918 and 1930.

"The salary and bonus of the president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation averaged $826,000 annually.

"Besides, the records show that this corporation declared a dividend amounting to 200 per cent upon class B common stock in February 1917 and dividends to the stockholders amounting to $133,000,000 in the period between 1918 and 1930.

Protected by Tariff.

"Again, these Steel corporations are the beneficiaries of a very high protective tariff. They are protected against competition from abroad. They are the beneficiaries of these special privileges granted by the government upon the theory that it is necessary in order to protect the American wage standard, and the American standard of living.

"It seems reasonable that since they accepted this favor and then reduced wages, the tariff schedule should be reduced and the special favors accorded them withdrawn.

"The press reports Assistant Secretary Julius Klein of the department of commerce as having said that 'there will be hell to pay throughout the United States in the event of a general wage reduction.'

"Whether this prediction may or may not come true, the fact is that it ought to be a logical outcome of the wage cutting policies pursued by the highly protected employing corporations of the nation."

BOARD TO STUDY CONTRACT POWER OF CORPORATION

Real Estate Restrictions Another Topic.

State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch of Chicago, a member of the commission which is to revise state laws governing business corporations, yesterday said the commission will consider the provisions of a bill introduced by him at the last session of the legislature. The commission was completed on Tuesday with the appointment of seven members by Gov. Emmerson to serve with four state senators and four representatives.

Senator Huebsch's bill, which was drafted by representatives of the Illinois Bar association, Chicago Bar association, law schools of three universities, Chicago Association of Commerce, and organizations of accountants, labor unions, and industrial groups did not pass.

The bill provided for two departures from the principles of the general corporation act of 1929, Senator Huebsch said yesterday, in predicting the topics the commission will consider. They are a grant of unlimited authority to corporations to deal in real estate and modification of the ultra vires doctrine.

The theory of ultra vires has been employed by corporations in Illinois in avoiding contract obligations. The theory is that contracts exceeding the authority of the corporations, as set forth in charters, are illegal.

Restrictions imposed on corporate ownership of real estate descend from the English statutes of mortmain, Senator Huebsch explained, which were intended primarily to curb ecclesiastical land monopolies in medieval England. These restrictions have not been copied generally in the corporation laws of other states.

Because of the complexity of other proposed revisions and the proposed change of policy in the Huebsch bill a commission to study corporation laws gained favor, Senator Huebsch said.

85 TOWNSPEOPLE REPORTED SLAIN BY MEXICO POLICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 23.—Reports from the state of Tabasco today said state police had hanged 85 residents of the town of Vicente Guerrero in reprisal for the lynching of Luis Chabe, state fiscal agent and an appointee of Gov. Tomas Garrido Canabal.

According to dispatches from Tabasco, Chabe was lynched after he had kidnaped the daughter of a prominent merchant of the town. She is said to have been killed in a fall off a horse. The governor is said to have sent police to arrest the townspeople, who fled into the hills. Eighty-five were caught and hanged. The rest of the townspeople are reported to be wandering in the hills, afraid to return.

Friends of the governor denied the story.

"Do those bristles mean he's ceased to care?"

"I'M having trouble with my husband. Our honeymoon days are over and I've come back to earth with a sort of a dull thud. Not that he isn't good to me, because he really is. I guess I couldn't ask for a more kind and considerate partner. In fact he's still a lover in every way but one. He's gotten careless about shaving. Probably he doesn't realize how much this means to me. But before we were married I never saw him without a clean shave. He must have thought shaving was important then. I wonder if he feels that he can afford to neglect his beard now that he's got me. I've hinted once or twice that he looks much sweeter with a clean shave, but he's as careless as ever. Of course he shaves regularly, but not often enough or close enough. And I didn't count on bristles when I married him. Well, I guess I have to be fair. He says that shaving is a nuisance and I suppose all razor blades are alike. Maybe I can get used to a slight growth of stubble, but I do wish my husband would be as particular about shaving as he was when we were engaged."

You are right on one point, but wrong on the other. You must be fair and overlook your husband's negligence in the past because shaving was a more or less unpleasant task. But all razor blades aren't alike. Today Gillette has a splendid new blade that is decidedly different and better. It is almost certain to change any man's idea about shaving.

The new Gillette blade is guaranteed on a money-back basis. Men are invited to buy a package and try a blade or two at our risk. If you don't agree that this blade is far better, if every shave isn't free from smart or irritation, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

SHOT RAKED CAR USED IN MYSTERY BATTLE IS FOUND

Gives Clew to Grant Park Shooting.

CRIMINAL COURT.
James Weston, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Arthur Thomas, assault to rape, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary, by Judge G. Fred Rush.
Joseph Matusko, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Randolph Dessert.

A clew was discovered last night to the mysterious gun battle in Grant park when police found the car at which the shots were fired on Monday. Blood on the front seat of the automobile indicated that somebody had been wounded in the interchange of shots.

The automobile, a drive it yourself car, was found at 30 East 70th street by Policemen Polcaster and O'Hara of the automobile detail. The license number had been noted by a bystander as the car sped away from near the Art Institute after the shots had been fired at it on Monday. It had been rented by a man who said he was Leonard Phillips of the Southmoor hotel. No man of that name lived at the hotel, officials said.

Five bullets were found embedded in the upholstery of the front part of the car. The blood stains were found on the cushions of the driver's seat.

Gangsters Win a Delay.

Sam Hunt and James Fawcett, alias Red Forsythe, both Capone gangsters, who were arrested shortly after the shots were fired, obtained a continuance until Oct. 9 when arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge James F. Fardy.

Hunt and Forsythe refused to tell police why they ran from the scene of the shooting. A revolver, with the serial numbers defaced, and from which shots had been fired, was found a few feet from them when they were halted near the Goodman Memorial theater. They were charged with carrying concealed weapons, and defacing the serial numbers of a weapon.

A test of the new law makin it illegal to deface the serial number of a gun will be made in the case of Hunt and Forsythe, according to Assistant State's Attorney Al Johnson. The prosecutor assented to the continuance, he said, in order to build a case against the two gunmen, who are at liberty on bonds of $2,000 each. He expressed confidence that the men would be held to the grand jury on evidence that would ultimately send them to the penitentiary for the maximum of two years.

The two gunmen were represented in court by former Ald. John H. Lowry, who declared he was preparing a petition to suppress the evidence in the case.

Mayor Renews Cleanup Drive.

Upon his return from Detroit yesterday Mayor Cermak renewed his campaign to clean up the police department. He was angered when he found a report on his desk showing that a number of condemned buildings were guarded by three policemen to each building. He ordered the policemen placed on beats and barricades built around the buildings until they can be destroyed.

Rumors that the police had raided only small operators thus far in the campaign against vice and gambling were answered by the mayor.

"We're just starting," he said. "The big fellows are going to suffer as much as the small ones."

TEACHER WINS SECRET DIVORCE FROM SURGEON

Mrs. Josephine May Congdon, 342 Central street, Highland Park, a teacher in the Chicago public schools, obtained a secret divorce from her husband, Dr. Charles B. Congdon, staff surgeon at the Albert Billings Memorial hospital, in the Circuit court of Lake county at Waukegan, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Congdon charged that her husband was cruel and that he failed to maintain a home for her. She testified that her marriage took place on June 19, 1926, in Oak Park, and that she separated from her husband on Oct. 15, 1930, after he told her he would no longer keep their home, at that time in Chicago.

A month after their separation, she charged, her husband deliberately drove the automobile in which they were riding over a railroad viaduct. She jumped from the car and fled, she said.

The divorce decree was signed by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff. Mrs. Congdon was represented by Attorney Wilbur Brazell of Waukegan.

EX-POLICE HEAD OF SPRINGFIELD GETS STATE JOB

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—T. P. Sullivan, former chief of police of Springfield and for eighteen years connected with police work, today was appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to head the state's new bureau of criminal identification and investigation. He will take charge tomorrow. Offices will be located in Springfield.

The bureau of criminal identification and investigation was created by the last legislature. For the present at least, Mr. Sullivan's office will be operated with a staff of borrowed help because of failure of the legislature to make an appropriation. Necessary employes will be provided from the division of the department of public welfare and from the state highway police force.

CAPT. STEGE RAIDS FOUR MORE POLICY GAMES; 31 ARRESTED

Capt. John Stege, sent to the Wabash avenue police district to clean up policy games "which are taking the nickels and dimes of the Negroes, continued his activity last night by raiding four places and arresting 31 men, all colored.

The Harlem and Bronx wheel, 355 East 47th street, was the first to be raided. Mack and George Jones, brothers, the proprietors, were arrested, together with 11 policy writers. Next came the Old Gold wheel, 4554 Indiana avenue, where Charles Sarrell, the owner, and 13 writers were arrested. At the Gold and Silver wheel, 5138 South Park way, Joseph Woods, the owner, and two writers were arrested. William Bryant, owner of the New York Central wheel at 4636 Calumet avenue, was arrested.

In earlier raids on a number of handbooks and a still, Capt. Stege had arrested 27 Negroes.

Trial of Former Brokerage House Employe Is Delayed

A hearing on charges against A. J. Weeg, 31 years old, 5212 Cornell avenue, accused of embezzling $2,900 from the A. C. Allyn & Co., investment brokers, 100 West Monroe street, where he was formerly employed, will be held tomorrow before Judge James F. Fardy in the South State street court. Judge Fardy continued the case yesterday. Weeg surrendered three weeks ago and has been in jail.

SEERESS GIVES 2 CLIENTS THEIR MONEY'S WORTH

Mrs. Addnie Allen, 42 years old, 4916 Langley avenue, is a fortune teller. Yesterday she told two clients they would soon get some money and right afterward would find themselves in trouble. They thanked her and one of them gave her a $5 bill.

Her charge for both of them was only $1 and Mrs. Allen went into the bedroom to get change. One of the men followed her, drew a revolver and struck her on the head. Motioning to Zella Duff, 4834 Prairie avenue, another patron, to keep quiet, the robber tied Mrs. Allen to a chair and ransacked the room. They obtained $40 and ran out the back door.

Mrs. Allen's screams were heard by Sergt. Thomas McMahon. He captured one man, who identified himself as Alfred Price and named his companion as John Harris. The police are looking for Harris to make his fortune come true also.

Dr. George B. Bicknell of Gary Is Divorced by Wife

Mrs. Pansy Bicknell was granted a divorce yesterday in the Superior court at Gary by Judge C. V. Ridgely from her husband, Dr. George F. Bicknell. Dr. Bicknell had contested the action. In his closing arguments Attorney William J. McAleer, representing Mrs. Bicknell, blamed post-prohibition drinking parties. Mrs. Bicknell was given $3,500 and a $5,000 equity in property owned jointly by the couple. Private detectives testified they had followed Dr. Bicknell to the home of Miss Emily Kalwitter in Calumet City and had seen the physician embrace the girl.

VIONNET IS OUTSTANDING IN PARIS THIS SEASON

That is why you will find so many Vionnets in our fall collection. Of course, we bought liberally from all the great Paris Houses . . . and then we concentrated on Vionnet. For nowhere had we seen more beautiful coats, more ravishing evening gowns, more exquisite suits and daytime dresses. The stamp of this famous couturiere on our selection is unusual as she guards jealously the use of her name. This photograph of her Paris Salon and this exceptional letter are extremely gratifying.

DEPOSITORS PAID, STOCKHOLDERS GET $70 A SHARE

Speed Liquidation of Garard Bank.

JUDGE FEINBERG.

Stockholders of the Garard Trust and Saving bank, a loop institution which closed March 6, are to receive $20 for each $100 share of stock under an order issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. The stockholders have already received $50 for each share.

The depositors and all other creditors have been paid in full. The bank was organized about nine months ago and the total claims amounted to only $100,000.

The order was presented to Judge Feinberg by Attorney Matthew Mills of the law firm of Defrees, Buckingham, Jones and Hoffman, representing the Chicago Title and Trust and company as receivers for the bank. The previous dividend to stockholders was paid last July. Attorney Mills said stockholders may receive a further dividend as liquidation proceeds.

Bank Into Receivership.

The bank was thrown into receivership when the Garard Trust company and the Garard Investment Trust went into receivership in the Federal court. To unravel complicated financial interlapping the bank was closed.

The capital stock of the bank was valued at $200,000 or 2,000 share at par value of $100. The stockholders with the second dividend of yesterday will have received $140,000.

Demand Money Be Released.

The United Depositors Association of Illinois met in the offices of the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday to demand immediate action be given to possible releasing of cash to depositors. The Rev. H. Truman Gordon, president of the association, declared that many depositors face extreme privation and destitution in the coming winter. The association is to ask all public officials to disregard politics in the banking situation.

A meeting of the depositors of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank is to be held today in the Broadway armory, 5375 Broadway. Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county; Dr. Gordon, and Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson for the association are to speak.

The depositors of the West Highland Bank and Trust company are to meet tomorrow evening in the St. Sabina's school hall, 78th and Throop streets. The meeting was called by Edmund Martin, chairman of the depositors' committee.

Judge Bars Indiana Jury.

Judge Martin Smith of the Criminal court of Lake county, Ind., announced yesterday that because three of the six members of the September grand jury in the county are bankers or employés, he would not permit the jury to investigate the affairs of the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, which closed with $8,000,000 deposits last January, and other closed banks in Lake county.

The jury will meet tomorrow to consider routine criminal matters pending in the county, and then will be dismissed and a new panel drawn for the bank investigation, the judge said.

Home of Catholic Teacher in Vera Cruz Is Bombed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 23.—Radicals today placed a bomb in front of the house of Miss Alicia Moreno, former school director in the city of Vera Cruz, presumably because she had refused to join an anti-Catholic league. Recently orders were issued in Vera Cruz to oust from the schools all teachers professing Catholicism. Among those who preferred to lose their jobs to deserting the church was Miss Moreno.

PRESS WIRELESS OBTAINS USE OF FRENCH STATION

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Charles Guernier, French minister of posts and telegraphs, today approved the arrangement which will set aside for the use of the American press a wireless station in France, and in return Press Wireless, representing the press of the United States, will hold one of its wireless stations in the United States open to the service of the press of France.

This is the first arrangement of its kind to be concluded, and was approved by the French ministry after a year's negotiations.

The receiving station of Press Wireless in America will be at Little Neck, Long Island, N. Y., and the transmitting station at Hicksville, Long Island. The receiving station in France for the present will be that of Villa Juif, a suburb of Paris, but later it will be transferred to a new station at Noiseau.

Ask Receivership for St. Clair Hotel Corp.

Foreclosure proceedings against the St. Clair Hotel corporation, 162 East Ohio street, were instituted yesterday in the Circuit court by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, trustee for the bondholders. The bill, asking appointment of a receiver, charges that since Jan. 1 the hotel corporation has defaulted interest and principal payments totaling $80,274 on a bond issue of $1,575,000.

TAX SUIT BARES $500,000 PAID STRIKEBREAKER

Standard Oil Share Put at $250,000.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Failure to file a proper income tax return on $503,000 earned in five weeks in 1929 for breaking strikes in Brooklyn—including the strike of employés of the Standard Oil company of New York and of the American Can company—led to the arrest today of Peter de Vito of Jamaica, Queens.

Federal authorities have the checks which De Vito received from the corporations. Although none of the officials would be quoted it is understood the oil company check was for approximately $250,000.

De Vito, a short, squat man with curly black hair, was indicted by the federal grand jury in Brooklyn. Although De Vito had never been arrested before, Howard W. Ameli, United States attorney in Brooklyn, described him as "the biggest racketeer in the strike breaking business, reputed to be the only man in Greater New York who can successfully break a strike at any time."

Six Men Arrest Him.

Six men—two United States marshals, two uniformed policemen, and two detectives—with pistols drawn, forced their way into De Vito's bedroom in his brick home in Jamaica early this morning to serve the warrant charging him with filing a false income tax return. Two pistols were slung over the posts of his bed, but he made no effort to reach for them.

"It's a good thing some of you had on the uniform," he remarked as he slipped out of bed, "otherwise, I might have thought it was a gang ready to take me for a ride and there might have been some excitement."

Find Cane with Blade.

Three walking sticks found in the place excited the detectives' curiosity. One was a sword cane with a bright Toledo blade, another was a malacca stick with a flashlight in the handle and the third had a steel inner casing, with boring, similar to the boring of a rifle. The police were speculating as to whether it might not have been used as a detachable rifle barrel.

De Vito admitted he had made much of his money as a strike breaker. He is also alleged to have boasted to the detectives that he was a schoolmate of Al Capone, the Chicago racketeer who was indicted for failing to file proper income tax returns, and that he had been chosen by Capone to take Capone's place as "big boss" of the nation's racketeers, "in about six months."

Disagree on Figures.

In his income tax return for 1929 De Vito admitted a gross income of $503,353, but his deductions for "business expenses" and "gifts" brought his net income down to $14,275.45. The government, however, placed his net income at $315,729.95, subject to a tax of $86,397.54. All that he paid, on the basis of his own figures, was $223.65.

"De Vito is reputed to be in the trucking business," said the formal statement given out in Mr. Ameli's office. "In 1929 he was engaged in breaking a strike, for which he received approximately $500,000. The duration of the strike was not more than two months."

'MIDGETS IN SEATS OF MIGHTY IN U. S.' SEEN BY PRESIDENT BUTLER

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Not more than five, or possibly six, of the last twenty-six Presidents of the United States have truly represented the best in American character and intellect, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler declared in an address at the opening exercises of Columbia university's 178th academic year.

Great Britain, France and Germany have similarly failed to maintain a high standard of excellence in choosing their political leaders in modern times, Dr. Butler asserted in deploring the frequency of "midgets in the seats of the mighty."

He warned that any system of social organization and control which cannot discover and exalt excellence is a "futile failure."

Boy, 10, Falls Into Lake from Pier and Is Drowned

Alexander Cohen, 10 years old, of 3021 East 80th place, was drowned last night when he fell into the lake from a pier at 77th street, upon which he had been playing. The boy's disappearance was not noticed until James O'Brien, a lifeguard, saw his body floating in the water. O'Brien swam out and recovered the body.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in drugstores everywhere.

G. T. VAN METER SLATED FOR U. S. REVENUE POST

Senator Glenn Pushes for Appointment.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gregory T. Van Meter, associate of George F. Harding, former county treasurer, may be recommended to President Hoover by Senator Otis F. Glenn today for appointment as collector of internal revenue for the Chicago district. Word from Washington last night was that Senator Glenn says that Van Meter is the only one under consideration at present, although he has not as yet formally presented his name to the White House.

The dispatches said that weeks ago Mr. Glenn mentioned his name as a possibility at the White House, which directed the treasury department to make the usual preliminary inquiry regarding the fitness of Van Meter. As yet the White House has not received the report, and today Senator Glenn is to call at the treasury and the White House to learn their attitude towards the candidate.

New Political Alliance.

The possibility of Mr. Van Meter's appointment was construed in political circles as an indication of an alliance between Mr. Harding, Senator Glenn, and Gov. Emmerson. The Washington dispatch said Mr. Glenn is desirous of naming some one acceptable to Harding for some good office in Chicago, and Harding is at present accounted the local leader of the Republican groups friendly to Gov. Emmerson.

Senator Glenn himself is so far without a serious opponent for renomination in the Republican primaries. His policy has been to maintain a hands off attitude on the contests over state politics, being on friendly terms with some of the rival camps.

Opponents of Mr. Harding are reported to have carried protests to President Hoover that Harding is not for him for renomination. Washington reported that the White House has heard nothing reflecting on either Van Meter or Harding and that so far as the White House knows both are friendly to Hoover. Gov. Emmerson last spring, in platform utterances, came out in defense of the Hoover administration against critics.

Recalls Faro Swindle.

It is just eight months since Mrs. Myrle Tanner Blackledge resigned as collector of internal revenue, shortly after her name had been involved with the celebrated faro game at Springfield in which Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review, was taken for $50,000. Charles F. Buck of Monmouth, former state senator, who was defeated by Edward Barrett, Democrat, for state treasurer last November, was recommended by Senator Glenn for the vacancy. The White House announced his appointment but it was rescinded after a protest had been made that Mr. Buck had asked the continuance of an income tax case against Jack Guzik, Capone lieutenant.

Mr. Buck denied the matter had any real bearing on the appointment, and that he did not want the office.

Friends for Many Years.

Mr. Van Meter and Mr. Harding have been friends for half a century or so. Van Meter was born in Kankakee, in 1867. He was for years manager of the properties of George Harding Sr., father of the ex-county treasurer, and in 1904 associated himself with George Harding Jr., then alderman of the old 2d ward. He was appointed oil inspector in 1917, and in 1931, almost an unknown in politics, Gov. Small made him public administrator of Cook county, the appointment precipitating a bitter fight in the senate led by Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston against the state and city administrations.

Following the break in 1925 between Fred Lundin and the ex-city administration, Van Meter was succeeded as administrator by Percy B. Caffin, protégé of Lundin. On the election of Mr. Harding as county treasurer, Mr. Van Meter became assistant treasurer, holding the office throughout his friend's tenure.

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Augusta Guenther, 83 years old, 3131 North Spaulding avenue, was found unconscious from poison Tuesday morning by her husband, August, to whom she had been married more than forty years. She died yesterday in the county hospital without regaining consciousness.

OMAHA PUPILS FLY TO SCHOOL AT WOODSTOCK

An airplane swooped down in a pasture close to the campus of the Todd school at Woodstock yesterday, and deposited a couple of pupils just in time for the annual opening of the school.

The students were Dick and Bob Eldridge, small sons of Dr. R. Bruce Eldridge, Omaha physician and amateur pilot. He made the trip from Omaha to Woodstock in four hours in his Curtiss-Robin monoplane. This was the first plane to bring children to the school.

Students in the early days of the Todd school, which was started 35 years ago, went by lake schooner to Waukegan, then by overland stage to Woodstock. In 1867 the Chicago and North Western railroad was built and provided the chief means of transportation until 1902.

In that year Earl G. Watrous of Chicago was the first to reach the school by automobile, making the trip in seven hours.

BURNS FINGER; DIES OF TETANUS.

Ernest Pollard, 45 years old, 1046 South Marshfield avenue, a Negro, died of tetanus yesterday in the county hospital. It was the twelfth case in the last few months. The illness developed from a burn on one of his fingers.

STATE WILL NOT DEMAND DEATH FOR BOY SLAYER

Case Goes Before Grand Jury Tomorrow.

Indictment on the charge of murder will be asked of the Lake county, Ind., grand jury at Crown Point tomorrow for Perry Swank Jr., 15 year old school boy of Creston, Ind., who shot and killed Eugene Duckworth of Lowell, Ind., veteran peace officer and oil filling station proprietor, in a hold up Sunday night.

PERRY SWANK JR.

County Prosecutor Robert G. Estill said last night that he would not ask for the maximum penalty for murder, which in Indiana is the electric chair, adding that he would recommend that the boy be sentenced to a term of 10 to 25 years in a correctional institution. The boy is to be arraigned today before a justice of the peace.

Sheriff Roy Holley and Deputy Prosecutor Floyd Vance yesterday questioned a girl in the case. A nurse who had been a guest at the Swank home, and whose name the sheriff refused to divulge, was taken into custody by the sheriff when it was revealed that young Swank had given her some money, the proceeds of the robbery, after he had slain Duckworth.

The young woman, according to her story, was frightened and said nothing about receiving the money for two days. Then she told her story to the boys' mother, who in turn told it to the sheriff.

Interest in Kirkland Case.

The incentive for Perry's shooting came from his interest in the Virgil Kirkland case, the boy's father declared yesterday. Kirkland was sentenced June 9 to serve from one to ten years in the Pendleton, Ind., reformatory on a charge of assault and battery and attempt to rape Arlene Dravea, who died during a gin party. This followed two sensational trials, in which Kirkland was accused of murder. The elder Swank said that his son looked on Kirkland as a hero.

"My boy read all he could get his hands on about the Kirkland case," Mr. Swank said. "Then he talked with anybody who thought they had some 'inside dope' on the business. He's always been wayward and reckless, anyway. All this Kirkland stuff in his head made Perry worse."

Perry's mother exploded her son's assertion that he planned to rob Duckworth because he needed money for his school books. "He could have had the money at home and knew it," said Mrs. Swank. "He went out and killed this man just for the thrill."

Father Urges Guilty Plea.

Mr. and Mrs. Swank have repeatedly asserted that their son, no matter what his fate may be, is "only getting what he deserves." Swank, a worker in the steel mills at East Chicago, has urged his son to plead guilty.

Young Swank occupies the same cell at the county jail in Crown Point that Virgil Kirkland once had. When he was told of this the boy scanned the walls and the steel cot. "Will I get as many pictures taken of me as Virgil did?" he wanted to know.

Economy in Quality

It is admittedly a fact that during the years of greatest Prosperity the Standards of Living advanced to a High Level. Money was plentiful and Men bought generously. Their wardrobes were the pride of the Shirtmaker, the Haberdasher, the Tailor, and the Bootmaker. But when business slowed up purse strings began to tighten.

The past two years have been a test of Quality. The fact that men of means, perhaps more noticeably than others, have retrenched from active buying, is doubtless because they have been able to enjoy the longer wear Quality Merchandise makes possible. Economy is not how little, but how well one buys. In our New York, Chicago, London and Paris Shops you find boundless varieties of Finest Merchandise—Distinctive in Quality and always properly priced.

APPEAL BOARD GRANTS BRIDGE PAY INCREASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Minor increases in three groups of work were granted by the prevailing wage board of Illinois waterway bridge construction, after hearing protests on the state's established wage here today.

JUDGE C. G. BRIGGLE.

Labor was dissatisfied with the board's findings. Its representative, George C. Ottens, West Chicago, voted to nonconcur in the report and will submit a minority report to the state department of purchases and construction.

Increases were brought about where subclassifications of some workers were abolished at the request of labor.

Increases Are Listed.

These increases follow: Common labor at 50 cents an hour and skilled labor at 60 cents were grouped under the one classification, labor, at a wage of 60 cents. The rate for carpenters is $1 an hour, eliminating a previous distinction between a fine work carpenter at $1, rough work carpenter at 90 cents, and carpenter's helper at 60 cents.

Likewise, structural steel workers will receive $1.25 an hour for all work. The previous wage had three classifications—75 cents for bolters, $1.10 for setters, and $1.35 for riveters.

H. J. Hilliard, mayor of Ottawa, and T. A. Chapin, Jacksonville, approved the report. They represented the public and the contractors on the appeal board.

Labor Presents Case.

Evidence was offered by five representatives of building trades unions at Joliet and by officials of the state department of purchases and construction. The union officials said their rates had prevailed in Joliet and vicinity for the last six years.

Their objections to the wages published by the state department centered on the following:

Laborers, 50 to 60 cents an hour, as compared to 90 cents; blacksmiths, $1.25, instead of $1.50; carpenters, 90 cents to $1, instead of $1.50; electricians, $1.25, instead of $1.50; painters, $1, as against $1.50. Objection also was made to the state's practice of prescribing three classifications for structural steel workers.

Evidence offered by the state disclosed that certain work being done for the federal government at Brandon pool, near Joliet, was not paying as much as the union scale.

Judge Signs Decree.

While the hearing was in progress today Circuit Judge Charles G. Briggle signed a decree declaring the prevailing rate of wage law, affecting wages of workmen on state public construction jobs, unconstitutional and void. He granted an immediate appeal to the Supreme court.

Judge Briggle granted a permanent injunction restraining the state from letting contracts for approximately eight miles of pavement in Madison county.

The wage law became effective last July 1. A test suit led to the decree and injunction.

Manager of Loan Office Is Granted a Jury Trial

Norman Hoshelf, 40 years old, 7719 South Seeley avenue, manager of Daniel & Co., 81 West Van Buren street, was granted a jury trial yesterday by Judge Samuel Trude in the Chicago avenue court on charges of running an illegal loan bank and charging interest of 240 per cent a year. Hoshelf was arrested Tuesday night in a raid by the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office.

Kingsford-Smith Hops on Australia-England Race

WYNDHAM, West Australia, Sept. 24.—(AP)—[Thursday.]—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith took off at 2 a. m. today in an attempt to beat the record of J. A. Mollison for a flight from Australia to London. Mollison's record is 8 days, 13 hours and 35 minutes. His plane, the Southern Cross Minor, carries no radio transmitting apparatus.

ANOTHER UNIT IN WATERWAY NEAR TO COMPLETION

Peoria Already Gets Benefits.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Work on the Illinois waterway between Lockport and Starved Rock, where $27,500,000 of state and federal funds are being spent, is rapidly nearing completion as a link in the lakes to the gulf water route.

Under the direction of Col. William C. Weeks, army engineer in charge of the first Chicago district, a group of 200 Peorians and waterway boosters of Chicago, Joliet, Aurora, and other Illinois cities viewed four major projects recently.

Engineers claim that these projects in the upper 50 miles of the route will be completed by the time of the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago in 1933.

That Peoria and upper Illinois river cities are now inland seaports with an outlet through the Gulf of Mexico will be more greatly emphasized when the waterway is finished and an outlet established through the lakes to the eastern ports.

Peoria's new waterway terminal, handling traffic from the southern ports only, has established an amazing record since it opened. Railroad officials, who at one time strenuously opposed the establishment of a waterway terminal here, readily admit that it has greatly stimulated their business out of Peoria.

Trainload upon trainload of sugar, canned goods, and other commodities have been shipped to Peoria by water and then transferred to rail for shipment north, west, and east.

NITROGLYCERIN STORE EXPLODES; FELT 30 MILES

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A nitroglycerin explosion at the American Glycerin magazine near here early today shook the entire countryside when two hundred quarts of the chemical mysteriously exploded.

Tremors were felt as far east as Sullivan, Indiana, thirty miles away and awakened residents in this radius. Considerable damage was done to window panes in Robinson and within a five mile radius, a hole was blown in the ground 25 feet deep and 25 feet across.

The cause of the explosion was not determined. Authorities are searching for possible clews as to robbers who might have been trying to steal some of the explosive and who would have been blown to bits, or the possibility that the magazine was struck by lightning. So far as is known no one was injured.

BUS DEPOT IS ROBBED.

When L. H. Frahn, 1425 Chase avenue, manager of a Greyhound Bus lines ticket office at 164 North State street, opened the office yesterday morning he discovered burglars had entered during the night and obtained approximately $1,000.

To Work in Winter

Work will be continued on the Ogden avenue viaduct link over Goose island all winter, its was said yesterday by William A. Mulcahy, chief engineer for the board of local improvements, who is in charge of the $5,400,000 boulevard project.

While it will be impossible to pour concrete in subfreezing weather, steel erectors will be kept on the job, building the structural framework of the viaduct and the two bridges, across the north branch of the river and the Odgen canal, which are integral parts of the improvement. The project gave employment to as high as 600 men a day during the summer.

The job will be finished, it is expected, in August or September, next year. When finished, the viaduct will link the two finished portions of Odgen avenue and provide a new boulevard link by which traffic between the north and west sides can be diverted around the loop.

CHARGE HEIRESS AS ACCESSORY IN MURDER OF FOUR

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Katherine Keller, 25, was bound over to Circuit court for trial on a charge of being an accessory after the crime in the quadruple auto party murder, at her examination before Justice Jay H. Payne today.

Miss Keller was the sweetheart of Fred Smith, convicted slayer, serving a life term in the Michigan branch prison. She was arrested the night Smith, Frank Oliver, and David Blackstone, Negro, were convicted and sentenced for killing two boys and two girls near Ypsilanti Aug. 11 and burning their bodies. Officers said Smith's bloodstained clothing was found in her possession.

Miss Keller is heiress to the late Judge Darwin Z. Curtiss of Ypsilanti. She is in jail in default of $10,000 bail. Her trial is set for October in Washtenaw County Circuit court.

MARYLAND CRASH KILLS MICHIGAN FLYER IN EAST

Dickerson, Md., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Lieut. William B. Clements of Mount Clemens, Mich., was killed instantly this afternoon when his army plane crashed just outside of Dickerson. He was alone in the ship.

Persons who saw the plane just before it crashed said the pilot apparently was having trouble with the motor. He was killed as the ship struck the ground.

2 Killed in Oklahoma Crash.

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 23.—(AP)—An airplane crashed from an altitude of about 200 feet here tonight, killing Rudy Krebs, 25, Omaha, Neb., and Dave Howard, 20, Tulsa.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To relieve piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patents with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Walgreen's invites every pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if they do not end piles in any form.

"I GOTTA DRAG" CARS BLOCKADE CITY HALL CURB

Ten Policemen Shoo Away Other Motorists.

Ten policemen, half of them mounted, hovered around the city hall and county building yesterday, shooing away motorists who attempted to park in Clark, Randolph, Washington, and La Salle streets. There are strict no parking rules in all these streets during the day until 6 p. m.

Despite the heavy guard, a TRIBUNE reporter found the curbs lined with automobiles, most of them of the large, expensive type. The license numbers of these automobiles were taken and the owners of the cars, as shown in the secretary of state's records, were revealed. This survey was made at 2 p. m. when traffic was heavy.

Moe Rosenberg's Sedan There.

Directly in front of the city hall entrance in La Salle street was a large sedan bearing the license 62-083. This license was issued to Moe Rosenberg, 2501 South Hoyne avenue, according to the records. Mr. Rosenberg is Democratic committeeman of the 24th ward and known as an adviser of Mayor Cermak.

Directly behind Rosenberg's car was another large automobile with the license number 127-394, issued to State's Attorney John A. Swanson, 1117 Cranden avenue. Mr. Swanson's main office is in the Criminal courts building at 26th street and California avenue. He has another office in the county building.

Car of Marlise Parked.

Another large automobile was under the care of the policemen who were diligent in chasing away ordinary motorists. The license number on this car was 117-209, issued to August Marlise, 3000 Wentworth avenue. Mr. Marlise's occupation is given in the city directory as "peddler."

Police Capt. Hugh McCarthy's big car, with license number 119-627, was also parked at the curb. Another car which had been accorded parking privileges was that of John A. Cervenka, city purchasing agent, license number 367-302, 2436 South Lawndale avenue.

Three Police Autos Empty.

Two large sedans with licenses issued to the Chicago police department were parked in the street. They held no occupants. A Cook county highway police department car was parked in Clark street. It also was empty.

The following cars had also been accorded parking privileges:

Two automobiles bearing shields lettered "Department Public Works, City of Chicago," and three trucks which were apparently delivering merchandise were also parked at the time the survey was made.

BANK BANDIT SUSPECT OUT ON BAIL; POLICE WAIT

Witnesses arrived at the detective bureau yesterday to view a suspect in the robberies of banks at Janesville and Sparta, Wis., but found that they would have to wait until Friday to look at Frank Ostrowski, alias Osborne, 34 years old, 301 West State street, Calumet City.

Ostrowski, whom the Wisconsin authorities are attempting to link to the Janesville and Sparta robberies, was arrested here on the charge of robbing two bank messengers, but was released in bonds of $10,000. He is to appear Friday before Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court for a hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. He was booked after the petition had been presented to Judge Kelly.

In the Sparta robbery, the bandits got $3,000 and in the Janesville robbery, $2,000. Ostrowski is accused here of having robbed two messengers of the Humboldt State bank, 2722 West North avenue, of $7,000 on Nov. 23, 1930.

Notebook Saves Policeman's Life

Policeman Richard Farrell (left), who was slightly wounded in pistol battle with three robbers, and Policeman Joseph Crowley, who aided him chase bandits and wound and capture one of them. A notebook in Farrell's pocket retarded the flight of the bullet that wounded him. The shooting occurred near the Ideal hotel at 1005 West Madison street, which had been held up by the bandit trio. Bandit Caught

A thick notebook in his pocket probably saved the life of Policeman Richard Farrell early yesterday in a pistol battle with two bandits who had robbed the Ideal hotel, 1005 West Madison street, of $10. A bullet struck the notebook and was deflected so that it caused only a slight flesh wound. Farrell and his partner, Policeman Joseph Crowley, shot and captured George Johnson, 31 years old, 1031 West Adams street, who will be charged with taking part in the robbery if he recovers from his wounds at the Bridewell hospital.

CAPITAL POLICE INQUIRY VOIDED AFTER A MONTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The federal investigation of alleged brutal third degree methods in the Washington police department was turned into a fiasco today with the discovery that a member of the grand jury hearing evidence in the case is a government pensioner. The investigation has been conducted during the past month by department of justice agents at the request of President Hoover.

The disclosure that one of the jurors was serving illegally came just as evidence looking to the indictment of seventeen local policemen on assault charges was to be presented to the jury. The indictments brought several weeks ago against five other policemen, as well as all of the other 180 indictments brought in by the jury during the summer were voided by today's discovery.

District officials said today that a new jury is to be selected immediately and the evidence presented to them next week. More than 200 witnesses in the police inquiry are to be recalled to testify before the new body.

Henry L. Johnson, the disqualified member of the jury, admitted today that he is receiving a fifty dollar a month pension from the government as a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He said he did not know this fact made him ineligible to serve on the grand jury and stated that he had not been asked whether he was a government pensionr.

HELD TO JURY ON ATTACK CHARGE.

John Mango, 32 years old, 3330 West Chicago avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 on a charge of rape yesterday by Judge Freeman L. Fairbank in the Felony court. The complainant is a 19 year old taxi dancer.

INDIANA BANK PRESIDENT FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 23.—(AP)—George E. Hilton, 45, president of the Logansport Loan and Trust bank, was found dead, a bullet wound through his head, in his automobile on a road southeast of Logansport late today. Coroner M. B. Stewart and Sheriff William Zerbe expressed the belief he had committed suicide.

Examiners have been working at the bank for three days, but said they had found no irregularities. B. F. Long, attorney for the institution, announced it would not open tomorrow, but said he believed completion of the audit in a few days would reveal nothing wrong.

Hilton, reported in good health, left the bank at 9:30 this morning, and was believed to have shot himself about 1 o'clock. His body was found by a farmer. Members of his family could ascribe no cause for suicide.

SEABURY THINKS TAMMANY CLUBS GAMBLER REFUGE

Produces Testimony of Ineffectual Raids.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—In an attempt to show that professional gambling in New York City exists only by protection of the police through the influence of Tammany politicians, Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter legislative committee, today presented testimony on the efforts of the police to stop professional gambling in three Tammany clubs.

These clubs, each of which was raided by the police without obtaining convictions, were the Thomas M. Farley association of the 14th assembly district, of which Sheriff Thomas M. Farley is the leader; the Tammany Central association of the 12th assembly district, of which City Clerk Michael J. Cruise is leader, and the Harry C. Perry association of the 3d assembly district, of which the chief clerk of the City court was leader until two months ago, when he was displaced by Albert J. Marinelli.

The one witness examined on the gambling phase of the inquiry was Police Captain Lewis J. Valentine, who as a deputy inspector and inspector commanded the police commissioner's confidential squad during the administrations of George V. McLaughlin and the late Joseph A. Warren.

Raided, Move to New Club.

Capt. Valentine testified that George McManus, who was tried and acquitted for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, was running a game in Mr. Cruise's club in 1927, at the time he had the club under observation, and that "Johnny Baker's play was being steered to the Perry club." He also asserted that a gambling house run by Billy Warren in 3d avenue moved to Sheriff Farley's club after a raid and that Warren was associated with such known gamblers as Rothstein, "Baldy" Froelich, A. Levy, and men named Coakley, Mayo, and Keeler.

It was generally reported at the time that McLaughlin and Warren resigned as police commissioners that resentment among Tammany politicians over the gambling raids by Valentine's squad had much to do with the retirement of each. One of the first acts of Grover Whalen when he succeeded Warren as commissioner was to reduce Valentine to captain and send him to a Long Island precinct.

May Call Whalen.

Mr. Seabury may call Whalen and McLaughlin in an attempt to discover whether or not Mayor James J. Walker forced the resignation of his first two police commissioners or had anything to do with the abolition of the commissioner's confidential squad.

He promised at the public hearing to offer testimony to show that Farley, Cruise, and Perry knew of the operations of professional gamblers in their clubhouses and to indicate that the gamblers were operating under political protection. Mr. Seabury has been informed large amounts of money have been paid for gambling privileges in political clubs and will try to place responsibility for alleged resumption of professional gambling since the administration of Commissioner Warren.

The only other witness questioned today was Dr. William F. Doyle, veterinarian, who under pressure of the new law empowering the committee to grant him immunity named eight persons with whom he split fees in cases before the board of standards and appeals.

Thinks Doyle Evasive Witness.

None of the eight named by Doyle appeared to be of the type sought by Mr. Seabury, as there was in every case some reason for payment and several performed services for which they were entitled to compensation.

Those named by Doyle were Peter P. Smith, a Brooklyn lawyer; Jacob Garlick and John Link, Brooklyn real estate dealers; J. Sarsfield Kennedy, a Brooklyn architect; Edward P. Doyle, manager of the New York Real Estate board; and Philip J. Sinnott, Norman November, and Monte London, lawyers.

At the end of Doyle's examination Mr. Seabury informed the committee that he regarded his testimony as evasive and suggested that he be questioned at a private hearing before a subcommittee of one.

Ex-City Employe Held as Murderer of Girl

Patrick Gavin, a former plumbing inspector for the city and professional football player, was held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Miss Evelyn Danielson, 22 years old. She was found shot to death in Gavin's apartment at 6251 Blackstone avenue on Sept. 7, following a drinking party.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

BEER AND WHY.

Probably the reason there is such persistent belief that the White House is considering the restoration of beer as an American beverage is that it would be such a sensible thing to do. The belief is as consistently denied confirmation as it is renewed by rumor and the nearest approach to substance it has attained is a statement that some one in the President's official household asked the census department for a report on the wages and workers of the brewing industry before prohibition. The intention might be to use these figures to support standpattism on Volstead. Nevertheless hope persists that the executive government is not set for duration on the most unyielding demands of prohibition zealotry.

The restoration of beer would permit the collection of an excise tax which would balance the government budget. As a revenue measure it would be a painless method of additional taxation and it could be made sufficient to put the government on easy street and take care of the deficit. If Washington does a tenth of the things which will be urged upon it in December when congress meets it will need a new source of funds.

With beer back on the American table a virtually new industry would be created. Prohibition statisticians may try to prove the negligibility of that, but their wish is the author of their conclusions. It is not necessary that a stimulus be of the proportions of the first, second, or third industry in the United States. The difference between good and poor times is measured in small rather than large percentages. If the United States were sick in more than half rather than much less than half of the whole there would, indeed, be a time ahead. The manufacture of satisfactory malt beverages would offer a new market for agricultural products and a new employment not only in the direct process but in all the complementary ones, in the furnishing of machinery and power and in marketing and distribution.

The manufacture and sale of so widely used an article as beer, a thing of common use the country over when permitted, is not a small or negligible industry. Psychologists may guess how much of the dead center in American affairs can be attributed to mental causes. When real wealth is undiminished in the country one would say that some of the trouble in distribution was to be found in timidity. The restoration of beer would bear on this aspect of the general condition. It would indicate that the American government was coming to a different view of the capabilities and responsibilities of citizens. When an adult in a democratic country is not officially judged to be competent to use beer as a table beverage the suggestion is weighty and pertinent that he is incompetent in every fashion.

The country is marking time for something to happen. It is waiting for a new turn of affairs. It is watching the horizon for a cloud of dust to portend that something is coming. The biggest and the simplest new turn of affairs would be the recognition that in common usage good beer is not an intoxicating beverage and that, in a land of the free, people are privileged to use it at their own discretion. It remains an astonishing thing that this was ever denied.

THE POOR OLD CONSTITUTION.

Senator Watson's chance to even the score against Senator Moses of New Hampshire would seem to lie in the Indiana legislature. Senator Moses procured the specification of New Hampshire granite for the George Rogers Clark memorial at Vincennes and Mr. Watson's reputation in the Bedford stone district is that of a gentleman who has walked home from a ride. Mr. Moses, finding it so easy, may take a camp table, three walnut half shells, and a handful of dried peas to Washington with him in December for the entertainment of the other conscript fathers. But if Mr. Watson is as mad as he should be he can have his state legislature pass an act prohibiting the use of New Hampshire products in all Indiana public works. Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Clark memorial commission, must have helped Senator Moses in the granite racket. Mr. Watson might include Ohio products in the prohibition.

Developments in these United States are so numerous and eccentric that one can never be sure whether it is being ossified into a solid unit of bone or disintegrating and blowing away as the dust of a dead Cæsar. The various states are finding different ways of retaliating against each other in spite of the notable determination of the Framers that there should be no tariffs imposed by one state against another.

Discriminatory taxes and embargoes can do the trick and shut the goods of one state out of the markets of another. The direction of the drifting may not be apparent these days, but there is considerably more than Alfalfa Bill of Oklahoma and Hooey P. Long of Louisiana to convince a citizen that a lifetime in the United States of America in this generation will never find its equal in another. We may not know where we are going, but we certainly are on our way.

THE WILL OF GOD AND STATE.

The house of deputies of the Episcopal church convention in Denver rejected a resolution introduced by a Michigan attorney denouncing the Supreme court decision by which citizenship was denied to Prof. Douglas Macintosh of the Yale divinity school. Prof. Macintosh, it will be recalled, asked for citizenship upon conditions satisfactory to his conscience but not to the American constitution. He wanted to reserve to himself the decision whether or not he would support the American government in case of war and the Supreme court held that the condition was not allowable. Mr. Dibble, the author of the resolution, said that decision subordinated the will of God to the will of the state. Having failed in the house of deputies, he said he would try the house of bishops.

The case of Prof. Macintosh ought to be particularly clear to Episcopalians. He is now in a condition favorable to the free exercise of conscience. He is expatriated from the land of his nativity and he has not assumed any citizenship responsibilities in the land in which he now lives. He is, to a much larger extent than any of his former fellow countrymen and his present day neighbors, a free agent, subject to the law of the land but not sworn to the moral acceptance of ideas he cannot support or decisions which offend his conceptions of right and wrong.

In seeking citizenship he confesses that this freedom has its drawbacks, but the man truly tender in his conscience makes little of the sacrifices required in its service. Prof. Macintosh has what he regards most highly, the freedom from obligations and contracts which might distress him spiritually. Why not let it go at that? The American government is willing and the professor should be.

Authority is not without its place in the Episcopal church, and it is recognized that the person who does not have sufficient faith in the authority would do better not to seek the communion of the church. The native born American will find himself obliged to accept what Prof. Macintosh seeks to avoid. The native born may get consideration from his government if he protests that his conscience hurts him too much, but it is not a right be exercises but a privilege he is granted. The conscientious objectors have not been exactly manhandled in the United States, although some of them preferred jail to conformity. The native born have no agreement with the government by which they can make their own decisions in time of war. Why should the alien expect greater privileges and rights than the native? And who will see clearly the will of God plainly set against the will of the state? Such particular revelations imply considerable egotism.

RECOMMENDING THE LEAGUE COURT.

A committee of the American Bar association has just renewed its recommendation that the United States join the league court. We have not read of any discussion by the committee of the recent decision of the court on the German-Austrian customs treaty. The bar waited a good many years to discover the implications of the 18th amendment, though it should have been the first to face them. It seems to be equally unconscious of the implications of our participation in the league court, although it should be the first to recognize them. The rank and file of the profession are doubtless too preoccupied with the practice of private law to think as the lawyers of earlier generations were expected to do, and did, of the larger aspects of public polity. But their leaders should be able and inclined to do so, and until they do the advice of the profession on public matters will be received with considerable reservation and discrimination.

Editorial of the Day

[Boston Herald.]

Dr. Herbert Spencer Dickey, first of white men, has seen the actual source of the Orinoco, the second river of South America. His journey has solved one of the geographical mysteries which remain in the southern continent and probably will make necessary a revision of the boundary lines between Brazil and Venezuela. The old authorities gave the river a length of about 1,500 miles. He traveled upstream a total distance of 1,750 miles. The striking thing about his story is that he refuses to admit that the expedition had any adventures whatever. There were some hardships and some dangers, but always the party of explorers were in touch with civilization by radio, and the natives, left unmolested, simply minded their own business.

Are there any more great rivers left anywhere on the globe for man to explore? Only a little more than fifty years ago bold adventurers of a half dozen nations were plunging into the depths of Africa, not to be heard from again for months and years, and perhaps never to emerge at all. Burton and Speke, Grant and Baker, Stanley, Kandt and Baumann, and a hundred more were seeking to find the source of the Nile. Conversely, others were trying to unriddle the puzzle of the Lualaba, the mighty river which flowed in central Africa, going nobody knew whither. It was Stanley who revealed the unsuspected magnitude of that river system and succeeded after almost incredible hardships in following it to its mouth. It and the Congo were one, but the Congo then had been traced only a hundred miles inland from the Atlantic. But after all is said, what marvel can compare with the wonder of the Mississippi as it carried Marquette below the mouth of the Ohio and La Salle all the way to the gulf? A few more years and men will be longing for new planets to explore.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

ARCHIVES OF PEDIATRICS, a medical journal devoted to the health problem of children, is investigating the subject of clothing for children, especially during the hot weather. They picked out a list of three thousand people to whom they sent a set of questions about children's clothing.

One thousand were physicians specializing in diseases of children. An equal number were family doctors, and a third group of the same size were nurses. The questionnaire method of investigation was supplemented by a study of fabrics under magnifying lenses, coupled with photographs of the enlarged images.

Most of those who replied to the questionnaire thought that improper clothing was responsible for much disease. Among the groups of disorders which one or more physicians thought resulted from improper clothing of children were: Eczema, prickly heat, and other skin diseases; colds, coughs, asthma, and other respiratory diseases; colic and other digestive disturbances; and nervous irritability.

Four-fifths of those who replied objected to all wool garments, next the skin especially. Some of the objections were that wearing such garments caused itching, heat rash, eczema, dermatitis, allergy, skin diseases. Some objected that wool did not absorb perspiration satisfactorily; others, that it was uncomfortable. It was charged with responsibility for many colds.

The majority were in favor of all cotton undergarments. Combinations of silk and wool were next in favor. Only one in fifty advocated wool next the skin. Only one in a hundred thought it advisable for children to wear silk underwear.

One-fourth of the entire number were in favor of the same weight and weave of underwear for both summer and winter wear. Nearly all favored changing for change in weather by means of differences in top garments. Overcoats and wraps were advocated rather than flannels.

An effort was made to find out what doctors thought about bands for babies. It was found that they were somewhat in favor, though opinion was greatly divided.

The same comment applies to the answers about the cut of garments and whether they should tie or button. On these points those who answered had nothing approaching uniform opinion. Probably a letter to one thousand intelligent mothers asking about cut of garments, buttons, tapes, and similar matters would have brought answers of greater value.

The answers were agreed that heat regulation was of great importance in young children. They make more heat per pound of body weight, they have more inches of skin per pound, atmospheric temperature affects them more, and they are more subject to colds, coughs, and pneumonia.

A HARD BOILED EGG.

M. L. M. writes: How long does it take to digest a hard boiled egg? Soft boiled? Fried?

REPLY.

About two hours.

There is no particular difference in the time required nor in the ease of digestion. Some experiments have shown that there is a few minutes' difference in the time required, but the difference is trivial. The building up of "dos" and "don'ts" in such trivial matters in unwarranted.

Many unwarranted statements have been made about fried eggs and other fried foods. These statements have been handed down for generations.

THE FENCE ACT.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a residence on Green street facing west. There is a difference of opinion as to which is my fence. Both fences were built when I bought this property. How am I to determine which fence is mine? J. E. G.

The wording of the fence act indicates that the legislature had agricultural properties primarily in mind. Section 2, for example, provides that a fence "sufficient to turn stock" shall be legal. Although the applicability of this wording to urban property is open to some question there is no express exemption and we regard the act as applying to division fences between city lots which are enclosed on their other boundaries, so that adjoining owners must contribute equally to the cost and repair of each such fence.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise if it is possible for me to take two examinations for two different positions in the civil service, as: First, clerk; second, junior stenographer. Thus if I failed in one I could rely on the other. Would you mind having my name placed on the mailing list for notification of clerks and if possible on junior stenographers' list also? J. V. B.

The writer may participate in as many examinations as he desires. As he requested, we have placed his name on our mailing list for notification of the next examinations called for positions of junior clerk and junior stenographer.

FOLLOW UP CLEWS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father passed on two years ago. He was living in another city at the time, but for years and up until a month before his decease he had told me he had and still did carry insurance for my brother and myself—a paid-up policy, I believe. When I arrived at his boarding quarters I found much of his effects missing, including his box containing all valuable papers, therefore I have no policy and am not sure which company carried the insurance. They all give me the same reply and state there is a government inspector one might to go. Is there, and can you help me? M. O. H.

We know of no government inspector who would have special charge of such facts. If you have any clew as to who interfered with the assets, you might take this matter up with the state's attorney.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE TALK ABOUT "this changing world," but does it; or at least do the people who make up the world change much? The Democrats say that the people of these United States will never forget these days of the so-called depression, but the Republicans say with the return of Old Man Prosperity from around the corner, which they devoutly hope will be some time before the presidential election next year, everything will be forgotten. And we happened the other night to be reading some of the sayings of the late Julius Caesar, the w. k. Roman, and among other things he said: "Mankind in general dwells on that which happens last." Why Mr. Caesar, how well you know us boobs.

AUTUMN SONNET.

Death's Holiday is over. Once again
He grimly snatches up his rusting scythe
All things that lived and grew an instant writhe
And flutter; then upon the callous earth
Lie stark and still—the cruel earth that gave Them summer sustenance, that gave them birth,

Soon, too, your melancholy song must cease.
Soon Night will come and cover you and them
With questless quietude and endless peace.
All things of Time and Space must gain, anon,

EOLUS.

A HOTEL out in Iowa boasts they've got an English baronet running one of their elevators. Down in New York they let the baronets go a long time ago; they won't hire anything but earls and dukes nowadays.

IT LOOKS from this distance as though the veterans at Detroit were going to do something to bring beer back. Tut, tut, and after we let them sell apples on the street corner, too. Ah, how the drys are going to mourn over such base ingratitude.

THE ANTI-SALOON league should have another amendment to the constitution forbidding conventions on the Canadian border. After a delegate crosses the line and buys a bottle of beer without being arrested or having his tires shot out from under him he begins to suspect that maybe Mr. Volstead might have been just a little mite hasty after all.

WHEN MR. CHAPLIN met Mr. Gandhi in London we imagine Charlie was glad, indeed, that he was not born in India. For a kick in the pants made Charlie famous while a kick in the loin cloth would be nothing at all.

Marginal Notes of a Vagrant Year.

Dear R. H. L.: Why that rare kinship with the morning ceremonials of the purple martins?—with the eventide song of the oriole when the mating season is upon the year?—with the call of thrush to thrush from unseen windows in the roadside hedges?—with the fragrance of the fecund lowlands when the leafy mosses, hungering for growth, turn away from the ferns and creep in upon the lichens? Only that into the gray of the October sunsets such fancies are to be borne, and in their places the eerie cry of the loon in the marshes, the chilling sibilence in the call of the screech owl beyond the canebrakes, the wail of the killdee vainly summoning her allenated young—that polyphony of movement when the grackles, tiring of secular retreats, marshal their strutting hosts in the fields from which the exacting reapers have gleaned their gold . . . where are the bold thoughts that braved the shadows when the tulips and the irises and the hyacinths were raising their phosphorescent chalices to the glow of a full June moon? Lo, they return in utter penance—as mendicant monks who failed of the Holy Grail—and, as such, creep through the crepitant silences of lost attainment; and the symbol of their failure is a bisected gourd that hangs half way below the zenith of a cool September night and drips with retrospection. . . .

THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

RAILS went booming upwards yesterday, so did wheat, so did cotton, so did lots of things. Three rousing cheers! And it looks today as though beer might do a comeback. Watch your ticker tape and the news from Detroit.

"GET OUT OF CHINA!" roared the league of nations in a terrible voice to the Japanese. "We will not," replied the Japanese. "Ah, then," said the league of nations in a smaller voice but still firmly, "stay in China. The league of nations must be obeyed."

"IS DISTILLED WATER drinkable?" asks our neighbor on the west, Doc Evans, in yesterday's Trib. Well, yes, Doc, if while you're distilling it you mix well with things such as corn, malt, wheat, barley, oh most anything like that. And then, Doc, the distilled water is most drinkable.

WOMEN.

Some must follow wind and water
Eastward, westward, all their lives;
Some there are content to harbor
Gentle thoughts of house-bound wives.

Some must hear the sea resounding,
Whipped against defiant boats;
Some there are to whom all music
Is in babies' tender throats.

Some must take untraveled roads where Stronger winds are stinging, cold;
Some there are whose little home is
All their arms can ever hold.

Some, like me, must sit by windows,
Staring outward all the day,
Wanting to be off and going . . .

FERRY ADAMS.

"WE WANT BEER!" shouts the American Legion at Detroit. That sounds like a slogan in the presidential election next year. And, gosh, how we dread it.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 24, 1915.

LONDON.—The plunging of Bulgaria and Greece, and perhaps Rumania, into the war hangs on the decision of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and his next move is a secret to all except his most intimate advisers. It is known that a new mobilization decree promulgated by Ferdinand last night calls to the Bulgarian colors twenty-seven classes of reserve troops, including all men in the country between the ages of 18 and 45. Serbia replied to the order by moving two divisions of troops within striking distance of the Bulgarian frontier.

LONDON.—Reports from Nish say that the best information obtainable indicates that there are 800,000 German troops available for an attempt to force a passage through Serbia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Germany, in a note dealing with the sinking of the American sailing vessel William P. Frye, made these concessions as to American demands: It gives assurance that American ships carrying conditional contraband will not be sunk by submarines under any circumstances and agrees to make "full reparation" for American losses resulting from the destruction of American ships carrying absolute contraband. An unfavorable declaration to the United States is that Germany refuses to refrain from destruction of American ships carrying absolute contraband pending the arbitral interpretation of the treaty, which probably will not be given until after the close of the war.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1901.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The trial of Leon F. Czolgosz for the assassination of President William McKinley began with Justice Truman C. White presiding in the Superior court. A jury was secured and five witnesses were examined before adjournment at 4 o'clock. The progress of the trial during the first day justifies all predictions that the assassin's path to the electric chair will be as swift as his most bitter enemies could wish. During the day Czolgosz's mask of indifference was dropped and he began to take casual interest in the jurors as they were selected. The element of fear has evidently entered his mind. District Attorney Penney said that his case will be concluded by noon tomorrow, and it is possible that the next day will see the assassin's fate in the hands of the jury, which is composed of two plumbers, a street railway foreman, a manufacturer, three farmers, a blacksmith, a bank cashier, a produce dealer, a shoe dealer, and a contractor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Theodore Roosevelt took possession of the White House, ate his meals and slept in the rooms usually reserved for the President of the United States. The flag at the White House, which is only displayed when the President is at home there, was at half staff, this being a double signal of the passing of one President and the coming of another.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Garfield's remains were started on their journey to Cleveland for final interment. President Arthur and Secretary Blaine rode at the head of the line of carriages in which were the cabinet ministers and their wives, members of the diplomatic corps in uniform, the chief justice of the Supreme court and associate justices, senators of the United States and members of the house of representatives, governors of states, and officials of several departments. The funeral train consisted of six cars. Reports are that at every place along the line there was a total suspension of business and vast crowds watched for the train to appear.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is said that an opinion has been prepared for the district attorney holding that it will be impossible to try Charles J. Guiteau in the District of Columbia for the assassination of President Garfield. The common law prevails here, which makes punishment for an uncompleted crime impossible. Guiteau can be tried for murder in New Jersey.

JOBS IN THE WEST PARKS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—A few weeks ago Gov. Emmerson called the heads of the park boards together to discuss plans for curtailing expenditures so as to stay within their limited budgets. At present funds in west parks are so low that the employés have not yet received their pay for July and August, to say nothing of September.

Many of these employés who are trying to buy homes and become tax paying citizens have no funds to meet necessary expenditures and find it hard to get credit.

Yet in the face of all this the governor, about a week ago, created three new jobs in the west park system so as to place three Thompson men and line them up for his 1932 machine.

If three more men were really needed in a system that can't pay the ones already employed, why not coöperate with his relief committee and appoint some capable ex-service men, as Mayor Cermak suggests?

Where is the money coming from to pay these big shots, or are they like the rest of the employés, going to work without pay?

Why should the governor be allowed to squander the taxpayers' money on useless jobs for political purposes?

The city thought itself well rid of the Thompson machine at the last election, yet this is the second time in a few weeks that Gov. Emmerson has appointed a Thompson man to west parks.

If he must give them jobs to get their votes, why not put some in Lincoln or south parks?

The employés are worse off than the teachers, as they have not even scrip.

TWO TAX BILLS.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—As a horrible example of the tax muddle this community finds itself in due to an antiquated system of taxation aided and abetted by corrupt politicians, let the writer cite the following:

He is connected with a minor finance company which, in spite of the depression of last year, made over $8,000 net after setting up liberal reserves, and will do as well this year. It received a personal property tax bill for $13.56, which was promptly paid.

The writer is also interested in a small gas filling station which has been losing money for the last year and a half and in which the actual cash investment for pumps, tanks and other equipment, plus stock on hand, is $1,175, and which he will gladly sell for $1,000, possibly less. It received a personal property tax bill for $67.50. Is it paid? No, and it will not be. DISGUSTED.

OFF THE GOLD STANDARD.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Can any one tell me what the outcome was of the Wm. Hale Thompson prosperity million dollar prize award?

I've got a boxful of these 25 cent coupons and was just wondering whether to tie a blue ribbon or a pink one around the box and burn it up, or send it to the ex-mayor for a souvenir.

GEORGE CANARY.

THE AUTOMATIC RIFLE.

Dundee, Ill., Sept. 18.—In your editorial today entitled "Matching the Gun to the War" you display complete ignorance of the problems connected with the adoption of the new semi-automatic rifle for the infantry. You seem to have no conception of the requirements for a successful infantry arm.

In your discussion of the comparative merits of the .275 and .30 calibers you confuse the uses of the rifle, whether automatic or not, and the machine gun. The new rifle will not be intended to displace the present machine gun, and every shot from the arm is intended to be aimed at a definite object. The question arising is whether the lower percentage of hits from the smaller caliber will be counterbalanced by the greater number of shots which can be carried.

The proposal of a .50 caliber infantry rifle is ridiculous at first sight. First, it is extremely dubious at the present time whether an automatic rifle could be made to weigh less than 15 pounds or more, which would prevent its use by the infantry. There is at present manufactured a Gibbs Mauser in caliber .505 for large African game, an examination of which would convince any one that the tremendous recoil makes it absolutely unsuited for the continuous fire of war. Furthermore, the action of this rifle is very prone to jam, and if the Mauser bolt action will jam, an automatic action would be useless.

ROBERT O. SCHLAIFER.

FIRST THINGS FIRST.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Mayor Cermak is quoted in this morning's paper as suggesting that ex-service men be employed to do the menial tasks required of police and the latter to be released to protect citizens from crime.

I would like to suggest just the reverse—that the police be left to the minor jobs, which they seem to take care of so efficiently, and the ex-service men be given a chance to see what they can do about the more important issues.

Three times in the last month we have been frightfully awakened from our slumbers by bombs. The first one was at a private home a block away, the second at the Ridge theater, and the last but worst in an apartment building filled with children just a half block from us.

There has been a notice about each bombing in the papers, but not a word about the bombers being caught or restrained in any way, so that we have no reason to suppose that the next one will not be on our own back porch. Having had our house robbed, we realize no one is immune.

On the other hand, last Sunday, while we were parked on Wilson avenue for five minutes, a policeman, with very evident joy in the importance of his position, threatened to give my husband a ticket because he didn't prevent our baby from honking the car horn two or three times. As he was in deadly earnest, if you can believe it.

Now I don't enjoy unnecessary horn honking myself, but I do believe in first things first, and once more I suggest that the mayor reverse his suggestion and give the ex-service men a chance to protect theirs and others' homes and families.

PLAN FOR CARE OF NEEDY SINGLE MEN AND WOMEN

But Only County Residents Will Receive Aid.

Relief for the homeless single men and women in this area will be furnished again this winter, the governor's unemployment committee made plain yesterday, although the bulk of its activities will go toward family support. It is estimated that about $300,000 will be necessary to provide shelter and meals for homeless single persons.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

By the middle of October the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county will be ready to start its campaign for $8,800,000—this year's goal—and it will have been apparent how much of this sum will come from individual contributions of wealthy persons. That particular drive will start Oct. 1, under the chairmanship of Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.

Provide Clean Beds and Food.

"The budget committee of the fund has estimated that $300,000 will be needed to handle the single cases this year," Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the fund, said yesterday. "Last winter and this spring this service was performed in a highly satisfactory manner at a cost of $261,134.

"Clean beds, nourishing food, baths, and in some cases clothing and medical attention were given by the shelters which provided 1,205,148 free night lodgings for the 32,000 men and 1,865 women who were registered."

By the first of next month, the committee announced, it expects to have accommodations for at least 10,000 men in shelters operated last winter and new ones already selected. These include 500 North Union avenue, 117 North Peoria street, 845 West Monroe street, and 126 North Des Plaines street. Free meals are already available at 1140 Indiana avenue and negotiations are being made to reopen another at 3027 South Wabash avenue.

For Local Residents Only.

Emergency service for the single persons will be directed from two places—the men from the municipal lodging house and the women from a central bureau in the State-Lake building. The commission is discouraging any unemployed persons outside of Chicago from coming here.

"We propose to care for every single man and woman who lacks shelter or food this winter, but we do not intend to make Chicago a magnet to draw the unfortunate unemployed from other parts of the country," said Lewis E. Myers, chairman of the housing committee. "Men and women in the shelters will be carefully interviewed by special workers and those who are found not to be residents of Chicago or Cook county will be sent back to their own cities."

Investigate Reports on Women.

Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, commissioner of public welfare, is cooperating with the unemployment commission and the Council of Social Agencies to find housing for homeless women. Two welfare department inspectors went out Tuesday night to investigate reports that women had been sleeping under the elevated structure on the south side, but no women were found, Mrs. Conkey said.

Representative church and club women will meet at the Spaulding school for crippled children, 1628 Washington boulevard, at 11 o'clock tomorrow to discuss plans for providing work and relief for 5,000 crippled and afflicted men and women in the county. Special consideration will be given the winter program of the Goodwill Industries, 1020 West Monroe street.

Leaders of Elgin's 1932 community chest campaign predicted yesterday that the quota of $71,296 would be raised in the drive after they had received a pledge of $20,000 from the Elgin National Watch company.

GERMANY CUTS PRICE OF BREAD FOR THE JOBLESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The congress of unions, bakeries and cooperative stores, under the presidency of Martin Schiele, German food minister, today decided to sell a two and one-half pound loaf to the jobless at one cent below the regular price.

Berlin's chief of police decreed today that bakers' shops shall henceforth display prices and weights of the various sorts of bread sold.

To stimulate industry and to provide work for the jobless, the German Railway company today decided to place contracts totaling $24,000,000 for rails and other material. The placing of further orders depends upon the success of the forthcoming 4½ per cent tax free loan, the issue of which was approved today by the railway board.

FARMERS STORE AWAY ENOUGH FOOD FOR WINTER

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Record breaking storing and canning activity has placed American farmers in a better position than in many years to face the winter, so far as food is concerned.

This was revealed tonight with the completion of a national survey by the Associated Press, which shows that with unprecedented foresight farmers in general began months ago to prepare for a hard winter.

They now have enough food and foodstuffs in cellars, storage houses and on pantry shelves to last until the grass turns green again. Farmers in some instances may wear patches on their clothes, but they will have a full larder for their families.

In one state alone, North Carolina, home club women have filled 4,600,000 containers of fruits and vegetables, in comparison with 1,250,000 last year. Gov. Max Gardner said the "live at home" program was responsible for the production of $25,000,000 in produce which in 1929 was bought outside the state.

Furthermore, farmers spent less than usual in cultivating their crops, as a result of the lack of financial assistance. Low prices prevented, with few exceptions, appreciable profits, but the margin of loss has been smaller.

The survey revealed that in many states, notably Virginia, Alabama, Colorado, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania, more garden crops were planted this season than ever before, the farmers in some cases even figuring out in advance a budget of their families' winter requirements.

Bumper food crops were reported in Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio, Kansas, Alabama, Tennessee, Missouri, and Oregon. In those sections the yield was great enough to assure the rural population enough garden produce to last until spring, to afford a surplus now being canned for the needy in urban sections, and to provide plenty of feed for live stock.

They'll Eat, at Least.

A report from a county agricultural agent in Texas was typical of statements received from all parts of the country. It read:

"He may not have enough to buy radios, automobiles, and spiffy clothes, but the Texas farmer will have plenty to eat this winter."

The average farmer is fattening his cattle on unmarketable grain and will slaughter them during the cold months to provide a meat supply for his family. Neighborhood slaughtering "bees" already are being planned in Indiana and other midwestern states.

In Oklahoma a typical family on the Red Cross list last year now has more than 500 jars of food stored away. In Minnesota pork, lamb, beef, and even chicken meat are being preserved.

The interest in canning has spread from country folk to their city cousins. The extent of the movement is reflected in reports from manufacturers that the greatest shortage of glass jars in the history of the country now exists.

In all except a few sates the farmers' storage bins and underground pits are filled to the point of overflowing with potatoes, apples, cabbages, turnips, and other nonperishable edibles.

Storehouses Overflowing.

Where grain crops have been large and unmarketable, farmers have built extra bins and trench silos to store the grain they later will feed to live stock. Kansas officials are urging the construction of these trench silos for storing the surplus.

Many schemes have been effected to take surplus crops off the farmers' hands and can them for distribution to the needy later. In Tennessee the preserving was done by workhouse inmates and the jars are being stored in the Memphis courthouse. The state penitentiary in Washington has charge of the canning. Detroit plans to have inmates of the House of Correction do the work.

Community cellars, where farmers will deliver their surplus crops for distribution to the needy, have been established or are planned in Washington and Wyoming.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

POSTPONE GRAND JURY ACTION IN BIG BANK THEFT

Indictments charging Walter E. Wolf, $75 a week manager of the coupon department of the Continental Illinois bank, with the embezzlement of $3,666,929 from his employers probably will not be sought until next week, Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers said yesterday.

Prosecutor Ayers had planned to place the case before the grand jury today or tomorrow. But he found on examining the statements taken from Wolf during the month that the defaulter was a voluntary prisoner in the hands of the bank, that that transcript is so voluminous that it will require a number of days to go over it with the prisoner. Wolf, who will be held incommunicado until his appearance in court, was questioned until a late hour last night.

"So far Wolf maintains that he and he alone was involved in the embezzlement," Mr. Ayers said. "He has made no admission involving others in a guilty knowledge of his peculations."

The prosecutor asked State's Attorney Swanson yesterday that another auditor be assigned him to assist in examining the records of Wolf's department in the bank, now in the hands of prosecutors.

City Announces $600,000 Street Improvement Plans

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, yesterday announced a $600,000 program of emergency street improvements, involving forty-nine minor projects throughout the city. All of the projects are of an urgent nature, it was stated. Several weeks ago the board of local improvements abandoned a $12,000,000 program of street improvements which would have been paid for by special assessments to avoid increasing tax bills.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Nickita Perkovic, 50 years old, 1464 Sherman avenue, who stepped in front of a train in Evanston.

MEAT INDUSTRY PLANS DISPLAY HALL IN CHICAGO

Leaders Act for 1933 Fair and Afterward.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A project to erect a permanent building in Chicago's packingtown for federal exhibits representative of the nation's live stock and meat industry was launched in a closed meeting at the Blackstone hotel yesterday. The structure would be used in the 1933 Century of Progress of exposition and remain as a "show room" for agriculture at the stockyards in connection with the annual International Live Stock exposition.

R. C. POLLOCK.

A committee of packers, officials of the live stock exchange, and heads of large agricultural organizations who have voiced approval of the project was formed. Rufus Dawes, president of the Chicago World's Fair, and Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, attended the meeting and are understood to have approved the plans. Both refused to comment at the close of the meeting.

Discuss Financing Today.

Designs for the proposed building were submitted at the conference. The committee is expected to go into details of the financing at a meeting in the stockyards today. It is understood the plan is to finance the project by a special appropriation of congress by funds from the live stock industry, or by both.

While the press had been invited to support a movement to get government funds for the building, reporters were barred from the meeting and at the close R. C. Pollock, manager of the National Livestock and Meat board, declared that no announcement could be made of action taken yesterday.

Seek Adequate Representation.

"We are merely taking steps to see that adequate representation of agriculture is to be had in the Century of Progress exposition," Pollock said. "We hope the government will participate in exhibits for live stock and 4-H club work."

The meeting, it was learned, grew out of previous plans for a government building at the fair grounds on the lake front. In this building it had been proposed there would be space for exhibits of various federal departments. No provision had been made for a livestock exhibit in these plans, however.

When the situation was brought to the attention of the fair authorities, officials representing the packers, the Union Stock Yard and Transit company, and livestock farmers proposed that a separate structure be erected, representative of Chicago's supremacy in this branch of agriculture.

The world's fair officials have indicated approval of the project, which would probably be the only section of the exposition away from the lake front. At yesterday's meeting it was reported that the following organizations had also approved the plan to erect the separate structure at the stock yards:

The American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, the American National Livestock association, the Kansas Livestock association, the National Livestock exchange, the National Livestock Marketing association, the Institute of American Meat Packers, the National Livestock and Meat Board, and the Union Stockyards and Transit company.

REVEAL LOCKED DOOR BASIS FOR PASTOR'S TRIAL

Secretary in Room at Time, Is Claim.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The charges of misconduct brought by his former secretary against Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal church, south, of Washington, and on which Dr. Shelton is now being tried by a church board in Alexandria, Va., are based on a locked door to the clergyman's study, it was learned today.

The alleged incident forming the basis for the charges against Dr. Shelton is said to have occurred about three weeks after he came here from Atlanta last October. According to the information a friend of Miss Williams, who preferred the charges, knocked on the study door early in the day of the alleged incident, while Dr. Shelton and Miss Williams were closeted in the room. She was admitted by Dr. Shelton, the friend says, after he had unlocked the door.

The whole case against Dr. Shelton is said to hinge on the reason for the locked door. Both the prosecution and defense are reported to have different answers to the question.

ARREST EX-HEAD OF INSURANCE CO. ON THEFT CHARGE

John Bain, 45 years old, 4423 Sheridan road, was arrested yesterday at the request of authorities in Louisville, Ky., who charge him with the embezzlement of funds estimated at $246,000 from the Equitable Life and Casualty Insurance company of that city, of which he was formerly president.

JOHN BAIN.

Municipal Judge James F. Fardy, who issued the warrant, set bond at $50,000. Bain is alleged to have obtained the money by sales of stock, the proceeds of which he failed to turn over to the company.

He denied the charge and said that he would resist extradition to Kentucky. He left the company two years ago, he said. He declared the warrant was obtained by his enemies in the concern, disgruntled because a merger with another insurance company which he had proposed failed to go through.

Call on Congress to Put It in Marketing Act.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Demands that the "equalization fee" be placed in the federal marketing act by congress on the ground that the act as it stands has failed to stabilize farm markets were voted yesterday at the final meeting of the directors of the American Farm Bureau federation at the Hotel Sherman. By unanimous vote the delegates issued a statement of policy, setting up that as friends of the farm board and of the marketing act they have reached the conclusion that the system has shown weaknesses which in their opinion should be corrected by interpolating the old McNary-Haugen fee principle into the act.

The policy declaration is to be acted upon at the annual meeting of the federation from Dec. 7 to 9 at the Hotel Sherman. It is proposed to open a battle for an equalization fee amendment to the marketing law when congress assembles in December. In case it fails the politicians look for a revival in the national conventions next year of the old controversy that was one of the headliners in the campaign of 1928 in the corn and wheat belt.

Give Arguments for Plan.

The federation directors declared that some interests are organizing to repeal the marketing act, and that as supporters of the act they believe the time has come to revive the equalization fee idea to strengthen it. The equalization fee system, the directors argued, would likewise be in the direction of taking the government out of business by placing the stabilization operations on a fee basis instead of dipping into the federal treasury.

The statement says that in 1926 the federation, in taking the initiative for an American farm policy, insisted that it should include the equalization fee principle. Under this all units of a given commodity would bear a share of the costs of control of crop surplus.

"The federation," yesterday's statement says, "at the time of announcing its position in support of the act reserved the right to insist that should the efforts to administer it disclose weaknesses or limitations within the act, it would at such time ask for such amendments as would be necessary to correct such weaknesses or limitations.

"It seems that time has now arrived.

See Further Step Necessary.

"Coöperative organizations have been developed; farmers have responded and rallied in efforts to organize and centralize the control of large units of many commodities.

"We would not minimize the accomplishments that have resulted from these efforts, but the fact stands out that although these large volumes of commodities have been centralized, yet tariffs have not and could not be made effective or domestic markets successfully stabilized.

"Voluntary coöperation has not and will not come into its full fruits of service to the American farmer unless provision is made either for the federal treasury to assume all costs and losses from efforts made through surplus control to stabilize American markes and make tariffs effective or the commodity must bear on each of its units the necessary stabilization costs and charges.

"We insist that the marketing act should and must be amended by congress so as to give the federal farm board authority to place charges against all units of any given commodity, moving in the channels of trade, their proportionate shares of all necessary natural costs and losses resulting from the control of crop surpluess which must be accomplished if the domestic market is protected as a market for the American farmer."

IN addition to Detroit's immense buying power, there's another market within the merchandising influence of Detroit that deserves the serious consideration of advertisers.

This market is made up of the best buying families in Ann Arbor, Lansing, Battle Creek, Port Huron, Flint, Pontiac and other Michigan towns and cities—families that can be approached economically through the metropolitan newspaper they prefer---The Detroit Free Press.

Of course, the greatest market covered by this newspaper is the Detroit city area with a population of 1,770,746 where buying power is concentrated in those 25 districts where the Free Press has 79% of its city circulation.

But when you consider Detroit, include these other families that are within the radius of its influence---and remember that they are reachable in no other way in such numbers and so economically, as through this newspaper.

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—When old Main hall at Lawrence college was built more than 75 years ago one of the first students to enter its doors was J. A. Kimberly, for half a century a pioneer in the pulp and paper industry in the United States.

DR. JOHN H. FINLEY.

Today, at the Lawrence matriculation day exercises, held jointly with dedication of the new building to house the Institute of Paper Chemistry, affiliated graduate school, James C. Kimberly, son of this pioneer Lawrentian, was announced as donor of $1,000,000 to be used for construction of a memorial to his father, an addition to the institute building opened today.

Dr. John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times, was principal speaker on the joint program. He congratulated Lawrence college, a liberal arts institution, on its having an affiliated graduate school to be devoted completely to the interests of research in the pulp and paper industry.

The institute of paper chemistry was held a progressive and pioneer step that has been widely recognized in a letter from President Hoover, who sent regrets that he would be unable to attend the dedicatory exercises, and stated further: "I congratulate those responsible for bringing the enterprise to the stage signalized by the dedication of the building to serve as a center of your constructive activities."

HENRY M. WRISTON.

In accepting the keys signifying dedication of the new building, valued at $250,000 complete with equipment, Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college and director of the institute, paid tribute to the "enthusiastic and energetic labors of the members of the board of trustees."

"The building houses the finest paper chemistry library in the United States, is possessor of the best optical instruments in any educational institution in America, and houses the most exact constant temperature and constant humidity rooms to be found in an educational unit in this country.

NEGROES MENACE EVANSTON COP; TAKE GUN, 'SPECS'

Sergt. Albert Kinder of the Evanston police force was manhandled by a crowd of a hundred or more Negroes last night in front of 2000 Dodge avenue, Evanston, when he stopped an automobile in which three Negroes were riding and attempted to question them. Kinder was robbed of his revolver and spectacles as he fought himself free from the mob.

Twelve Negroes were arrested in raids by the police later as they sought the three Negroes who were in the car and others who had taken part in the demonstration against the policeman.

Kinder stopped the automobile because he believed it had been stolen. As he tried to question the occupants the crowd gathered. "Don't hit him with his glasses on," some one shouted. Another grabbed his spectacles and a third his revolver. He tore loose and summoned help at the nearest patrol box. When a squad arrived the mob had dispersed. The raids followed.

Mother Tells What a Back Yard Can Do for Group of Growing Boys

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Some time ago there was an article in your column about a woman who objected to giving up her back yard to her boys on the ground that it might cause them to be selfish, etc. I felt constrained to answer it at the time, but procrastinated.

"When we moved here, twelve years ago, with two boys or 3 [one adopted] we had a beautiful yard with perennials and shade trees. My husband fretted and stewed about the lawn for five or six years until I was miserable. Finally, I said, 'I thought we got this place so the children could have a yard to play in. Why can't we give up the back yard to them until they start to high school? They are far more important than a lawn. We can have that after they are grown and gone—and then perhaps when the grass grows undisturbed we may wish we could have them back once more to ruin it.'

"Finally he consented. For six years all the boys in the neighborhood played in our back yard—football, basket ball, baseball, volley ball, pitched horse shoes, had picnics in the spring [they called it 'eating out']. They built a club house; I marveled at small boys doing such a good job. I've baked more cookies and rolls and doughnuts!

"But I am glad we did it. I feel we have helped a lot of boys get a wholesome foundation for life and I am grateful to my neighbors for not complaining about the noise. If I had had some neighbors I could not have stood the strain, but they helped me. One neighbor had a boy who belonged to the club. The other side had no children, but were gone a great deal and when they were home they were so nice the boys would have done anything for them.

"On very hot afternoons they donned bathing suits about four o'clock and turned on the hose on the cement driveway between the houses, and maybe you think it was not noisy then! I shall be eternally grateful to my neighbors for sparing my nerves."

It's an overworked word—coöperation. But in its best significance it's a fine one. Surely this letter pictures a splendid example of it. The father giving up the much desired but impossible, the mother seeing the more important thing and risking the possible opprobrium of her neighbors and the strain of their complaints [and who that has boys doesn't know it?], the neighbors so intelligent and sympathetic that they lost sight of their own inconvenience [and noise is a real trial to some people]—all these, coöperating, did a fine thing for a group of boys at an age when their alternative might have been the streets, and the uncertain and often deplorable influences they represent.]

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Hardly in Good Taste.

"Dear Miss Blake: A girl I met two weeks ago gave me a present. What do you think her reason was?
"SHADOW."

Don't Demand Too Much.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it right for my friend to do as his friends say or as I say?
RODA."

He will try to please you, in every way possible, but he wants to keep his friends, so be reasonable.

Well Rid of Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I love says he loves me, but quit me because I spoke to an ex-boy friend. I tried to explain, but he refused to listen.
"TILLIE."

Courtesy demands that he listen to your explanation, Tillie. I think he is a most unreasonable young man, and that you are well rid of him.

Subtle Suggestions Better Than Criticism of Boy Friend's Manner

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I love a certain boy who, in turn, is just crazy about me. But he has certain mannerisms I don't like. He doesn't mean to be rude, but some of the things he does appear so to others. If I correct him he feels awfully hurt.

"He's a fine chap, but hasn't had the educational advantages that I have. Another thing, he's very quiet. I wish he would be more friendly with the girls. I mean I wish he could fool with them. He just has no light conversation, as my sister calls it.
"EUNICE."

This business of trying to remodel one's best beau is a ticklish one and it cannot be pursued too avidly. More often than not it is a business that should not be pursued at all. Women have an unholy passion for taking the gift the gods have laid at their feet and trying to remodel it along a line of their own planning. It's all right where there are crudities to contend with in a man that one wants everybody to admire. The objection is where a girl has a set and fast notion of her own of what a boy should do and should not do just because she says so.

If one is attracted to a man who hasn't a line of light conversation, why try to make a light conversationalist out of him? It isn't his act and it never will be his best act. And there's no doubt that others will be attracted to him, just as his girl was, because of merits he does possess. Anyway, his very best act is being himself.

Then, about trying to improve mannerisms and social behavior, it isn't a thing you can hop right into with both feet. It requires a clever and subtle technique, a word of praise always accompanying the criticism, however mild the latter. Better than direct criticism is commenting on another male's social suavity, let's say, and his actions and reactions under certain circumstances. None of us warms appreciably to direct criticism. But we can take a gentle hint with reasonable aplomb. Or we can note a comparison between our actions and another's.

WESTERN UNITED GAS CO. OFFERS 3% CUT IN RATE

The Western United Gas and Electric company, an Insull utility serving the suburban area in six counties west of Chicago, yesterday applied to the Illinois commerce commission for permission to raise the heating units of gas furnished its customers by mixing natural gas with the manufactured product and to reduce its rates.

It follows the lead of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, serving Chicago, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, serving other suburbs. As in the case of the other companies, the Western United company asked permission to raise the heating value of its gas from 480 to 800 British thermal units per cubic foot.

The Western United company offers to lower its rates for ordinary domestic use 3 per cent and for heating by gas 22 per cent. The Peoples Gas company offered a reduction of 3½ per cent on domestic use and 22 per cent on heating service. The Public Service company offered reductions of 2 and 20 per cent, respectively, on the two classifications.

Rough Humor Fills Satire of Married Life

Thorne Smith Calls Idol to Adjust Row.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Turnabout," by Thorne Smith. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

NOT for the squeamish or the too literal minded is "Turnabout," the last of Thorne Smith's hilarious tales. You remember the others? "Topper"—which we thought was one of the funniest books we ever had read when we read it, and time has not blurred the memory—"The Stray Lamb," and "Night Life of the Gods," all of them fantastic and all of them guffaw producers.

THORNE SMITH.

"Turnabout" goes one better for shabby and Rabelaisian humor anything that Thorne Smith previously has written and his books never have been ones that were entirely safe to read aloud without a previous looking over. You know what a jolt you get sometimes when you're reading aloud and you come upon something that's shocking to the eye—often words don't the eye. That's a fact that any one who reads much knows.

Incidentally that was one of the touches of the late D. H. Lawrence that a word often gave an immediate shock to a reader upon first seeing it which the mind entirely rejected after seeing it two or three times. The most classic example of the shock known to the eye is the effect which the word "bloody" used to have upon British readers.

They could THINK the word, but they couldn't say it. And when they put it in print it gave them an indescribable shock. Thorne Smith's words [and situations] sometimes give the eye of the reader [and his surface mind] just that kind of instantaneous shock which wears off or is submerged in the hilarity of the humor. "Turnabout," however, read once in the privacy of one's own laughing closet will lead those who like it to rush out and find a suitable audience for its reading aloud.

"Turnabout" begins with a very subtle verbal battle between a husband and a wife who live in a suburb and who do their morning hymn of hate as a nightcap. The wife, Sally, thinks that everything in the world is the matter with her husband from his looks to his sex appeal. She has for five successive years found fault with him nightly physically, mentally, and morally. Tim, the husband, thinks that everything is at its possible worst in the worst of all possible worlds, including Sally. He has, for the same length of time told her so.

In other words, they are a typical young couple—so the author suggests—as are fifty or sixty million other young couples. Sally thinks that if she had a life of gayety, going to New York every day, working in a fascinating advertising agency, eating lunch with amusing people, she never would be such a dub as Tim.

Tim thinks that if he ever could get enough sleep, didn't have to catch the morning train to a crowded and noisy city, didn't have to sit in at conferences with a bunch of dumbbells and bootlickers, didn't have to write ennobling and uplifting copy—in other words if he had a little of Sally's ill spent leisure, he would make something of himself. If they only could change places. . . .

One of their wedding presents had been an old Egyptian god ram, the gift of a profligate uncle. Mr. Ram got so tired of their constant bickering that he fixed them one night. He put Sally's mind into Tim's body and Tim's mind into Sally's body. And what hadn't happened before that exchange, which had been plenty, including the murder of the town Lothario [who mysteriously turned up on the commuter's special the next morning as usual] happened after it. Sally's and Tim's shoes [as well as his skin] went to the advertising office and Tim, in Sally's brassiere [which he didn't know how to put on], spent a quiet, chatty day with the "girls."

The possibilities of such a situation are, as you might suppose, myriad, and Mr. Smith doesn't miss one of them. Tim's discovery that he is going to have a baby, and the process of having it are gone into with hilarious thoroughness.

TERRORIZATION!

WHAT HAS BEEN EXPECTED FOR TWO MONTHS HAS HAPPENED

As a result of the publication of Washington Merry-Go-Round, an anonymous book, the authorship of which still remains unknown, a prominent Washington correspondent has now been discharged by his paper because it was publicly intimated that he was one of the book's authors. The sinister influences, mostly political, which have been exercised toward discovering the author or authors of Washington Merry-Go-Round have created a feeling of terror and surveillance among Washington correspondents. Many of these unusually able and upright newspaper men are in fear that the axe will fall on their heads if their names are publicly mentioned as possible authors. We have reached a period of secret censorship of the press as effective as Star Chamber methods would be.

dares to tell the story of Washington politics, politicians and society that the newspapers dare not and will not print. It has been the national best seller since publication, now in its 14th edition .... $3.00.

FARRAR AND RINEHART BUY COSMOPOLITAN BOOK CORPORATION

Farrar & Rinehart, a publishing firm only two years old, yesterday bought the Cosmopolitan Book corporation, owned by the William Randolph Hearst interests. Thus it acquired some spectacular names as additions to its own list of writers. The purchase of all the current and future books of the Cosmopolitan Book corporation and of the corporation's contracts with authors adds such writers as Eric Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front"; Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel"; Louis Bromfield, Pulitzer prize novelist; Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blonds"; Fannie Hurst, Rex Beach, Ruth Suckow, Faith Baldwin, and others.

The Farrar & Rinehart list includes Mary Roberts Rinehart. Her two sons, Stanley M. Rinehart Jr. and Frederick Robert Rinehart are president and secretary and treasurer of the firm, of which John Farrar is vice president. Others on its list are Katharine Brush, author of "Young Man of Manhattan"; Upton Sinclair; Marc Connelly, author of "The Green Pastures," the Pulitzer prize drama of 1930; Floyd Dell, Walter de la Mare, Du Bose Heyward, author of "Porgy," and many other distinguished writers.

Stanley Rinehart said over the long distance telephone last night: "Mr. Farrar and I always have been interested in developing young talent. In the old days when we were both at the George H. Doran company we were responsible for publishing the work of unknown young writers like Du Bose Heyward, John Dos Passos, and Donald Ogden Stewart. With the acquisition of a galaxy of well known names our policy toward the unknown talent will not be changed."

The name of Farrar & Rinehart will be retained and the business will be carried on at 9 East 41st street, New York City. FANNY BUTCHER.

Savants Open Display of Modern Marvels.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Mankind, increasing steadily in knowledge, evolving ethical and religious concepts out of the latest discoveries of science, was pictured today as the highest living thing in a world slipping toward extinction. Such was the view given to British scientists who are celebrating the centenary of Michael Faraday's discovery of electric induction.

The men, women, and children in the streets of London were enjoying the flood lights and other unaccustomed illuminations, marking this electrical age. Crowds tonight came to Royal Albert hall for the exhibition, opened today, wherein are displayed the wonders of electric technology. That show was opened formally by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, former premier of the Union of South Africa, installed this morning as the new president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. In his address, praising the work of Faraday, he portrayed the sciences.

"While the smaller world of life seems on the whole to be on the upgrade, the larger physical universe is on the downgrade. One may say that in the universe we witness a majority of movement downward, and a minority movement upward. The energy which is being dissipated by the decay of physical structure is being partly taken up and organized into life structures—at any rate on this planet. Life and mind thus appear as products of the cosmic decline, and arise like the phoenix from the ashes of a universe radiating itself away. In them nature seems to have discovered a secret which enables her to irradiate with imperishable glory the decay of which she seems physically doomed."

Of evolution, its friends and foes, he remarked:

"Whatever doubts and differences of opinion there may be about the methods, the mechanism, or the causes, there is no doubt about the reality of organic evolution, which is one of the most firmly established results in the whole range of science.

"The acceptance of the theory of evolution has brought about a far reaching change in our outlook on the universe and our sense of values. The story of creation, so intimately associated with the ground work of most religions, has thus come to be rewritten."

As to the interplay of science and human life he said:

"The highest reach of this creative process is seen in the realm of values, which is the product of the human mind. Great as is the physical universe which confronts us as a given fact, no less great is our reading and evaluation of it in the world of values, as seen in language, literature, culture, civilization, society and the state, law, architecture, art, science, morals, and religion.

"Indeed, one of the greatest tasks before the human race will be to link up science with ethical values, and thus to remove grave dangers threatening our future. A serious lag has already developed between our rapid scientific advance and our stationary ethical development, a lag which has already found expression in the greatest tragedy of history. Science must itself help to close this dangerous gap in our advance which threatens the disruption of our civilization and the decay of our species. Its final and perhaps its most difficult task may be found just here. Science may be destined to become the most effective drive towards ethical values, and in that way to render its most priceless human service. In saying this I am going beyond the scope of science as at present understood, but the conception of science itself is bound to be affected by its eventual integration with the other great values."

Despite Protests from the Film Producers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 23.—After two weeks of consideration the treasury department today handed in its decision on the film situation. The high duties recently established must stand. If American made films are shown in Mexico they must pay duties.

Two weeks ago film managers representing American firms here, and their producers, received instructions to depart from Mexico unless the duties on films were lowered. The new duties have raised the imports on films from 8 to 75 pesos [about $4 to $37.50] on 2.2 pounds, and on discs for the use of moving pictures from 5 to 50 pesos [about $2.50 to $25]. The situation is difficult, for the moving picture theaters are charging for admittance from one peson [50 cents] upwards, according to the cost of the film, and the theater managers have agreed that with the new duties they would have to charge double that.

As Mexico is on a silver basis Mexican employés are poorly paid and the theaters believe that higher prices cannot be collected. Owing to the poor film service, due to the increased duties, attendances have fallen off 50 per cent during the last two months. The film exchange houses report their present losses at 500 pesos [$250] daily, because of interrupted business and with no hope of recuperation. It was said today that more than half of the moving picture theaters here will be forced out of business automatically because of their inability to pay the high film duties. Nothing but old films are now being shown here in Mexico.

Attorney John Root of Galva, now 82 years old, presided today as he did 35 years ago at the first celebration.

Deputies Adopt Idea of Church Marital Courts

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 23.—The house of deputies of the Episcopal church approved today creation of church courts to deal with marital questions, approved, then reconsidered and defeated, a proposal to require health certificates before priests would perform the wedding ceremony. The deputies approved, it already has passed the house of bishops, a $5,000,000 fund for the development of churches in rural localities.

The medical certificates proposal won by a narrow margin, but soon was reconsidered and defeated, on the motion of Monell Sayre of New York. He obtained a two-thirds majority for its defeat, largely on the argument of Louis Monteagle of San Francisco, who declared "bootleg" certificates are easily available from health certificates are easily available from certain physicians easily found in all sections of the country.

Establishment of ecclesiastical courts to deal with marriage annulments in each Episcopal diocese is provided for in a canon adopted by the house of deputies. Roswell Page, a Virginia lawyer, had opposed the court idea on the ground that the very presence of such courts, in many cases, starts trouble. He also pointed out, as did the Rev. Dr. E. J. Randal, executive secretary of the diocese of Chicago, that such courts would reflect on the wisdom and ability of bishops, who now rule on marital problems.

A complete system for annulment of marriages and provisions under which they may be annuled, is set up by portions of the canon adopted by the deputies today.

The section of the canon containing a prenuptial pledge reads as follows:

"We, A. B. and D., desiring to receive the blessing of the church upon our marriage, do solemnly declare that we hold Christian marriage to be a life long physical and spiritual union of husband and wife, for the purpose of mutual friendship, encouragement, and understanding, for the procreation of (if it may be) children and their physical and spiritual nurture, and for the safeguarding and benefit of society. And, we engage ourselves, so far as in us lies, to make every effort to realize the Christian ideal and to avail ourselves of means of grace thereto as taught and provided by Christ's church."

Science Points to Man's Life in Changing Era

As Showing Evolution Is Going On Today.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Man perches on the topmost branch of the tree of life, which has its foundation in the lower chordates [a branch of animals with structure resembling a cord], according to the new biological syllabus which is being introduced this week as one of four foundation courses of general education at the University of Chicago.

The ascension of man is traced by the evidences of various sciences through the fish and reptile stage, and the primitive mammals, in a direct line with bats, lemurs, monkeys, and anthropoid apes. And the evolutionary processes in the earth, in man, and in society still are going on.

"The special creationists," it is explained in the book prepared by thirteen members of the faculty, "assert that each species of plant and animal was first brought into existence by an act of special creation. Where there was no living thing before, a new plant or animal was rather suddenly created in fully developed form. All other species were originally created by similar but independent acts.

"From these original species the plants and animals of today have descended without modification, so that today there are no more species than there were acts of special creation in the beginning. [Bryan was emphatic on this point at Dayton, Tenn.]

"As to the identity of the creative agency, the raw materials used in the process, and the mechanics of the synthesis, accounts are mythological rather than scientific. The concept of special creation has as its foundation 'word of authority.' Thoughtful moderns seek a more reliable foundation for belief.

"The evolutionists maintain that the present species of plants and animals have all descended from one or few original ancestors. The various lines of descendants from these ancestors have been gradually modified as the generations passed, and have steadily diverged.

"Thus organic evolution, or orderly change, has been occurring among living things during the many millions of years that they have occupied the earth, and the numerous present types are the fruits of that process. The concept of organic evolution rests, not upon 'word of authority,' but upon the scientific methods of observation and inference and experimentation."

The evidences in the field of comparative anatomy and embryology are first noted where it is found that useless structure has gradually dwindled. The chemical evidence of blood relationships is studied in serum reactions. The fossil records, it is stated, undoubtedly conform to the expectations of the evolutionist. Problems of geographic distribution are solved by this same concept. When it comes to the factors of this evolution, however, there is not the same unanimity of opinion among scientists. The syllabus teaches this line of reasoning:

Practically all modern biologists believe that organic evolution has occurred, but there has been considerable difference of opinion as to the exact process that nature employs to bring about this result. It is possible to recognize in nature several forces or factors that must have interacted to bring about organic evolution: the persistence factor [heredity], responsible for the introduction of new characters; the acceleration factor [sex], responsible for producing new combinations of old characters; the guiding factor [selection and, possibly, orthogenesis and the Lamarckian factor], responsible for adaptation and whatever of orderliness actually exists in the evolutionary process; the dividing factor [isolation in the broadest sense], responsible for the divergence of several lines of descent from a common ancestor."

In the detailed study of the various factors the chapter on orthogenesis shows the general trend of the teaching, as follows:

"The mutation mechanism seems to be a random one, without purpose or direction. It is given an adaptive direction by natural selection, but many biologists consider the mutation selection mechanism inadequate to account for progressive evolution. Paleontologists point to the apparent fact that certain kinds of animals or plants have evolved along certain restricted courses. Thus the horse family has undergone a steady decrease in the number of toes, a steady increase in the length of neck, in body size and in teeth complexity.

"The question arises as to what forces or agencies are responsible for this definiteness in evolutionary trends. Some believe that there is a purpose in nature and that there is a sort of mystical guiding force, an elan vital, presiding over the evolutionary process. Others consider that races grow old and pass through changes similar to ageing processes in the individual. Still others consider that the principle of natural selection working with mutations is adequate to account for whatever definiteness of direction actually exists.

"There is probably less of definiteness and more of the random about evolution than has been generally realized. Hence orthogenesis may be less real than has been supposed. Whether real or not, there is no satisfactory known mechanism to account for it. In any case it seems well to avoid mystical causes unless all more natural alternatives fail. In this case selection seems simpler and more plausible than any factor offered to explain what orthogenesis actually exists."

Sex is found to be "the least efficient, most hazardous and wasteful method of producing offspring." . . . "Yet sex persists as the prevailing method of reproduction among our highest [most complicated] organisms. The situation is explained by the fact that sex brings an incidental advantage which more than offsets its inefficiency as a mode of reproduction. By multiplying variation sex accelerates evolution, and anything that accelerates evolution is of high survival value. The prevalence of sex among our higher organisms has been cited as evidence for evolution."

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin arrives in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement, with her dancing partner, Don Philippe de Rodriquez, and their pianist, Tom Libby. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer.

INSTALLMENT IV.

ABOUT IRMA.

Irma went on with her pressing. Philippe had no doubt gone to the Crystal Moon Palais de Danse last night after he'd parked his suitcase at the La Paris. Irma knew his game. He played it in every town.

It was a simple game. He just stood in the theater lobby directly next to his photograph. Flappers wandering in to see what the week's bill promised would see the pictures of the dashing señor, they would see Philippe, rapidly compare flesh with photograph and gasp. Philippe would raise his hat and smile at the prettiest and enter at once into conversation. The flapper was flattered and dazzled, but life still held more for her than a mere meeting with Don Philippe de Rodriquez. He would look at her ankles and she would giggle. "No, no, Señorita, I'm interested professionally. Surely those are the ankles of a great dancer." She must leave her girl friends and come with him at once to the nearest dance palace. He felt certain that she was what he had been searching for. And, of course, she always was. A divine dancer. Such grace, such sense of rhythm. Now, the girl who was at present in his act had proven a dismal failure. No grace, no sense of rhythm. He wanted to replace her. Would the señorita be willing to go on the stage? Señorita was sometimes a high school girl, sometimes a waitress, but always she was willing to go on the stage.

Señorita sometimes had an enthusiastic family. They would feed Philippe all week, thus saving him nine dollars. Señorita herself was always enthusiastic and usually understood by Wednesday at the latest that one had to give all for art. Probably the only reason that Philippe had not been a principal in a shotgun wedding was that any family would rather have a nameless child than an adagio dancer.

Irma had discovered Philippe's game through the current señorita in Little Rock. Philippe was always bringing them backstage. He wanted Irma to see them and grow worried about her job. Irma saw them, but never grew worried.

Señorita Little Rock, barely past sixteen and pathetically pretty, had said, "I hope you don't mind me taking your place in the act. I hope you can find something else to do."

Irma had been puzzled for a moment, then had seen the light. "O, O, sure, don't worry about me. I do very nice embroidery. I can always make a living."

"You Miss Corbin? Some one wants to see you."

Useless to tell her that Phil was the bunk. Señorita would think her jealous. O, hell, let her get hurt. She no doubt had a family to take care of her. Irma had nobody and had always pulled through.

"Well, Mrs. Astor, are you going up to rehearse that waltz?"

"O, you still here? No, I'm not going to rehearse."

"All right. You gum it up and you're fired. Understand?"

Irma laughed, then sighed heavily. It was, after all, very tiresome.

"I ought to can you anyhow. I get no coöperation from you."

"You won't can me, Phil. You couldn't replace me for less than a hundred a week and you know it."

The matinée went smoothly. Or, at any rate, as smoothly as usual. There was always Philippe cursing and criticizing under his breath as they stamped heels, clicked castanets, and went through all the motions of two-a-day Spanish dancers. Bill Fitzroy was out front. Irma threw him a smile as she danced. She wondered what he would think if he knew what Philippe had just said to her. Probably think her a weak spined mouse for not crowning Phil with a tambourine and leaving him flat. Still, if you hated the chorus—what was left? One didn't step from nowhere into specialty dancing in a Broadway show.

The curtain fell on a mild ripple of applause. It rose again and Don Philippe de Rodriquez and company bowed and turned to pick up their props—the shawl which draped Tommy's piano, the rose which Irma had tossed from the ever insecure balcony, the tambourines.

"You Miss Corbin? Some one wants to see you."

Bill Fitzroy no doubt. But it was Wallace Graham. Irma was glad that she still wore the ivory satin basque with its huge graceful skirt. She was glad of the white flower that was pinned in the back of her hair.

Graham looked nice in his business clothes. He was still distinguished looking and had an air of reliability and confidence about him like the Corn Exchange bank or even one of its branches. Perhaps his hair with its wide streak of gray gave the impression that here was a safe man. He was a trifle embarrassed. Hanging out at stage doors was obviously not in his line.

"I thought perhaps you'd like to take a drive before dinner. Sort of see our town, you know. I have the car here."

"O, that would be grand."

Irma took her stage makeup off quickly and replaced it with a lighter one for street use. She hurried as she had not hurried that morning for Bill Fitzroy. She had known that Bill would wait. She had her doubts about Wallace Graham. He was different. He might not wait.

But he was there fifteen minutes later when she swung out of the stage door. He led her to his car. It looked like him. It was one of those medium priced cars that was all car, with no nonsensical innovations to attract the light minded buyer.

Somehow Irma got talking about herself as they rolled through the outskirts of Thrace. She wasn't much on talking about herself as a rule. For that matter she wasn't much on really talking. For the most part cut and dried phrases of the day served her. She didn't remember later how she had come to talk about herself. Perhaps he had asked her in so inobtrusive a manner that she had not noticed. She remembered later that somehow or other she had mentioned her father first.

"I don't know where he is," she said. "My aunts couldn't find him when my mother died. Maybe he's dead, too, or maybe he's alive somewhere. Darned if I care."

Wallace Graham's face showed his disapproval of her unfilial remarks.

"You're one of those 'right-or-wrong-my-father' people, aren't you?" she asked.

"Well, you see, I have a daughter. I should hate to think that she'd ever feel that way about me."

"I should hate to think you'd treat her like my old man treated me. He deserted mama and me when I was six. What do you think of that?"

"I think it's dreadful, of course, but then you were too young to understand everything."

"I could understand hunger, Mr. Graham. He had no business doing that to me even if mama was the worst woman in the world, which she wasn't. She was wonderful. I'll tell you right now before we get to know each other a bit better than we do—I think men are the bunk. They're all rats from the word go."

"O, not all of us."

"Well, it's the exception that proves the rule and I'm dying to see it proven.

She told him, too, of her aunt who taught dancing to the neighborhood children.

"Right away I decided I'd go on the stage. Aunt Gert taught me a lot, then I practiced at home everything I saw the girls do in the theaters. I'm no riot at dancing. I'm only average, but I have a knack of making simple things look effective. Well, I'm only 19. I may get there yet. I've been working three years at this. I used to help Aunt Gert give lessons, then some woman who came there got me a job in a café revue. I was in a couple of vaudeville acts after that. This one's the third."

She spoke haltingly and her eyes were sullen and hard. Graham was not an imaginative man. He was not given to flights of fancy, yet at this moment he vividly recalled a prisoner he had once seen dictating his confession. The same heavy pauses at regular intervals, the same staring ahead into space.

"It hasn't been fun, has it?" he asked gently.

"No, it hasn't, but I didn't mean to get complaining. I just wanted to tell you about me, I guess. You know how the magazines give a synopsis of what has gone before?"

"Yes. I certainly hope I'll be in the next installment."

Irma turned her eyes to a far green hill and waited. After a remark like that an arm ventured around you and if you said nothing you were kissed.

But the car moved steadily on and nothing happened. She dared a sidelong glace at him. He was not looking at her and possibly not even thinking of her. She felt cheap. He had merely passed a friendly remark and she had taken it for a lead-up.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Jobless, Needs Stove.

"Can you get me a stove for the parlor? We have stove heat where we are living and I'd like to get ready for the cold weather by getting a stove now. I can't possibly buy one, as I haven't had a job in months. E. P."

Next winter will mean additional suffering for this family who have already undergone so much if we do not get a heating stove for them. Perhaps you can supply it.

Asks for Patterns.

"Would any of your readers have any dress or night gown patterns for a little girl who wears size 3? I would appreciate getting them, so I could make over some large dresses I have. MRS. E. H."

The home dressmaker is sure to have a store of such patterns among those she does not plan to use again. Mrs. E. H. would be grateful for one or two of them.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The tale how Sylvia Ulback, the masseuse, rescued Vicki Baum, German novelist, from threatened deportation to Germany at the Mexican border last Sunday has stirred chuckles among those who know outspoken Sylvia.

Vicki Baum, who in private life is Mrs. Richard Lert, got the idea several months ago that she wished Sylvia to slap the results of an indulgence in kaffee kuchen off her hips, and in the process the writer and the masseuse became great friends. Last week they went from Hollywood to Agua Caliente together. The American immigration men, stopped Vicki Baum on her return trip across the Mexican border, because she couldn't say "Okay" with an American accent, as Sylvia told her to do when the officers inquired: "American citizen?"

The authoress of "Grand Hotel" immediately was hauled out of her automobile. It seemed she had a six months' permit to stay in the country, based on her contract with Paramount to write an original screen story, and the six months were up a week or two ago, although her writing job is not concluded.

Sylvia swung into the conversation. Miss Baum stood by, catching only one word in English now and then as Sylvia and the officers kept the compliments flying.

Finally one immigration man remarked to Sylvia, "You have a foreign accent yourself. Who are you, anyway?"

"Me, I am nobody; but this is Vicki Baum, the great writer."

"Never heard of her," said the officials. "Now you'd better give us your name, without any trouble; because I've decided to check you up, too. Where d'you live?"

"Me, I'm only Sylvia. I live in Hollywood."

At that the immigration officers chorused:

"Not Sylvia from Hollywood?"

They asked Sylvia for her autograph. They asked her if they should drink orange juice. They asked if it were true about Mae Murray—buzz, buzz, etc.

Miss Baum was totally forgotten. Finally, on Sylvia mildly remarking that "I know Miss Baum has the correct papers in her home in Hollywood; I saw them myself," red tape was waved and the author, still bewildered, learned that the deportation threat was canceled.

Vicki Baum beamed, but Sylvia said, quite sadly, "A great writer they do not know! Me, because they want the dirt about Hollywood, they all know. Is it not too bad that it should be so?"

Food Talk.

A pretty woman in a fetching new fall bonnet called on me yesterday to talk about milk and children. She told me that there were a few mothers who were forgetting to insure their children's continued good health by giving them "one quart of milk each day."

Perhaps we have had a tendency to let the youngsters' diet rather take care of itself during the warm months. It's easy to do when their little bodies are so brown and strong from a healthy, out of door summer.

But we will have to reckon with the months to come—the possibilities of colds from wet feet, sore throats, and all the other infections to which children are subjected. They will need every ounce of reserve strength for resisting these prevalent winter infections. There's no reason why your small sons and daughters shouldn't be the same little huskies in March that they were in October or September.

One generous quart of milk each and every day—I said generous!

1 cup of milk.
2 cups of flour.
2½ teaspoons of baking powder.
¼ teaspoon of salt.
2 squares of unsweetened melted chocolate.

Beat the egg. Add the sugar, and beat together. Add the milk. Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder together. Pour the sugar mixture over the flour very gradually. Add the melted chocolate. Place in a buttered mold and steam for one and one-half hours. Turn out of the mold carefully, and serve with cream sauce. Yield: Nine servings.

CREAM SAUCE.

Cream one-half a cup of butter. Beat into it one cup of sugar, and a quarter of a cup of milk or cream. Heat this in a double boiler and serve. Flavor as desired.

TWO-TONE COCKTAIL.

Mix equal parts of sauerkraut juice and tomato juice. Shake well. Chill. Season, if you wish, with a pinch of salt, a little lemon juice, and one or two drops of tabasco sauce. You may use either the canned or fresh juices.

TUNA FISH A LA KING.

1 small can of pimiento.
1 small can of peas.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Make two cups of white sauce using the proportions of two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour, and two cups of milk. To this add the tuna, which has been broken in small pieces. Cut the pimientos in narrow strips and add to the sauce. Then add the drained peas. Season. Cook in the white sauce in the double boiler for five minutes. Serve hot on toast triangles.

"Button Up Top Coats," Say French Couturiers

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The first of the Paris openings shows clearly that one of the first and greatest commandments of fall and winter coat modes is to "button up." If you belong to the servitors of Paris fashions, you'll have to obey.

Jackets, coats, and many dresses follow this injunction, and there are hundreds of tricky ways of doing the buttoning. Many coats button straight up the center front. Just as many have double breasted closings, but they are rarely the old time double rows of buttons and button holes at equal distances apart from top to bottom.

One of the very chic ways to get a double breasted closing for the daytime coat is the Maggy Rouff way shown in the sketch. This coat of beige woolen—the new rough and hairy kind—crosses in front in a triangle that begins in a point at the breast and becomes wide at the bottom. Brown, leather covered buttons are placed in a diagonal line, beginning on the left shoulder and extending down to below the hipline on the right side. When the weather is mild this coat is worn open as shown, so that the right side opens in a rever, the two top buttons being unfastened.

A band of brown, curly, unclipped astrakhan borders the entire right closing, and extends into a band that may be buttoned around the neck as shown or worn over the shoulder in a loose tab end. The belt is of the wool of the coat, and the loose sleeves are trimmed with pieces of astrakhan.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you notice how the "cinched-in" waist line is being played up in advertisements of corsets and underthings?

It looks as if we can't venture out much longer without a cinched-in waist, so we'd better turn from the ads and get busy with some kind of a cincher-in. Because there's not much use cinching-in the fat in one spot if it's going to cinch right out in another, now is there? It isn't going to do right by the new dress if you get the waist trimmed and if the hips are widened an inch, as the result, or if the bust takes on a ponderous look.

In fact, the best thing you can do with fat is get rid of it. And how you can get rid of it! In a reducing contest I've been running, there is just barrels of evidence that all a gal needs is a strong will and she can do to her silhouette whatever she wants. Twenty, fifty, seventy—even one hundred and five pound fat losses have been reported. Good reductions, wisely conducted ones, for the most part they prove. And better and healthier and younger looking women coming out of the experiment, too.

So, what's a little thing like cinching in a waist line, I asks you!

Maybe you are the exceptional one who can get the waist trimmed down and in with diet alone. But most folk require a spell of bending at the waist, turning on it and twisting the muscles into better 1931 dress form.

If you want one good exercise for that waist, do the wood chopper. Swing our ax [imaginary] from hands raised high over the head and bring it down between the legs spread fairly wide apart. Do this ten times.

Then come down on one side with the ax-swing, ten times; and down on the other ten, also. And before the imaginary woodpile is half chopped you'll begin to feel and see a change in that waist line contour.

Autumn Brings Added Activity to North Side

BY THALIA

THE fashionable near north side is looking much more populated and animated nowadays than it has for some months past. Homes and apartments are being opened for winter occupancy. In the afternoon you see smart matrons bustling to and fro on a million and one errands.

The Casino and the popular luncheon places are again crowded at 1 o'clock and this week at least the afternoons are occupied with seeing the fall collections of clothes at the fashion "openings" and choosing wardrobes therefrom.

The returning tide of summer travelers continues unabated, until it seems that there couldn't possibly have been so many people away. Mrs. Emerson Baldwin and her children arrived yesterday after a summer in various European spas, the Joseph T. Ryerson family came home from Charles Wesley Dempsters, who have had the Milton Morse house in Lake Forest for the summer, moved back to their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive this week, and the James A. Richards, who have been in the Arthur Burrows' Lake Forest house, have also moved in. Mrs. Richardson Dunbar of the Ambassador and her daughter, Mrs. William E. Cassellberry Jr. of Lake Forest, who have been traveling in Europe for several months, are expected here on Saturday.

Almost all the people from the northern Michigan resorts are back. Mrs. Eugene Wheeler, Arthur Wheeler, and Miss Jane Cox motored down this week from Harbor Point, and Mrs. Robert Curtis reluctantly left the autumnal beauties of the Point because her son, Edward Russell Barnitz, has to start to school.

Did you know . . . that Princess Aleka Galitzine is a buyer for the Michigan avenue shop she's associated with now, and that she's just been to New York for the fall openings? . . . that Kay Stromi [used to be Stpotx] is the leading woman in "The Silent Witness," which is to open at the Selwyn theater next Monday evening, but her brother and sister-in-law, the Sidney Strotzes, won't be here for the opening, as they're leaving tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. Ardita Van Hagen, for a visit with Mr. Strotz's mother, Mrs. Charles Strotz, on her Virginia plantation? . . . that the sight of Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin and Marshall Field doing the rhumba engaged the attentions of the onlookers during the recent races at Saratoga?

Miss Marianna Rogers Ruffner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers Ruffner of Highland Park, is to be married this evening to Harrison Tyler Todd, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry D. Todd of Washington, D. C. The ceremony is to take place at 8 o'clock at the Presbyterian church in Highland Park with a small reception following at Ruffwood, the Ruffner residence. The Rev. Frank Fitt is to read the service. The bride's sister, Miss Virginia Underwood Ruffner, is to be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are Miss Louise Leonore Ruffner, Miss Harriet Todd of Washington, Miss Emily Snow Brewer of Utica, N. Y., and Miss Margaret Ferguson of Upper Montclair, N. J. Paul A. Johnson of Honolulu is to be best man for Mr. Todd, and the ushers will be Thomas I. Underwood, Gordon Mendelssohn of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., Philip Torchio of Bronxville, N. Y., and Donald Frothingham and Gerard M. Ives of New York City. Mr. Todd and his bride are to be at home in Schenectady, N. Y., after Nov. 1.

Today, also, . . . the first rehearsal for the Service club's yearly benefit is to be held this morning at the Medinah Athletic club, with the performance a month away. It's to be "Hit It Up" and Oct. 24 is the evening for its presentation . . . the White Elephant Rummage shop is having a monthly dressmakers' sale, with Mrs. D. Mark Cummings in charge . . . Members of the Wells College club held a house party yesterday, which will also continue today, at the summer residence of Mrs. Walter Warren at Lakeside.

Maybe you haven't heard about the systematic and careful bridegroom who wasn't taking any chances about not getting to the train on which he and his bride were embarking on their wedding trip. He engaged an extra—and empty—automobile to follow along behind the bridal car on the way to the station in case the one in which he and the new Mrs. were riding should break down.

Relayed from places far and farther . . . Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt and her niece, Miss Charlotte Smith, returned to Paris recently from a motor trip in southern France and were at the Meurice . . . Mrs. William W. Gurley, Miss Helen Gurley, and Miss Margaret Conover, now in London, don't plan to be back in Chicago until the middle of October . . . Count and Countess Gianguillo Rucellai [Theresa Higginson] land in New York on Monday next on the Conte Biancamano and will go to Lenox to visit the George Higginsons, parents of the countess. . . Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, who is to stay at her Southampton villa for several weeks more, had a dinner party at the Plaza in New York one evening this week . . . Mrs. Joseph Leiter is visiting her mother, Mrs. John R. Williams, at Beverly Farms, Mass., before returning to Chicago for the winter . . . Mrs. Emmons Blaine is in New York City for a few days . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomay Jelke have taken possession of their new apartment at the Hotel Delmonico, New York City.

Yankees Are Cake Eaters, Bakers' Convention Hears

America is fast becoming a nation of cake eaters, Miss Marjorie Husted, an official of the General mills of Minneapolis told delegates at the convention of the American Bakers' association in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. Cake, she said, is the staple sweet food of the nation and more pastry is being consumed now than ever before. In the past the housewife baked her own cake, but now the modern woman is looking to the baker for her pastry, she pointed out.

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This new model is designed to give the wearer height and detract from width, and it accomplishes it beautifully. A partial belt crosses the back, leaving the front free to narrow the waistline, and the bias band, crossing diagonally, does away with hip bulk. Crêpe silk, crêpe satin, and crêpe marocain are smart materials.

The pattern, 3205, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Plays Maureen Orcutt Today.

The Pairings

Miss Maureen Orcutt vs. Miss Virginia Van Wie.
Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare vs. Mrs. Leo G. Federman.
Miss Helen Hicks vs. Mrs. Leona Pressler.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The advance of America's big four entered here today in the second round of the women's national golf championship, although one of the quartet was forced into extra holes to reserve the parade.

Glenna Collett Vare, defending champion; Maureen Orcutt, holder of the Canadian title; Virginia Van Wie, and Helen Hicks, who has a monopoly on modern crowns, moved into the third round. Miss Hicks almost failed when she surrendered a four-up lead and had to go 19 holes to defeat Hortense Hollins of California, the 1921 national champion.

Virginia Wins, 5 and 4.

Miss Orcutt, playing the best golf of the tournament, rounded the turn in 2, one over men's par, to eliminate Mrs. Dorothy Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 5 and 4. Miss Van Wie won by the same margin over Frances Williams, last year's eastern champion.

Miss Van Wie encountered difficulty with her brassie and putter at the start and was 2 down at the fifth hole. She missed a four footer on the first hole for a half and drove into the rough on the fourth, after taking the second and third in par four. Her second on the fourth failed to bring her out of the rough and she dropped her third shot into a trap.

After this, however, she settled down and prevented Miss Williams from winning a hole. She was on in two on the fifth while Miss Williams topped a tee shot. They halved the sixth, despite Miss Van Wie's remarkable recovery from the rough. The Chicago star dropped her approach her feet short of the pin on the seventh for a birdie four, which ended the match.

Takes Lead on Eighth.

On the eighth Miss Van Wie's tee shot struck a boy and the ball bounded out on the fairway away from a trap. She chipped on and took a par four while Miss Williams was taking a five. This gave the Chicago player her first lead and from here in it ceased to be much of a contest, as Miss Williams found the traps often and Miss Van Wie kept close to the fairways and par. The cards:

Miss Van Wie—
Out	5	5	4 4 3—40
In	4	4	3 5 5
Miss Williams—
Out	4	5	5 5 4—42
In	4	6	3 6 5

Mrs. Vare, defending her crown in the fifth time, had no trouble in disposing of Mrs. Charles Eddis, Toronto, 6 and 5. Unfortunately, three of the big four are cast in the top bracket; Miss Hicks alone must uphold the honor in the bottom half of the draw.

The championship retained its international flavor when Enid Wilson, British champion, eliminated Mrs. L. C. Nilson of Dayton, 4 and 2. Miss Wilson played better golf than on her previous two rounds, reaching the turn in 40.

Miss Brooks Loses, 2 and 1.

The day was not without its upset. Harriette Kerr of England defeated Jane Brooks of Nyack, N. Y., 2 and 1. Miss Kerr was not forced to play sensational golf to eliminate the girl who yesterday electrified the gallery by defeating Mrs. O. S. Hill, western champion.

Jane took 83 strokes for the first nine and was 4 down. She pared this to a single hole at the 12th by winning three in a row, but could not continue her spurt and Miss Kerr took the 14th. Victory at the next hole ended put Jane in the running. But she lost her chance by losing the 16th.

Neither Miss Orcutt nor Miss Van Wie had any trouble in advancing to the third round.

Braves Defeat Red Sox, 4 to 3, in Charity Game

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Ed Brandt took a pitching duel from Danny MacFayden today as the Braves defeated the Red Sox, 4 to 3, before 25,000 persons, who contributed their admissions to a fund for the relief of the unemployed of Boston. MacFayden was touched for only six hits by Brandt's nine, but was ineffective in the pinches.

FOOTBALL for the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Points are earned in football by scoring a touchdown, by the successful try for point after a touchdown, by a goal from the field, and by a safety. The touchback does not count points.

The touchdown [six points] is easily understood. Briefly, a player carries the ball to or across his opponents' goal line, or a player receives a forward pass in his opponents' scoring zone. A touchdown also may be scored by recovering the ball in the opponents' scoring zone. For example, the defensive team recovers a blocked kick in the opponents' scoring zone. Another example would be the recovery of a kickoff in the opponents' scoring zone.

There is one ruling by which the referee may award a touchdown. But this is rare and it involves committing a foul by a player in his own scoring zone, which deprives an opponent of recovery of the ball for a touchdown. Uncommon occurrences in football are not the subject of these articles. These unusual situations tax the memories of players and officials and serve only to muddle the average fan.

Try for Extra Point Follows Touchdown.

The try for the extra point following the touchdown is a continuation of the touchdown scoring whether successful or not. It will be detailed in a later article.

The field goal [three points] may be scored from scrimmage by a place kick [a player holds the ball on the ground for another to kick] or by a drop kick [the kicker drops the ball on the ground and kicks it on the rebound]. To be successful the ball must pass over the opponents' goal posts or crossbar connecting the goal posts. The ball must not hit a player of the kicking team or the ground before passing over the bar or posts.

The field goal is commonly scored from scrimmage. It also may be scored after a fair catch. The fair catch is a catch of an opponent's kick [kickoff, free kick or return kick] by a player who signals his intention by holding one arm above his head. He is not permitted to take more than two steps after successfully making a fair catch. If he does he is penalized five yards and his team must put the ball in play by scrimmage and not by a free kick.

Here's When Fair Catch Is Valuable.

The fair catch is most valuable when the opponents have punted from behind their own goal line and the ball is caught only a short distance out in the field. It might be advisable to attempt a field goal. The play seldoms occurs, however, and hence is not understood by the layman. Customarily the ball is put in play by scrimmage after a fair catch.

A strong running and passing team has little use for the field goal. It prefers to try for touchdowns. The removal of the goal posts from the goal line to the end line [a distance of 10 yards] has relegated the field goal to an occasional attempt.

Safety Must Not Be Confused with Touchback.

The safety scores two points. Many confuse the safety with a touchback which has no scoring value.

The safety is recovery of the ball behind its own goal line by the team which gave the "impetus" or force to the ball. Several examples are:

1. A player of the team putting the ball into play [he gives the impetus to the ball] downs the ball in his own scoring zone. This may occur after an attempted run, a fumble, or an inaccurate pass from the center who snapped the ball backward.

2. A forward pass is incompleted by a team in its own scoring zone. This is very unusual.

3. A kick is blocked [by players of either team] and it is recovered by the kicking team in its own scoring zone. If the ball bounds completely out of the scoring zone over the end line or side lines of the scoring zone it automatically becomes a safety.

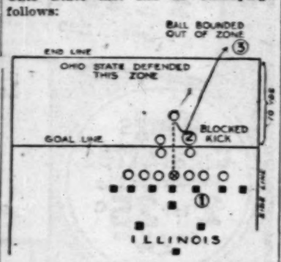
A safety may be scored on a foul by the team in its own scoring zone or by an illegal forward pass by a team in its own scoring zone. These are so rare that the fan need not consider them.

How Illini Scored Safety on Buckeyes.

Remember that each team defends its own goal. It strives to reach its opponents' goal.

Remember that to score a safety the team putting the ball in play gives the impetus or force which sends or keeps the ball in its own scoring zone.

A diagram of the safety which gave Illinois two points in its game against Ohio State last fall at Champaign follows:



In the second quarter Ohio State led, 12 to 7. Wesley Fesler, Ohio's captain, stood in his own end zone

Cards Lose to Portsmouth in Opener, 13-3

Portsmouth, O., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Portsmouth Spartans won their second straight National Professional Football league game at Universal stadium tonight by defeating the Chicago Cardinals, 13 to 3. It was the Cardinals' first league game.

The Cardinals kept the ball in Spartan territory in the first half. They scored a field goal late in the second period when Ernie Nevers place kicked 17 yards.

Nevers, Holmer, and Rose were the best ground gainers for Chicago. Kassel and Veaser did good work at the ends.

Portsmouth completed 7 out of 12 passes for 46 yards. Chicago made good 4 out of 10 attempts for 56 yards. Portsmouth made 7 first downs to Chicago's 4. From scrimmage the Spartans ran up 171 yards to Chicago's 80.

Giants Win Over Hominy Indians. How Many? 53-0

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The New York Giants of the National Football league opened their season tonight by trouncing the Hominy Indians of Oklahoma, 53 to 0, in an exhibition game. John Kitzmiller, former University of Oregon star, led the Giants' attack with two touchdowns. Dale Burnett, formerly of Emporia Teachers' college, made two long runs for touchdowns.

CHARITY TO GET LINCOLN FIELDS' RECEIPTS TODAY

Expect to Raise $25,000 for Unemployed.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The thoroughbreds will perform for charity at Lincoln Fields today and out of their efforts will come a purse of about $25,000 to go into the governor's fund for relief of the unemployed in Will county.

The advance ticket sale last night indicated at least $20,000 for the fund, Lincoln Fields Jockey club officials announced. They were fairly well satisfied it would reach $25,000. All gate receipts, along with a donation of $5,000 from the Lincoln Fields Jockey club, were to go into the fund.

With good weather it probably will be the largest week day gathering ever to assemble at Lincoln Fields. All track employes have purchased tickets, many of them blocks of tickets. Pass holders will use their passes today, but hundreds of them throughout yesterday afternoon were buying additional tickets and will bring their friends along for the charity day program.

Brown Wisdom Wins.

Extra race trains are to be operated from Chicago, Joliet, the county seat of Will county, will send a delegation of more than 5,000 fans. Other towns and villages in Will county are to be strongly represented.

A good program has been arranged with the Joliet Holly club purse as the feature. It engages several outstanding western 2 year olds. The Joliet Associated Charities purse at six furlongs also has attracted a stylish field.

While plans for the charity day were taking final shape yesterday the gay old deceiver, Brown Wisdom, paying $11.80 for a two dollar ticket, galloped home in the Burr Oak handicap, the feature race of the afternoon.

He raced in his old time brilliant form and headed Satin Spar and Hot Shot right at the finish to capture the prize by a little more than a length. Jockey Charley Allen was in the saddle and made the old fellow race the first six furlongs in 1:11 3-5. He had him home safely at the end of seven furlongs in 1:24 1-5, which was just a second off the track record.

Coughlin Scores Again.

Weak hearted Hot Shot opened up quite a long lead in the early stages and for a time it looked like he was going to coast home to an easy triumph. But at the head of the stretch Brown Wisdom and Satin Spar raced up alongside him and he was all through. Allen kept Brown Wisdom fast at his task and he had but little trouble holding Satin Spar safe. Kincsen, on which there had been a late plunge, was far out of it in the early stages, but began running in the stretch and got third money.

There was cause for great hilarity in the First ward last night. For didn't Ald. Coughlin's Lillian Tobin win the second race at odds of 55 to 1?

It was a thriller, one which caused the First warders to gasp rather than to cheer. For it was only in the last few strides that Lillian Tobin charged up past the favorite, Dan Alvaro, and beat River Forest to the wire by a neck.

Pays $110.20 to Win.

Lillian had been trying to win all year in Chicago, but this was the first crowd she met that she could beat. She paid $110.20 to win, $53.70 to place, and $16.22 to show. River Forest, which got second money, paid $21.60 to place and $10.80 to show.

Another horse that has been trying to win a race in Chicago all season got his first taste of victory in the Washington Heights purse at seven furlongs. It was the imported Quatre Bras II., owned by the Waggoners of Texas.

This expensive 3 year old was thrown in with a makeshift crew and won fairly handy, although his margin of victory was but a length over Monkeyshine, a long shot, which paid 16 to 1 to place. Phantasime was third. Quatre Bras II. never before associated with cheap company and was an odds on shot in the betting. Jockey P. Dyer was easing him up at the finish.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Boob McNair, who is likely to play himself some odd lots of baseball in Connie Mack's infield during the world series, is a country boy from a suburb of Meridian, Miss., which is hardly big enough to make a suburb for East Whiffletree, Vt.

Explorers who have penetrated to Boob McNair's suburb state that the natives there still look upon the bicycle as a devilish mechanism on the ground that had Providence wished mankind to go tearing along at twenty miles an hour people would be born with wheels instead of legs. They still regard Pearl White as the world's greatest moving picture actress, and when the news of Bob Lee's surrender gets around to them the consternation will be unconfined.

Earnshaw Puts Him on Budget and Saves His Dough.

The Athletics called this young man Boob because of his sleepy eyed, not quite bright expression, but in his first year in the majors, and with the world champion club at that, he has played everything but the ukulele in the Athletics' infield, and not long ago he earned his varsity letter when he hit a home run off Wes Ferrell of the Indians to win a game of ball. George Earnshaw, who was pitching that game, says, "The Boob's home run put me over that day. Otherwise I would have been licked. And after he socked it all our club were yelling from the dugout at Ferrell, 'Hey, even little boys can hit you.'"

The Boob is only 20 years old and in his first year up, only one year out of his own home town, he found himself earning more income than the wealthiest aristocrats of the Meridian social register. Yet, although each semi-monthly salary check represented the annual income of a fairly fortunate and respectable family man down home, he was coming to the pay days of every month broke.

Earnshaw, who is a kind of financial adviser to most of the Athletics, then set him down and put him on a budget. The budget eliminated bets, card games, and expensive new suits, and it looks as though his world series money will go into one of those pension policies which the insurance companies are selling to the prosperous athletes these days.

McNair weighs only 150 pounds and he is full of jiggle and bounce in the field and on the bases and has a natural instinct for the right play in a quick emergency, so he is pretty certain to rise much higher before he goes any lower. He is a good hitter, too, and his speed gives the infielders no time to sight down the barrel before they throw to put him out.

He'll Probably Be a World Series Regular.

He can't play first base, because he isn't sufficiently stretchy for the job over there, and naturally nobody ever took the trouble to instruct him in the tactics and footwork of that job, but he can drop in at any other place in an infield and go to work. And, considering the fragile delicacy of Max Bishop's health and the gradually more doddering state of Jimmy Dykes' legs, he is likely to work into a world series in his freshman year.

He played one season of class Q ball somewhere in the bogs down home and one season in Knoxville.

And, small as he is, when he hits one square, somewhere in his skimpy makeup the little boy who hit the home run off the great Wes Ferrell finds the power to bend one back over the home run walls now and again.

Tribune Fight Writers Agree with Decision

Opinions of TRIBUNE writers on the decision in the Schaaf-Griffith bout last night follow:

Harvey Woodruff — Schaaf had a small margin despite Griffith's fine finish, although I've seen bouts with wider margins called draws. It was a bout in which you felt all the way through that if there was a knockout it would be by Schaaf and not by Griffith. Tuffy, outweighed 21 pounds, gained new friends, however, by his showing.

Arch Ward—It was a fair decision. Schaaf was stronger at the start and at the finish. I gave Schaaf five rounds, the first, third, eighth, ninth, and tenth. Griffith had the edge in the second, fourth, and seventh. The others were even.

Europe Hints Olympics May Be Postponed

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 23.—(AP)—An opinion that the 1932 Olympic games at Lake Placid and Los Angeles should be postponed because of the financial depression has been expressed in Swedish circles.

Although no official action has been taken, it is the opinion here that such a move would meet with almost unanimous support of European nations, where the depression is most keenly felt.

Several European nations, notably France and Germany, have experienced difficulty in raising the money for the expenses of the representatives at the Olympic games.

CANNOT POSTPONE GAMES.

The 1932 Olympic games at Lake Placid and Los Angeles will be held as scheduled, Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic union, said yesterday in commenting on reports that several European nations were having difficulties raising money for expenses.

"Under the protocol of the international Olympic committee, the games must be held as scheduled," President Brundage said.

JUDGES' VERDICT UNANIMOUS FOR BOSTON SLUGGER

Police Called to Quiet Outbreak.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ernie Schaaf whipped Tuffy Griffith last night at the Stadium. The judges, Edward Klein and E. A. Hintz, and Referee Edward Purdy were unanimous in their decision.

But Tuffy's west side, a vast majority of the 14,000 who watched the opening of the indoor boxing season, did not concur with the officials. The storm of criticism rose slowly. While Griffith lingered in the ring long after the departure of his conqueror thousands joined in the chorus of disapproval.

Crowd Storms for 15 Minutes.

From the ledges nearest the roof came swirling sheets of newspapers. Others booed. Soon a continuous wave of sound blotted out all else. The announcer, Ted Canty, was unable to introduce the boxers who succeeded to the ring after Tuffy had departed. The demonstration continued for 15 minutes.

Here and there impromptu amateur fights broke out, which, until stopped by ushers or police, attracted the crowd's attention, the fighters in the ring continuing their performance without notice.

Four squads from the detective bureau were rushed to the Stadium in answer to a call from Capt. Daniel Lynch, who was in charge of the detail.

Tuffy Shows He's Game.

Stadium officials announced the paid attendance as 14,309. Gross receipts were $41,115. The net receipts were $36,127. Griffith received 25 per cent, or approximately $9,000, while Schaaf's victory was worth $10,000, the amount of his guarantee.

Tuffy's friends last night had plenty of reason to cheer his stout-hearted battle against a man who outweighed him 21 pounds. But there were many who applauded Griffith's gameness although they approved the decision of the judges and the referee.

According to the official figures, the decision was not close. The figures were:

Judge Hintz—Schaaf, 52 to 48.
Judge Klein—Schaaf, 54 to 46.
Referee Purdy—Schaaf, 56 to 44.

Schaaf demonstrated his superiority over Griffith in the first two and last three rounds. In two rounds, the fifth and seventh, Griffith outpunched and outmaneuvered his opponent. The fighting in the other rounds was even.

Schaaf Starts with Rush.

Both fought cautiously except for infrequent rallies. In several rounds each waited for the other's lead in order that he might counter to better effect, but the minutes of inaction were overlooked. Intense rivalry, heightened by Schaaf's seven consecutive knockout victories before last night, kept the crowd on edge.

The Boston heavyweight began the battle as if he would floor Tuffy immediately. A sharp left jab and a more powerful left hook were his weapons. Midway in the opening round Schaaf sent his left to Tuffy's jaw, and Griffith staggered backward until supported by the ropes. Again, in the next round, there was evidence of Schaaf's power. He followed a left with a right cross squarely to Tuffy's face and once more Griffith rocked on his heels.

Griffith Speeds Up.

Then Griffith warmed to his task. He bobbed under Schaaf's left, waited and countered. In the fifth round Griffith for the first time bewildered Schaaf. He bounced into Schaaf with a two fisted attack which could not be blocked. Twice in succession he whipped his right hand to Schaaf's head and the blond fighter had no counter charge.

After a slower sixth round Griffith once more opened his attack. His defense was perfect. Retreating, he weaved out of Schaaf's reach only to step in with blows to the head and body. This was the peak of Tuffy's drive. After that Schaaf came back to take command.

Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, announced that Schaaf and Griffith had agreed verbally to another match here next month.

Johnson Whips Scozza.

While the crowd roared at Schaaf's victory Larry Johnson, Negro light heavyweight and Griffith's stable mate, won an eight round decision over Lou Scozza of Buffalo. The bout was an anticlimax. The fighters exchanged blows willingly, but Johnson had his opponent dazed and clinching repeatedly near the end of the bout.

By his victory Johnson evened his score with Scozza, who had won a decision over him recently in Buffalo.

Thomas was down three times for nine counts. Five more times he fell, nearly unconscious, for shorter counts, but each time his courage brought him back to the battle. Finally, after 2 minutes and 24 sec-

Wiseman Outpoints Schuman.

The five round contest between Hymie Wiseman of Des Moines and Solly Schuman, Chicago featherweight, was all it was advertised to be. Wiseman, with an advantage in reach and in speed, jabbed his way to a decision, but he was forced to the limit by Solly's whirling flurries.

John Schwake, farm boy heavyweight, defeated Salvatore Ruggirello of New York in six rounds. Neither could box, and their push punches were reminiscent of Primo Carnera. Schwake flailed his gloves to the Italian's head and had him badly winded at the end. Both were warned repeatedly for their inactivity. Schwake knocked out two of Ruggirello's teeth, the major casualty of an uninteresting match.

Pep Juste won the opening five rounder from Phil Ross of South Chicago.

Mate Runs 3d to Two Fillies; Tambour Wins

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Once again bowing his head in unexpected defeat, A. C. Bostwick's Mate, co-holder with Twenty Grand of the 3 year old turf title, finished back of two speedy fillies in the $20,000 Potomac handicap—first of Maryland's rich fall stakes, today.

Mate was the odds on favorite to lead the way over the one and one-sixteenth miles, but at the end, Preston M. Burch's Tambour was galloping out in front with S. W. Labrot's Tred Avon a length back in second place. The 3 year old star from Bostwick's barns was a close third as the Linton farm's Flagstone led the remainder of the field of eight home.

Weight Difference Tells.

The twice conqueror of Twenty Grand in the rich 3 year old specials of early season was asked to pack 127 pounds, and he found the task too difficult. With only 119 pounds in the saddle, Tambour reeled off the distance in 1:45 1-5, less than one second off the track record established by Victorian three years ago. Tred Avon had an even better pull in the weights, packing three less than the Burch filly.

Winner Pays $39.30.

Although rated as one of the outstanding 3 year old fillies of the year, Tambour was given little support in the race in which Mate was held at 45 cents on the dollar. As the result, the speedy miss from Burch's barns paid $39.30 for a $2 win ticket in the mutuels, while a ticket on Tred Avon to place returned $17.80. Mate paid $3.70 to show. The victory was worth $19,150.

Tambour's showing came as a distinct surprise, but her triumph was achieved in an amazingly easy manner. Taking command from the speedy C. V. Whitney's Halcyon after traveling six furlongs, Tambour opened up a three length lead going into the final furlong and then coasted home under Frankie Coltletti's strong pull.

Emphasis on the forward pass in practice indicates that Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago hopes to offset his lack of line strength in the Hillsdale-Cornell double header Saturday by some quick scoring through the air. The Maroon squad had a long scrimmage with the forward pass yesterday, and all this week Stagg has been spending a couple of hours daily working his passers against rushing lineman and defensive backs.

There will be no oversupply of passing talent on the squad Saturday, with Page, Temple and possibly Birney on the bench, but Paul Stagg is doing a smarter job of passing than he did last year and Pete Zimmer also has accomplishments as a passer. Because the pair are his best passers, Coach Stagg probably will have them in different games Saturday. Sahlin and Wallace also can pass acceptably at short distances.

The Ends Can Receive.

Ja Bernie Wien, veteran end, the Maroons have a good receiver, and Pompeo Tolgo, who appears to have clinched the other regular end position, is more skillful than he was last season. Several of the backs, particularly Stagg and Page, also can catch passes, but Stagg can not catch his own tosses and Page will sit on the bench.

The temporary ineligibility of several backs also complicates the matter of punting. Page and Temple are both good punters, and Birney kicked last year. Zimmer will do the kicking for one back field Saturday. Buzzell has been practicing as a punter this week.

The Probable Line Starters.

In the line Wien and Tolgo, ends; Gould and Spearing, tackles; Hamilton and Horwitz, guards, and Parker, center, probably will play against Cornell.

Jim Walsh and Gabel, the two first reserve tackles, unlikely to play because of injuries, the second team probably will have Rapp and Jackson, ends; Schnur and Quehl, tackles; Shapiro and Berg, guards, and Reaser, center.

RISK STARS AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Al Risk, leading ground gainer in the Big Ten last season, appears fully recovered from the foot injury that put him on the sidelines during the Indiana game last fall. He tore off several long runs during scrimmage this afternoon. Risk had all of his old power and shiftiness and kept the coaches on edge with his cutbacks through tackle.

The scrimmage was perhaps the best showing of the year although he failed to live up to expectations on defense. The offensive, with Risk and Purvis, Alex Wojcik, and Jack White.

OHIO TACKLE INJURED

Columbus, O., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The comparatively easy day was enjoyed by Ohio State football players today when, after an early morning workout, the afternoon practice was taken up in running through new plays.

Ed Bumgarner, 6 foot 4 inch tackle, sprained his ankle. He will be out of uniform for several days.

During the scrimmage three touchdowns were scored by the 'varsity against the shock troops. Cramer, sophomore quarter back; Capt. Holland, and Lew Hinchman carried the ball over.

The only newcomer to the first team lineup besides Bell, who replaced the injured Baumgarten at end, was Welver at full back in place of Vacinich.

DECIDE INDIANA LINEUP

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Hard work in preparation for the opening game of the season against Ohio university in Memorial stadium Saturday was concluded by the Indiana university football team in a scrimmage here today.

Coach Hayes and his assistants have almost decided on the starting lineup. Four sophomores are likely to make the team. They are Lyons, end; Nylec, guard; Angiemeyer, tackle, and Jones, full back.

Several other sophomores will see action some time during the game. They are J. Sawicki, end; Stevenson, tackle; H. Sawicki, half back, and R. Jones, quarter back. Development of reserve strength is the main object of the coaches now.

BADGER ENDS WEAK

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Four Wisconsin football teams took part in a scrimmage this afternoon. The first team line appeared as good as ever, from tackle to tackle, than a year ago, but the ends are weak with the exception of Thurner. He tackles and meets interference smoothly and works well on the defensive. Oehler is an adept pass receiver but is light for other duty. Gnabah, a converted back, is improving.

In today's scrimmage, Rebholz, Linder and Ellicker all made long runs. Richter and Schiller, a sophomore, alternated at right half and called signals and one of the pair is likely to handle these duties in the first two games, due to the absence of Mickey Holmes, injured Monday.

DRILLS IOWA LINE

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Coach Burt Ingwersen today started drill for University of Iowa linemen. Although tackle and end positions are still far from solution, Davidson and Dee at tackle and Merton and Fisher on the ends continue to be Ingwersen's first choices.

Tompkins, regular guard last year, is back into the varsity line alternating with Hautelmann. Dolly was at the other guard and Magnussen at center. Ingwersen sent all backs and ends through a long forward pass workout.

SID BURNSTEIN, N. U. HALF BACK, REGAINS SPEED

Return of Sid Burnstein, speedy half back, to playing form after being out of the game all of last season with a knee injury has helped to bolster Northwestern's back field. In his sophomore year the former Chicago prep star was one of the best running backs on the team.

In yesterday's scrimmage between the first and second teams Burnstein ripped off a number of long runs which assured him a high place in Coach Dick Hanley's consideration. Although he is only 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs but 165 pounds, he is one of the hardest runners on the squad to bring down.

End and half backs are beginning to show improvement in catching passes. Pug Rentner's passing appears even better than last year.

Louis Steubing, sophomore end, was forced from the scrimmage with a badly wrenched knee. He will be out of practice until next week.

KIPKE SHOWS 'EM HOW

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Coach Kipke spent most of the afternoon teaching University of Michigan kickers the fine points of punting. He turned in nearly as fine a performance as characterized his playing days, and while Everhardus, Jack Heston, Tessmer, and occasionally Capt. Hudson equaled his kicks in regard to distance, none was able to approach Kipke's accuracy. Everhardus' work was the most consistent.

Injuries reported were mostly of the overnight variety, sustained in yesterday's blocking drill. Only Schmidt, reserve full back, was out of uniform, and he will be back tomorrow or Friday.

GOPHERS TAKE IT EASY

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Fritz Crisler eased up on his Gopher athletes this afternoon, cutting the scrimmage to a mere phantom drill, because the players were beginning to tire under the strenuous work of the last week. However, the squad got another long drill in tackling and blocking, to say nothing of a signal drill in the afternoon that lasted more than an hour.

Crisler has practically decided to use Pete Somers, a three year man, at quarter back in Saturday's double header with the North Dakota Aggies and Ripon. He will use all of his regulars against the Aggies and the rest of the squad will finish against Ripon. Manders, Swartz, and Walter Haas will be the other three to start in the back field Saturday. The line is still in doubt.

Today's workouts were featured by Clarence Munn's brilliant punting. Several times he made kicks that carried more than 60 yards.

NOTRE DAME WHIPS FROSH

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's varsity took its turn at scrimmage this afternoon and ran wild against a picked frosh eleven.

Steve Banas, substitute full back, and Marchy Schwartz, left half, did all the scoring and Banas surprised spectators with his long passes. Charlie Jaskwhich was at quarter back and did the kicking for the varsity with fair success, although coaches are still looking for some one who can place them like Frank Carideo did last season.

Nick Lukats, injured full back, will be in uniform by the end of the week, but will not be allowed to play Saturday against the shock troops.

Coach Anderson today expressed the fear that hot weather, which has prevailed since the opening day of practice, may leave the varsity stale. Every man on the squad has lost at least five pounds and some have shed as much as ten. Workouts will be shotened one hour beginning tomorrow.

ZUPPKE SHIFTS OWEN

The red headed football and basketball letter man from South Bend, outclassed by sophomore ends, shows possibilities of developing at his new position. Owen was used at tackle today for the second time, working against the freshmen.

Herman Walser, Dave Cook, and Gil Berry appear the best of the punters. Most of the passing has been done by Bob Horsley.

There's Nothing Wrong with Corners of Cardinal Infield

BY EDWARD BURNS.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—There is little wrong with the outside corners of the St. Louis Cardinals' infield. First Baseman Jim Bottomley has been a star for years, but this is the first season that Sparky Adams has been hailed as an outstanding infielder, although he long has been known as a highly useful little man at any infield post excepting first base.

Bottomley gave way early in the sason to Rookie Jim Collins, although no one understood why, unless it was punishment for his complete flop as a batsman in the last world series. But when Collins hurt an ankle in a Chicago game at midseason, Bottomley stepped back into his old job and soon convinced the Collins fans that the young man from Rochester isn't quite ready to take over the property of Sunny Jim.

Until Hafey went on his wild hitting rampage several weeks ago Bottomley was leading the club at bat and was playing his same old spirited game at first base.

Tenth Year in Major Leagues.

This is Bottomley's tenth year in the majors and his lifetime batting average, including this year, will be around .325. As a major leaguer he never has fallen below .300 except once—in 1926 when the Cards won their first pennant he batted .299, but made amends by batting .345 in the world series.

Last year Bottomley upset the Card plans for victory by making only one hit, a scratch double, which didn't mean anything, but he now says he is on top of his game and wouldn't be surprised if he did a lot of hitting in the impending series.

Bottomley, despite his foldup in the last world series, always has been known as strong in the emergencies and holds the record for runs batted in with 12, which is four more than any one else ever batted in one game. Jim performed this feat on Sept. 16, 1924, against Brooklyn. In the first inning he drove in two runs with a single, in the second inning he drove in one run with a double, in the fourth inning he knocked a homer with the bases full, in the sixth he knocked another homer with one on, in the seventh he drove in two more runs with a single and another single in the ninth drove in a run to make it an even dozen.

Jim also holds the National league record for the most years batting in 100 or more runs. Bottomley has accomplished this six seasons.

Adams Broke in with Cards in 1921.

And now for little Sparky:

Adams' first major league experience was with the Cards in 1921, but he didn't work enough to get himself a record that year. After a year in Syracuse he was back in St. Louis long enough to appear in eleven games in 1922, but finished with Wichita Falls.

Sparky was obtained by the Cubs the same year and also got in eleven games for Chicago.

In 1923 he played in 95 games for the Cubs at shortstop and the following year played the same position in 117 games. He was the regular second baseman in 149 games in 1925 and in 1926 broke a record as a utility fielder by playing in every game, though shifted from one infield position to another, excepting only first base. He was almost as busy the following year, playing the three positions at various times in 146 contests. In November 1927 he went to Pittsburgh in the deal for Kiki Cuyler and two years later, almost to the day, he was sold to St. Louis, where last year he had his best season, batting .314.

This year he has played a brilliant defensive game and has been adept in getting on base, though he has been hitting about 20 points under his last year's mark.

to kick. As the ball was passed back to Fesler, Johnny Ovelmen, Illinois' right guard [1], broke through and blocked the kick [2]. The ball bounded out of the end zone [3] and automatically was ruled a safety. The score was Ohio State, 12; Illinois, 9. If the ball had remained in the end zone and if Ovelmen or another Illinois player had recovered it there, it would have been a touchdown for Illinois and the score would have been Illinois, 13; Ohio State, 12.

How a Touchback May Occur.

If the ball is sent over the goal line by the team striving to reach that goal it is a touchback.

Every game abounds with touchbacks. The rule makers list many possibilities. But, to repeat, the force or impetus comes from the attacking team and not the team which is defending its own scoring zone.

Touchbacks frequently are the result of [1] a kick [punt] from scrimmage by the attacking team which bounds into the opponents' scoring zone, [2] an unsuccessful place kick or drop kick into opponents' scoring zone, [3] a forward pass which is not caught [incomplete] and lands in or beyond the opponents' scoring zone, and [4] a forward pass which is caught beyond the scoring zone by a player of the attacking team.

Of these 1, 2 and 3 are exceedingly common. No. 4 sometimes occurs and invariable most spectators believe a touchdown has been scored.

There are other play situations which result in touchbacks, but if you understand these you will be able to follow most games without confusion.

ST. PATRICK AND ST. MEL OPEN '31 SEASON TONIGHT

The race for the north section championship in the Chicago Catholic High School Football league will begin tonight when St. Mel meets St. Patrick at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick avenue and Lake street. The game, originally booked for Oct. 10, was moved up through several changes in the 1931 schedule.

Lawrence McHugh, left guard, and Edward Cain, right half back, are the only veterans in the St. Mel lineup. New players on the squad include Donald Allen, basketball star, Emmet Joyce and Tom Doyle.

Capt. Ralph Mack and Dave Sohr, the only letter men on the squad, will lead Lindblom, 1930 Chicago Public High School league champion, against Champaign tomorrow night at Champaign, Ill. It will be Lindblom's third practice game of the season.

Parker, Fenger and Englewood are other Chicago teams scheduled under the lights tomorrow night. Parker will play at East Aurora; Englewood will meet Washington at East Chicago, and Fenger tackles Elgin on the latter's field.

Joseph Baer, one of the promising candidates at Roosevelt, tore the ligaments of his shoulder in scrimmage and will be unable to play for several weeks.

A parade by the Stanley Sullivan post American Legion drum and bugle corps will precede the Loyola-St. Rita game in the dedication of the new St. Rita athletic field, 63d street and Oakley avenue, Sunday afternoon. The St. Rita band also will participate in the ceremony.

Philip Burling, Oak Park track star, will take Bob Senseney's place at quarter back when the Villagers meet Austin Saturday afternoon at Oak Park field. Senseney, injured in scrimmage, will be out for two weeks.

That Rattler May Be Only a Fox Snake

BY BOB BECKER.

When a snake makes a buzzing, rattling sound with its tail and thus imitates a rattlesnake, it doesn't automatically make it a rattler. This information is of interest, because north shore residents, following a recent news story on the presence of rattlesnakes along the upper Des Plaines river, are condemning a gentle, inoffensive reptile because it resorts to a tail buzzing that is apt to fool the average man.

How About This One?

"I did not know until I read your article the other day that there were rattlesnakes in this section of the country. Now I am writing you for information concerning a snake which I saw at the Waukegan Gun club grounds a few days ago.

"In removing the cover from a small pit in which we have a pulling stand, we noticed a small snake that had fallen into the pit. It was a little over two feet long. Its back was a mottled brown with some patches much darker than others.

"But this is the important part: When we touched it with a stick it moved its tail so rapidly there was a distinct buzzing sound or rattle and when the tail came in contact with an empty paper shell box in the pit, it sounded like a machine gun.

He Had No Rattles.

"After getting the snake out of the pit we held its head with a stick to examine its tail, but we found no rattles. Now, the question is, what kind of a snake is this? It acts like a rattlesnake."

This, undoubtedly, was a fox snake, the best little bluffer among reptiles that we know of. They buzz their tails and make you think they are rattlers. However, the fox snake is harmless. He's gentle, packs no venom, and actually makes a nice pet—if you like snakes.

TED ROSS BOXES BAKER TONIGHT IN 8 ROUND BOUT

Ted Ross, South Chicago middleweight, will meet Billy Baker tonight in the eight round main event at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

Ross is one of the outstanding fighters developed in the south section. Ted has had several great fights in local arenas, notably those with Shuffle Callahan and Gary Leach. He has trained quite steadily throughout the summer and is at good fighting weight for his fall debut tonight. Duffy plans to match the winner with Ray Trambile.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

MAROON FOOTBALL.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I received your note saying you thought I better go out to Stagg field Saturday and see what the Maroons look like against Hillsdale and Cornell [Iowa]. Then I looked at the paper and saw where a lot of the Maroons will be sitting on the bench Saturday because of injuries and ineligibilities and, maybe, Stagg would have trouble finding enough players for two elevens.

So, Arch, if that happens it will be a great story and we ought to have a photograph of Stagg ready—maybe that one where he is washing dishes on his anniversary would do. You see I figure if there aren't enough Maroons, Stagg will have to play himself. "The Old Man"—only he wasn't "The Old Man" then—did that back in 1892, his first year on the Midway, when there weren't enough players to go round and the other team had no objection before the game, but didn't think so well of their condescension after the game. At that, I think Stagg's still as good as some of his candidates.

Now, of course, I don't exactly see why Chicago plays two elevens on one day, unless it is sheer bravado. It was tried last year in the opener, and the Maroons didn't win another game all season, although they did tie Mississippi and Princeton. Well, last year they beat Ripon, 19 to 0, and then had to be extended to down Hillsdale, 7 to 6, and Hillsdale has back most of the boys who played last year.

Perhaps it doesn't interest you so much what the Maroons did last year, but if Stagg plays Saturday I still think it's a good "human interest" story. Please leave a press stand ticket for me. Regards.

P. S.—Since you told me to hold my exp. acct. down, I wondered whether I had better drive and charge you for parking space and gasoline, or go on the train. The latter would be slightly less expensive, but it would take more time. However, it isn't for me to say whether gasoline or my time is more valuable to the department.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Defeating the Yankees, 3 to 2, in today's game here, the Washington Senators increased their grasp on second place to a game and a half. The rivals for runner-up honors play a single game Friday and a double header Saturday.

The Senators bunched three hits with an error by Pitcher Vernon Gomez to score all three runs in the sixth inning. Gomez gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh and Pipgras finished. Score:

STOEFEN WHIPS WILMER ALLISON IN COAST MEET

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Four startling reversals today marked early rounds in the Pacific southwest tennis championships.

Lester Stoefen, 19 year old Los Angeles youth, whipped the No. 8 seeded singles star, Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., 6-2, 7-5, and teamed with Jack Tidball, also of Los Angeles, to rout the fourth ranking doubles team of Fred Perry and George Hughes, English Davis cup stars, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Another upset came in the men's doubles quarter-finals when Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., were defeated by George Lott of Philadelphia and Sidney Wood, New York.

Wood earlier had lost to Keith Gledhill, national intercollegiate champion from Santa Barbara, 6-3, 6-3.

ADD ROOT, CUBS TO DILEMMA OF 8TH PLACE SOX

Bush Still Seeks Answer for City Series.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox probably will be delighted when somebody buys them a ticket and tells them to go back home and dig in for the winter. Here they are in eighth place without a chance to emerge after ten straight defeats in the east. Now they have nothing more to contemplate than the Cubs, who, after the ousting of Hack Wilson, awakened to their real worth and showed it by winning eleven out of thirteen decisions.

If what the Cubs have done recently isn't enough to separate the ill fated south siders from what courage still remains, possibly they will be willing to fold up completely and surrender without a fight when they hear that Charley Root is going to tackle them in the opener of the city series next Wednesday. But they won't surrender. The Sox since 1906 have had a habit of forgetting their past sins and doing things in a big way when the Cubs are in the neighborhood. That's what has made the city event exceed the world series in attendance in some years.

There's Root to Remember.

Since it has been proved over a stretch of campaigns that pitching is everything in a limited series, the south side adherents probably will be willing to concede that the situation for their favorites isn't very promising.

Just now Root, one of at least four Cubs who will be entitled to demand a salary boost next winter, is at his season's peak. That's where the Sox probably thought he was when he blanked them on a handful of hits in the charity game of Sept. 9.

Guy Bush is another who by his recent labors must have his own ideas about next year's salary, the so-called depression notwithstanding. Bush is to pitch in the second game against the Sox, according to plans already formulated by Manager Hornsby. Then, after facing that pair for better or worse, the American leaguers will have only Bob Smith and Pat Malone to worry about in the next two meetings.

Hurling Dropped Sox.

When you speak of the Sox pitchers you immediately think of eighth place. That's what put them there. Last spring it looked as if Bush would have pitchers and nothing else, but the boys lost no time developing ailments and some of them are still that way.

Ted Lyons developed a kink in his arm. Al Thomas couldn't pitch, although insisting he felt fine. Before the middle of the season Hal McKain hurt his arm and went home. Pat Caraway, who had given promise of being an outstansing southpaw, became a fiend for defeats and leads the league in that respect. Either he lost his stuff or hostile teams wised up to the proper timing of his freak delivery. There you have nothing remaining from what should have been a good four man staff.

Lyons, in the last couple of weeks, has improved enough to indicate that he'll start in the series, mainly out of necessity. Thomas also may start. It will be recalled that the last time he faced the Cubs he forgot his ailments and produced a beautiful exhibition. The Sox's only hope—on paper—appears to be that both these fellows turn in a winning game.

Frasier, Faber Bush's Best.

All that Bush really can count on is Vic Frasier and the venerable Red Faber. Frasier, if he does

CHICAGO STOCKS SHOW ADVANCES IN BRISK TRADE

Utility Issues Receive Most of Attention.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A swift change in sentiment developed in the trading community yesterday in the wake of the rapidly moving events of the last few days and a vigorous bidding for stocks advanced prices of all classes of securities. The Chicago Stock exchange followed the example of the New York market in removing the ban on short selling, but fears that heavy liquidation would appear were soon dispelled as a brisk covering movement developed.

The upturn in prices was more than a technical market development. La Salle street placed a decidedly bullish construction on the wage readjustments announced by the leading industries. Commodity markets also showed a better tone and the absence of any disturbing news in connection with the reopening of the London exchange helped sentiment materially. Announcement of the realignment of interests in the Transamerica corporation was also favorably interpreted in financial circles.

Trading Is Active.

Trading continued active, with total transactions reaching the previous day's mark of 150,000 shares. Better prices ruled in all groups, with the utility stocks receiving most of the attention.

In some shares which have been the targets of heavy selling recently price recoveries were sharp. In most instances, however, the gains were confined to a point or so. Commonwealth Edison rallied 2 to close at 161½, and Public Service no par stock climbed 5 points. U. S. Radio recovered over 2 points from its low of the day and held most of its gain.

Insull Issues Gain.

Middle West and Insull Utility advanced 1 and 1½ respectively. Martin J. Insull, president of Middle West Utilities, announced after the close of the market that the electricity output of the company showed the eighth consecutive monthly gain during August. Exclusive of operations of properties acquired during the year, the output of the company showed a gain of 6.3 per cent in August over the corresponding month of 1930. Each month this year the improvement over the corresponding month of 1930 has been increasing, Mr. Insull stated. The trend has continued during September, with the third week showing the best gain of any week this year, he added.

Directors of Middle West yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the common stock, payable Nov. 16 to holders of record Oct. 15.

Declines were chalked up for a few issues which were not drawn into the selling earlier in the week. Among these stocks were Art Metal, Marks preferred, and A. M. Castle.

RAILROAD WAGE CUT OF 10 PCT. IS PREDICTED

BY O. A. MATHER.

Reduction of wages by the railroads now is freely predicted as the next major move in the economics of the present deflation period. It is expected to take much the same course as did the cutting of wages in the steel industry, namely, reduction of dividends of stockholders and salaries of official personnel, tentative discussion of the necessity for cutting wages, insistent reports of such reductions, and, finally, the reductions.

The Chicago financial district yesterday indulged in considerable gossip along this line. It was pointed out that the railroads already have taken steps of reducing dividends and salaries and that the discussions of wage reductions are at hand. Most railroad officials and financiers do not expect to win the blanket 15 per cent freight rate increase now being sought before the interstate commerce commission. Most opinion is that increases which may average around 5 per cent may be granted.

Expect Wage Cut.

It is the consensus that, with the rate hearings finished and the issue decided, the railroads will seek to put into effect a 10 per cent reduction in wages. Just how soon such a move would become effective is problematical. The railroads will first urge on the railroad labor unions that such a reduction be accepted voluntarily, otherwise a number of months must elapse while arbitration hearings are held and eventually the issue decided before the interstate commerce commission.

An example of the present tentative discussion concerning a reduction in railroad wages is contained in one of the mid-week steel trade reviews, which last summer also joined in the preliminary discussion of wage reductions in the steel industry.

How to Inevitable.

"In announcing a cut of 10 per cent in common labor rates," the Iron Age says, "steel producers bowed to the inevitable after weathering two years of deficit operations. In finally recognizing the necessity of cutting the cost to fit the cloth, they have set a precedent which, it is believed, the railroads must follow, whether they obtain partial relief through rate advances or not. Railroad buying programs are extremely slow in developing and it seems unlikely that they can really get under way until the rate and wage questions are settled."

The question was discussed from another point of view yesterday by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He said wage reductions had been considered instead of a freight rate increase, but it was decided lower wages could not be made effective in time to help in the present emergency.

He said that it was his hope that wage reductions would not be necessary, but he called attention to the fact that in 1920 the railroads had 1,800,000 employes, whereas there are now only 1,300,000, a reduction of 35 per cent.

Regarding the present situation of the iron and steel industry, the reviews report some slackening in the last week.

Demand Subsides.

"Iron and steel demand has subsided to the August level and ingot production has receded from 30 per cent to 29 per cent of capacity," Iron Age says. "Prospective business in some directions, notably in public construction work, is still fairly promising but in other lines and particularly the automobile industry, the outlook has become increasingly obscure.

"Iron and steel inventories in buyers' hands are very low, but they are ample under present conditions and probably will remain so until there is a revival of demand based on expanding ultimate consumption. It is clear that government undertakings and public utility projects, helpful as they are in supporting current output, cannot fill the gap left by sharply curtailed purchases of the country at large."

Realty Comeback Seen as Hinging on Finance Methods

BY SCRUTATOR.

A comeback for real estate awaits not so much a return of confidence in the value of Chicago property as it does the finding of a satisfactory means of financing.

Values are there, but they will not be reflected in market prices and turnover will be limited until the debris of the recent orgy of speculation is cleared away and a new system of credit evolved—one that will offer reasonable safeguards for the investor's money.

A return to something more nearly approaching normal in the real estate business may not be as slow in coming as many seem to believe. New laws have been passed facilitating the reorganization of distressed properties. Bondholders are giving up the idea of selling out and are taking over buildings in default instead of tossing them on an overloaded market. And new building has been at a standstill for more than two years.

Most important of all, people with money to invest are becoming aware that many properties are to be had at bargain prices and that the buyer is in a position to write his own ticket.

System Not at Fault.

Financing by splitting mortgages into small bits and selling them as real estate gold bonds is likely to be doomed for some time. The odium attached to the numerous issues of this kind that enabled shoestring builders to exploit the public has obscured the fact that such a method has been very successful when arranged on a sound, conservative basis and that it was not the system but the way in which it was used that was grievously at fault.

If the old system has been killed by the abuses that crept into it during the period of inflation then a new method of supplying credit must be found. The success of any real estate financing plan depends to a large extent upon management. The failures under the gold bond system have been largely due to poor management.

One new experiment already set in motion in the metropolitan Chicago area is that of the Chicago Income Trust, managed by the Bills corporations.

Here the investor buys not bonds, but beneficial interest in a common law trust set up to deal in and manage improved real estate.

How Capitalized.

Capitalization is divided into A, B, and C certificates in equal proportion. A trustee bank acts as custodian for all funds and properties in the trust. The class A certificates are preferred as to assets and no distribution of profits may be made to the other classes until holders of the class A have received back the full amount of their original investment plus 25 per cent. Then the trust is owned equally by the B and C certificate holders.

The B certificates are sold along with the A certificates to the public as a unit. The C interests are held by the management.

At least 20 per cent of the money invested is kept in a liquid reserve fund invested in high grade marketable bonds. Against this reserve fund holders of class A certificates may borrow at any time up to 60 per cent of the par value of their certificates.

The remaining eighty per cent of the trust is invested in income producing real estate selected by the management after appraisals by its own and two disinterested appraisers. All investment and rental income, as well as profit from resales, must be applied to the redemption of the class A certificates until all have been retired.

No Fixed Return.

The investor is promised no fixed return on his money, but he is assured the return of his principal when, as and if covered by profits and income and after that his proportionate share of equity in half of any further profits.

NEW YORK BOND MART GAIN SPECTACULAR; FOREIGN ISSUES UP

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The bond market advanced in spectacular fashion today. Sales on the stock exchange aggregated $17,077,000, the largest total for a full session since Oct. 10, 1930.

The upturn in foreign obligations was even more marked than in the domestic issues. Net advances in German loans generally ranged from 5 to 9 points. Silesia Electric 6½s made the largest jump of its group, with a net gain of 13¾ points. A number of Argentine bonds closed about 7 points higher, although the 5s of 1945 and the 5½s of 1962 dropped severely. United Kingdom 5½s touched par for the first time since the toboggan of last Saturday.

Net gains of 1 to 9½ points were scored by such active and diversified issues as Alleghany 5s of 1950, American and Foreign Power 5s, American Telephone 5s of 1965, Baltimore and Ohio 4½s of 1933, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s, Rock Island 4s of 1934, Atchison general 4s, St. Paul 5s of 2000 and of 1975, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, New York Central new 4½s of 2013, and Philadelphia Electric 4s of 1971. Liberty and United States treasury loans eased off.

New System of Electric Accounting to Be Shown

A show depicting department store accounting of the future will be given tonight before the midwest group of the controllers' congress of the National Retail Dry Goods association in the Palmer house. Russell H. White, technologist, will demonstrate a new electrically controlled system which has been invented in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The invention is called Central Records. According to Mr. White, the new system is a mechanism which transmits any or all of the data contained on one or more punched cards to one or more recording locations. This is done either in the form of a printed tabulation or in the form of a punched card or both.

All accounting functions are automatic in Central Records, Mr. White declared. No sales checks are required, no cash registers are necessary, and no cash or credit tube system is needed, he said.

Report Britain Has Taken Up Last of 400 Million Credit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—The last of the American share in the $400,000,000 credit extended to the British treasury by France and the United States was called for on Monday, it was learned on good authority today.

The call amounted to about $120,000,000, or 60 per cent of the American total. That the credit to England had been used up was generally believed on Monday when sterling dropped in the world's markets to a low of $3.71, but no definite information on the subject had been given out by bankers or the British treasury. In his speech in the house of commons on Monday, Chancellor Snowden hinted that the credit had been almost exhausted.

The American share in the credit amounted to $200,000,000. Almost immediately, or early this month, the British treasury called for 40 per cent. On Saturday last the remaining 60 per cent was called for and, it is understood, the participating banks paid the $120,000,000 into the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. Monday. The British treasury thereupon made available to the American bankers in London British treasury certificates to the equivalent of the amount of the credit.

Believed Britain Asked Gold.

For a time it was believed that the British treasury had asked the American bankers to purchase gold with the $120,000,000, to be earmarked and kept here at the Federal Reserve bank.

The announcement last night by the Federal Reserve bank that $116,600,000 of American gold had been earmarked for a foreign power seemed to confirm this belief. But today, on good authority, it was learned that the gold was not for the account of Great Britain.

There is ample reason for the belief that the increase on Monday and yesterday of $116,600,000 in the amount of gold "earmarked" at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was due to operations of the Bank of France alone.

The reason is found in the fact that the French bank has reduced its holdings of bills held abroad by $129,000,000 in the five weeks since Aug. 14. This probably has been accomplished by allowing its foreign bill holdings to mature without renewing the investment in new bills.

Action by France.

This procedure has resulted in an increase of $146,000,000 in its sight balances held abroad since Aug. 14. The Bank of France must have held these balances on deposit in foreign banks, probably in New York, until this week.

Of course, there is a question whether all this transfer of funds from foreign bills in credits at foreign banks took place in New York. The purchase of $116,600,000 in gold to be held under earmark in the reserve bank here this week indicates that it did take place here.

The difference between the amount of gold earmarked and the $146,000,000 derived by the Bank of France from the closing out of some of its foreign bill holdings might indicate that the bank still has about $30,000,000 in sight balances here which may be employed to earmark more gold.

Prior to Aug. 14, the French bank had been reducing its holdings of bills in New York and had transferred the proceeds to deposits in the New York reserve bank, substantially increasing that item. Since Aug. 14 these deposits have increased by only $17,000,000, showing that the French bank had virtually stopped making them.

GIANNINI OPENS FIGHT TO HALT BANK CHAIN SALE

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Firing his second verbal broadside at the new Transamerica plan, A. P. Giannini declared late today he would throw his full force into the fight to prevent disposal of the giant Californit banking chain, Bank of America, at a "ridiculously low" price.

Giannini in his statement urged stockholders not to dump their Transamerica shares. He said:

"I am not fully informed about the latest developments, but I wish to emphasize what I said Tuesday—it appears to me to be a useless sacrifice of values for those who are not forced to sell their Transamerica stock to dispose of it at present levels.

"Such a procedure can only prove disadvantageous to all of the stockholders and would enable the enemies of the corporation to accomplish their purpose, which obviously is to secure the control of these valuable properties at present ridiculously low levels.

"Intrinsically the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, which has a normal capacity earning, even in these days of worldwide depression, in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 a month, is alone worth much more than the present market value of all Transamerica stock, without taking into consideration the many other extremely valuable properties it owns."

Silver Prices Continue to Advance in New York

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Silver prices and currencies based on that metal continued to advance today. Bar silver at New York was quoted at 29½ cents an ounce, up ⅞ of a cent from yesterday's final level, the highest since July 3, and 2 cents under the year's high, established March 16. Today's advance in the metal more than canceled yesterday's reaction of ⅝ of a cent, which followed a gain of 1½ cents Monday.

American Ice Co. Cuts Common Stock Dividend

Reduction of its common dividend to enable the company to improve its cash position and provide funds for extension of its business was announced yesterday by the American Ice company. Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common, payable Oct. 26 on the stock of record of Oct. 2. This places the stock on a $2 annual basis against $3 previously.

Burlington Road to Effect Big Train Mile Saving

A saving of approximately 600,000 passenger train miles a year without any impairment of the service will be effected with a new time card on the Burlington railroad system Sunday, according to Passenger Traffic Manager A. Cotsworth Jr. of that company. The saving will be accomplished largely by consolidations.

MONEY MARKETS EYE BRITISH POUND; CLOSES IN NEW YORK AT $4.11

The action of the British pound continues to hold the attention of the world money markets where stabilization is anxiously awaited. In comparison with its close on Saturday of $4.8562 the sterling exchange yesterday was last quoted in New York at $4.11 after fluctuating between $4.09 and $4.15. This was its steadiest day since announcement was made Sunday night that Great Britain was to suspend the gold standard.

The lowest price quoted in the excitement on Monday following the announcement was $3.75. During the day it whipped about uncertainly to close at $4.22½. In Paris, Monday found the pound early in the day bringing 100 at the opening in contrast with the 123.86 price at the close Saturday. Later it firmed up to 108.

On Tuesday the sterling exchange closed at $4.19, making yesterday's price 8 cents lower than the previous close. It has been predicted in London that stabilization will ultimately place the pound at about $4.40.

Pixley & Ehler's Sales Reported in Big Gain

Albert J. Pixley, president of Pixley & Ehlers, Chicago chain of thirteen restaurants, yesterday reported that the number of customers served by his organization during the first six months of 1931 exceeded by 21.2 per cent the number served during the same period of 1930. Furthermore, the total sales for the period from January through June of 1931 were 14.8 per cent ahead of sales in the same months of 1930.

"We believe business conditions are steadily improving," he said. "During the first six months of 1931 we spent 66 2-3 per cent more on newspaper advertising than we did in the same period of the previous year."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—Electric output in the United States for the week ended Sept. 19 totaled 1,662,660,000 k. w. h., a decrease of 3.4 per cent from the 1,722,059,000 k. w. h. in the corresponding week of 1930. For the two weeks ended Sept. 12 output was 4.1 per cent below the corresponding 1930 period.

GRAIN MARKETS DEVELOP MORE CHEERFUL TONE

Large Part of Early Advances Held.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A much more optimistic feeling prevailed in grain circles yesterday and in addition to talk of general inflation in the price of agricultural commodities the strength in the stock market gave buyers more confidence, with the result that prices for all grains advanced rather sharply and a good part of the upturn was maintained at the last.

The talk of price inflation as the result of depreciation in European money had considerable influence in cotton as well as in the grain markets. The inflation theory apparently was the result of comment by government officials at Washington on the prospects of future business with Europe.

At no time yesterday were the active deliveries of wheat below the finish of the previous day, the relative strength in the Liverpool market having some effect, and there was also considerable closing of spreads between the local markets and between Chicago and Liverpool, the buying being done here. Houses with eastern connections were also good buyers of futures, while the bulge was checked by selling against offers and by scattered longs.

Wheat Closes at Top.

Wheat prices held within a relatively narrow range, and there were not the hysterical fluctuations which have featured the market for several days. Closing trades were at practically the top, with net gains of ⅝@1c, with September finishing at 48½c; December, 49¼c, and May, 53⅛c.

Grain traders did not have to contend with the violent changes in the exchange rate so much in evidence Monday and Tuesday, sterling holding around the same figures during the time the Board of Trade was open as the finish of the previous day. Liverpool closed ⅜@½c higher in American currency, with the December selling about 54⅜c at the last, while Winnipeg was easier on hedging operations and also a betterment in the exchange rate. Winnipeg closed ⅝@1⅛c lower. December there was 54⅜c per bu in Canadian currency and about 51½c in American, the latter comparing with about 52c on Saturday, the day before England abandoned the gold standard. Canadian exchange was quoted at 6½ per cent discount.

No rain of consequence was received in western Kansas where the soil remains too dry for seeding to make rapid progress.

September Corn Weakens.

Scattered liquidation was in evidence in September corn early with a drop to 38⅜c, a new low for the season, but there was a good class of buying on the break, headed by cash interests, and the close was 39@39⅛c or the same as on Tuesday. Deliveries of cash corn during the day aggregated 1,618,000 bu. New crop months, while easing slightly early with the September, turned strong later on local and commission house buying and closed ⅝@⅞c higher, with December, 37⅝@37½c, and May, 41½c. At one time the nearby future was only 1⅛c over the December, the smallest difference in some weeks.

Damage to the new corn crop in Nebraska by the recent dry and hot weather is estimated at about 10,000,000 bu by the midmonth crop report for that state, a yield of 17.5 bu per acre being estimated, compared with 18.5 by the government Sept. 1 returns. On this basis the yield would be around 175,000,000 bu against 247,000,000 bu harvested in 1930.

Oats were dull early, but firmed up later on local buying induced by the strength in other grains and finished unchanged to ⅛c higher, the former on September, which closed at 21¼c, while December was 23½c, and May, 26⅝@26½c.

Rye showed relatively more strength than wheat and closed ⅞@1¼c higher, with September, 37⅞c; December, 39¼c, and May, 41⅝c. Locals were the best buyers on the way up.

Receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 27,000.

The market for cattle and hogs lost its keen edge yesterday and all interests were in search of bargains in all branches. Hogs finished in a rather dazy break, while closing sales of steers exhibited less weakness than those during the first half of the day. The quality of lambs was purest of the year, resulting in a better demand for top kinds at slightly higher prices, while others ruled weak to 25 cents lower.

Top hogs slipped back to $5.80, and to the recent low spot since 1931, while the general average came down 10 cents at $5.25, the two prices closing the narrowest spread in recent years for this season. Shipping sales were among the smallest on record for Wednesday, and with lightweight hogs comprising more than 40 per cent of the total arrivals, stock weighing 200 pounds and lighter suffered most on the 10@25c break.

Culls, heavyweights and pigs were almost unsalable except at $5.00 and under. The peak of $5.80 was paid for prime 210@250 lb averages, while smaller packers and city butchers obtained about 1,600, averaging 190@225 lbs, at $5.65@5.75. Later in the day larger loads bought 5,400 medium to good 190@210 lb averages at $5.25@5.45. About 6,000 hogs were estimated left of the close.

October Hogs Bid $5.00.

Heavy grades of hogs carried bids of $5.00 on the futures market yesterday, but no offers to sell were made. December mediums were offered at $5.50 and bid $4.50, while buyers and sellers were closer to a trading basis in heavy grades when offers were lowered to $5.00 and bids raised to $4.75.

After some haggling over prices buyers were able to shave quotations in the cattle yards as much as 10@ 15c in many places, but bulk of good steers were carried through the first part of the day when prices were lowered and changed hands at almost steady prices later. The extreme top at $10.35, paid for stock from an Indiana feed lot, showed only 5c loss. The bulk of best steers sold at $6.50@ 8.75, lower grade steers of beef merit going at $4.75@5.00. Cows and heifers were dull and weak, some medium grades showing 15@25c loss. Calves, however, held steady in spite of buyers' attempts to reduce quotations. Stockers and feeders met slow demand at weaker prices.

Many Feeders at $5.00.

Demands of feeding lambs are gone through the $5.00 line lately and only fancy handy weights of the black face variety are eligible to the $5.25@5.40. Many shipments into corn belt feed lots carry $4.50@4.75 feeder, but stock within this range lack quality and many of them are forced into packers' hands and slaughtered, due to the narrower country outlet for the pogger kinds.

Receipts are running among the largest on record and many in the trade believe that marketing is at its peak for the season, but reports from the range indicate that plenty of native stock will be available for another month. Quality is much below average for this time of year due to depletion of range supplies. Natives are being held back. Almost 10 per cent of sheep receipts this week were from the western ranges. A cut in production is the only remedy for the sheep business," said H. W. Wayman, a big Montana producer of bovine stock, who predicts a 15 per cent cut in next year's crop on the range. He marketed about half share of his breeding stock at Chicago this week. Fat range lambs of choice quality sold yesterday at $5.25@5.50, while several decks of natives, which were scarce, sold at $5.10 to city butchers and at $4.50 to packers.
